WILSON BRINGS HOME THE WORLD'S MESSAGE OF CONFIDENCE AND RELIANCE ON AMERICA; ASKS, SHALL WE DISAPPOINT THAT HOPE?

LEOPOLD JAILED IN MUNICH PLOT; ORDER RESTORED

MANY NOBLES ARRESTED

List of Persons to be Murdered by Reactionaries Said to Have Been Found.

BADEN MOB RAIDS CASTLE

GENEVA, Feb. 24.—Prince Leopold, former Commander in Chief of the German armies on the Russian front, has been imprisoned at Munich on suspicion of being one of the instigators of the murder of Premier Eisner.

A list of the persons to be assassinated by the reactionaries is said to have been found. It is asserted that it has been decided to take twenty hostages from among the aristocracy.

All the students in the university have been searched.

A provisional Ministry has been constituted, consisting of nine members, instead of eight. Among the Ministers is Professor Friedrich Förster of the University of Munich. It is said that the Landtag will reassemble shortly, but outside of Munich.

The Berne Committee of Bavarians has voted an annual pension of 10,000 marks to the widow of Eisner.

Police Seeking Rupprecht.

PARIS, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who was the German commander on the northern sector of the western front in the final stages of the war, is reported to have been at the head of a monarchical plot that resulted in the assassination of Premier Eisner. The ex-Crown Prince is being sought by the police.

It is recalled that the last words of Rupprecht when he was leaving Belgian soil to escape into Holland were:

"I do not recognize the Bavarian Republic. I renounce and abdicate nothing."

A dispatch received from Basle by the Havas Agency today says that perfect calm prevails in Munich, and that order had been assured by the proletariat of all shades.

Tomorrow a congress of the Federation, which under the auspices of the Central Council is to form a new Government purely of Socialists, will meet.

The dispatch adds that the general strike ended this afternoon, and that all the workmen will resume work tomorrow. They will, however, suspend their labors on Wednesday for the funeral of Eisner.

Many Aristocrats Arrested.

BERLIN, Feb. 23, (Associated Press.)—A large number of members of the Bavarian aristocracy have been arrested on suspicion of having been connected with Count Arco Valley, who killed Premier Eisner, according to advices from Munich. The Socialist Government continues to search the residences of members of the former royal house and of the nobility.

According to unconfirmed reports a list of conspirators was discovered in the home of Count Arco Valley. A former Bavarian Prince is said to have been among those arrested as a result of the discovery.

The spot where Eisner was killed is banked high with flowers and wreaths and a large portrait of the dead Premier has been set up there. Enormous crowds went to the spot yesterday to pay silent honor to the slain leader.

Conditions in Munich have settled down into a fair measure of order and temporary political stability, with which the Ebert Government for the present apparently does not intend to interfere, although the decision to incorporate in the Bavarian Government representatives of the Workmen's, Peasants', and Soldiers' Councils, it is believed, contains elements of future political conflict.

Such an arrangement is opposed to the provision in the new German Con-

Text of President Wilson's Speech in Boston

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—The text of President Wilson's address here today follows:

Governor Coolidge, Mr. Mayor, Fellow-Citizens: I wonder if you are half as glad to see me as I am to see you. It warms my heart to see a great body of my fellow-citizens again, because, in some respects, during the recent months I have been very lonely indeed without your comradeship and counsel; and I tried at every step of the work which fell to me to recall what I was sure would be your counsel with regard to the great matters which were under consideration.

I do not want you to think that I have not been appreciative of the extraordinarily generous reception which was given to me on the other side in saying that it makes me very happy to get home again. I do not mean to say that I was not very deeply touched by the cries that came from the great crowds on the other side. But I want to say to you in all honesty that I felt them to be a call of greeting to you rather than to me.

I did not feel that the greeting was personal. I had in my heart the over-crowning pride of being your representative and of receiving the plaudits of men everywhere who felt that your hearts beat with theirs in the cause of liberty. There was no mistaking the tone in the voices of those great crowds. It was not a tone of mere greeting, it was not a tone of mere generous welcome; it was the calling of comrade to comrade, the cries that come from men who say, "We have waited for this day, when the friends of liberty should come across the sea and shake hands with us, to see that a new world was constructed upon a new basis and foundation of justice and right."

I can't tell you the inspiration that came from the sentiments that came out of those simple voices of the crowd. And the proudest thing I have to report to you is that this great country of ours is trusted throughout the world.

Servants of Their Peoples.

I have not come to report the proceedings or the results of the proceedings of the Peace Conference; that would be premature. I can say that I have received very happy impressions from this conference; the impression that, while there are many differences of judgment, while there are some divergences of object, there is, nevertheless, a common spirit and a common realization of the necessity of setting up new standards of right in the world.

Because the men who are in conference in Paris realize as keenly as any American can realize that they are not the masters of their people; that they are the servants of their people, and that the spirit of their people has awakened to a new purpose and a new conception of their power to realize that purpose, and that no man dare go home from that conference and report anything less noble than was expected of it.

The conference seems to you to go slowly; from day to day in Paris it seems to go slowly; but I wonder if you realize the complexity of the task which it has undertaken. It seems as if the settlements of this war affect, and affect directly, every great, and I sometimes think every small, nation in the world, and no one decision can prudently be made which is not properly linked in with the great series of other decisions which must accompany it, and it must be reckoned in with the final result if the real quality and character of that result is to be properly judged.

What we are doing is to hear the whole case; hear it from the mouths of the men most interested; hear it from those who are officially commissioned to state it; hear the rival claims; hear the claims that affect new nationalities, that affect new areas of the world, that affect new commercial and economic connections that have been established by the great world war through which we have gone. And I have been struck by the moderateness of those who have represented national claims. I can testify that I have nowhere seen the gleam of passion. I have seen earnestness, I have seen tears come to the eyes of men who plead for downtrodden people whom they were privileged to speak for; but they were not the tears of anguish, they were the tears of ardent hope.

And I don't see how any man can fail to have been subdued by these pleas, subdued to this feeling, that he was not there to assert an individual judgment of his own but to try to assist the cause of humanity.

None Suspects United States.

And, in the midst of it all, every interest seeks out, first of all, when it reaches Paris, the representatives of the United States. Why? Because—and I think I am stating the most wonderful fact in history—because there is no nation in Europe that suspects the motives of the United States.

Was there ever so wonderful a thing seen before? Was there ever so moving a thing? Was there ever any fact that so bound the nation that had won that esteem forever to deserve it?

I would not have you understand that the great men who represent the other nations there in conference are disesteemed by those who know them. Quite the contrary. But you understand that the nations of Europe have again and again clashed with one another in competitive interest. It is impossible for men to forget those sharp issues that were drawn between them in times past. It is impossible for men to believe that all ambitions have all of a sudden been foregone. They remember territory that was coveted; they remember rights that it was attempted to extort; they remember political ambitions which it was attempted to realize, and, while they believe that men have come into a different temper, they cannot forget these things, and so they do not resort to one another for a dispassionate view of the matters in controversy. They resort to that nation which has won the enviable distinction of being regarded as the friend of mankind.

Whenever it is desired to send a small force of soldiers to occupy a piece of territory where it is thought nobody else will be welcome, they ask for American soldiers. And where other soldiers would be looked upon with suspicion and perhaps met with resistance, the American soldier is welcomed with acclaim.

I have had so many grounds for pride on the other side of the water that I am very thankful that they are not grounds for personal pride, but for national pride. If they were grounds for personal pride, I'd be the most stuck-up man in the world.

And it has been an infinite pleasure to me to see those gallant soldiers of ours, of whom the Constitution of the United States made me the proud commander. You may be proud of the 26th Division, but I commanded the 26th Division, and see what they did under my direction! And everybody praises the American soldier, with the feeling that in praising him he is subtracting from the credit of no one else.

They Saw America Acted Ideals.

I have been searching for the fundamental fact that converted Europe to believe in us. Before this war, Europe did not believe in us as she does now. She did not believe in us throughout the first three years of the war. She seems really to have believed that we were holding off because we thought we could make more by staying out than by going in. And, all of a sudden, in a short eighteen months, the whole verdict is reversed. There can be but one explanation for it. They saw what we did—that, without making a single claim, we put all our men and all our means at the disposal of those who were fighting for their homes, in the first instance, but for a cause, the cause of human rights and justice, and that we went in, not to support their national claims, but to support the great cause which they held in common. And when they saw that America not only held ideals, but acted ideals, they were converted to America and became firm partisans of those ideals.

I met a group of scholars when I was in Paris—some gentlemen from one of the Greek universities who had come to see me, and in whose presence, or rather in the presence of whose traditions of learning I felt very young indeed. I told them that I had one of the delightful revenges that sometimes come to a man. All my life I had heard men speak with a sort of condescension of ideals and of idealists, and particularly those separated, encloistered persons whom they choose to term academic, who were in the habit of uttering ideals in the free atmosphere, when they clash with nobody in particular.

And I said I have had this sweet revenge: speaking with perfect frankness, in the name of the people of the United States, I have uttered as the objects of this great war ideals, and nothing but ideals, and the war has been won by that inspiration. Men were fighting with tense muscles and lowered head until they came to realize those things, feeling they were fighting for their lives and their country, and when these accents of what it was all about reached them from America, they lifted their heads, they raised their eyes to heaven, when they saw men in khaki coming across the sea in the spirit of crusaders, and they found that these were strange men, reckless of danger not only, but reckless because they seemed to see something that made that danger worth while. Men have testified to me in Europe that our men were possessed by something that they could only call a religious fervor. They were not like any of the other soldiers. They had a vision, they had a dream, and they were fighting in the dream, and, fighting in the dream, they turned the whole tide of battle, and it never came back.

One of our American humorists, meeting the criticism that American soldiers were not trained long enough, said: "It takes only half as long to train an American soldier as any other, because you only have to train him to go one way." And he did only go one way, and he never came back until he could do it when he pleased.

Heart of Europe Full of Hope.

And now do you realize that this confidence we have established throughout the world imposes a burden upon us, if you choose to call it a burden. It is one of those burdens which any nation ought to be proud to carry. Any man who resists the present tides that run in the world will find himself thrown upon a shore so high and barren that it will seem as if he had been separated from his human kind forever.

The Europe that I left the other day was full of something that it had never felt fill its heart so full before. It was full of hope. The Europe of the second year of the war, the Europe of the third year of the war, was sinking to a sort of stubborn desperation. They did not see any great thing to be achieved, even when the war should be won. They hoped there would be some salvage; they hoped that they could clear their territories of invading armies; they hoped they could set up their homes and start their industries afresh. But they thought it would simply be the resumption of the old life that Europe had led—led in fear, led in anxiety, led in constant suspicious watchfulness. They never dreamed that it would be a Europe of settled peace and of justified hope.

And now these ideals have wrought this new magic, that all the peoples of Europe are buoyed up and confident in the spirit of hope, because they believe that we are at the eve of a new age in the world, when nations will understand one another, when nations will support one another in every just cause, when nations will unite every moral and every physical strength to see that the right shall prevail.

If America were at this juncture to fail the world, what would come of it? I do not mean any disrespect to any other great people when I say that America is the hope of the world; and if she does not justify that hope, the results are unthinkable. Men will be thrown back upon the bitterness of disappointment not only, but the bitterness of despair. All nations will be set up as hostile camps again; the men at the Peace Conference will go home with their heads upon their breasts, knowing that they have failed—for they were bidden not to come home from there until they did something more than sign a treaty of peace.

Suppose we sign the treaty of peace and that it is the most satisfactory treaty of peace that the confusing elements of the modern world will afford, and go home and think about our labors, we will know that we have left written upon the historic table at Versailles, upon which Vergennes and Benjamin Franklin wrote their names, nothing but a modern scrap of paper; no nations united to defend it, no great forces combined to make it good, no assurance given to the downtrodden and fearful people of the world that they shall be safe.

Test the Sentiments of the Nation.

Any man who thinks that America will take part in giving the world any such rebuff and disappointment as that does not know America. I invite him to test the sentiments of the nation. We set this up to make men free, and we did not confine our conception and purpose to America, and now we will make men free. If we did not do that, the fame of America would be gone, and all her powers would be dissipated. She then would have to keep her power for those narrow, selfish, provincial purposes which seem so dear to some minds that have no sweep beyond the nearest horizon.

I should welcome no sweeter challenge than that. I have fighting blood in me, and it is sometimes a delight to let it have scope, but if it is a challenge on this occasion it will be an indulgence. Think of the picture, think of the utter blackness that would fall on the world. America has failed! America made a little essay at generosity, and then withdrew. America said, "We are your friends," but it was only for today, not for tomorrow. America said, "Here is our power to vindicate right," and then the next day said, "Let right take care of itself, and we will take care of ourselves." America said, "We set up a light to lead men along the paths of liberty, but we have lowered it; it is intended only to light our own path." We set up a great ideal of liberty, and then we said: "Liberty is a thing that you must win for yourself. Do not call upon us."

And think of the world that we would leave. Do you realize how many new nations are going to be set up in the presence of old and powerful nations in Europe, and left there, if left by us, without a disinterested friend?

Do you believe in the Polish cause, as I do? Are you going to set up Poland, immature, inexperienced, as yet unorganized, and leave her with a circle of armies around her? Do you believe in the aspiration of the Czechoslovaks and the Jugoslavs, as I do? Do you know how many powers would be quick to pounce upon them if there were not the guarantees of the world behind their liberty?

Have you thought of the sufferings of Armenia? You poured out your money to help succor the Armenians after they suffered; now set your strength so that they shall never suffer again.

The arrangements of the present peace cannot stand a generation unless they are guaranteed by the united forces of the civilized world. And, if we do not guarantee them, can you not see the picture? Your hearts have instructed you where the burden of this war fell. It did not fall upon the national treasuries, it did not fall upon the instruments of administration, it did not fall upon the resources of the nation. It fell upon the victims' homes everywhere—where women were toiling in the hope that their men would come back.

When I think of the homes upon which dull despair would settle were this great hope disappointed, I should wish for my part never to have had America play any part whatever in this attempt to emancipate the world. But I talk as if there were any question. I have no more doubt of the verdict of America in this matter than I have doubt of the blood that is in me.

The People Are in the Saddle.

And so, my fellow-citizens, I have come back to report progress, and I do not believe that the progress is going to stop short of the goal. The nations of the world have set their heads now to do a great thing and they are not going to slacken their purpose. And when I speak of the nations of the world I do not speak of the Governments of the world. I speak of the peoples who constitute the nations of the world. They are in the saddle and they are going to see to it that, if their present Governments do not do their will, some other Governments shall. And the secret is out and the present Governments know it.

There is a great deal of harmony to be got out of common knowledge. There is a great deal of sympathy to be got out of living in the same atmosphere; and, except for the differences of languages, which puzzled my American ear very sadly, I could have believed I was at home, in France, or in Italy, or in England, when I was on the streets, when I was in the presence of the crowds, when I was in great halls where men were gathered together irrespective of class. I did not feel quite as much at home there as I do here, but I felt that, now, at any rate, after this storm of war had cleared the air, men were seeing eye to eye everywhere and that these were the kind of folks who would understand what the kind of folks at home would understand and that they were thinking the same things.

I feel about you as I am reminded of a story of that excellent witness and good artist, Oliver Herford, who one day, sitting at luncheon at his club, was slapped vigorously on the back by a man whom he did not know very well. He said: "Oliver, old boy, how are you?" He looked at him rather coldly. He said: "I don't know your name, I don't know your face, but your manners are very familiar." And I must say that your manners are very familiar, and, let me add, very delightful.

It is a great comfort, for one thing, to realize that you all understand the language I am speaking. A friend of mine said that to talk through an interpreter was like witnessing the compound fracture of an idea. But the beauty of it is that, whatever the impediments of the channel of communication, the idea is the same, that it gets registered, and it gets registered in responsive hearts and receptive purposes.

I have come back for a strenuous attempt to transact business for a little while in America, but I have really come back to say to you, in all soberness and honesty, that I have been trying my best to speak your thoughts.

When I sample myself, I think I find that I am a typical American, and, if I sample deep enough and get down to what is probably the true stuff of a man, then I have hope that it is part of the stuff that is like the other fellow's at home. And, therefore, probing deep in my heart and trying to see the things that are right, without regard to the things that may be debated as expedient, I feel that I am interpreting the purpose and the thought of America; and in loving America I find I have joined the great majority of my fellow-men throughout the world.

CHALLENGE TO HIS CRITICS

BOSTON'S WELCOME WARM

Mechanics Hall Thronged with 7,000 People, with Thousands More Outside.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Throwing down the glove of defiance to all Senators and others who oppose the League of Nations, and challenging them to combat with him, President Wilson signalized the first day of his return in a way that gave the deepest comfort to those friends of his who wanted him to make a fighting speech, not to deliver a prose poem. That situation was explained in a dispatch from Boston printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday. The camp that was hoping for a battle speech got its wish.

The President set foot in Boston at 11:58 a. m. He drove through a throng of 200,000 of his fellow citizens to the Hotel Copley Plaza, where he took luncheon, going immediately from there to Mechanics Hall. There 7,000 people, all that could be crowded into the hall, testified their satisfaction at every point he made, especially when he challenged the Senatorial and other opponents of his policy to the fight of their lives.

Outside, heaven knows how many thousands waited patiently for him to conclude his speech so that they could see and cheer him when he came out. He left at 4:30 for Washington, where he will transact such public business as is necessary and depart as soon as he possibly can for France to take up his international work again.

The great event of the day, of course, was his speech, the only speech, so far as is known, which he will deliver during the short period of his stay in America. It divided itself into two parts, the first being, from the standpoint of those who want shoulder-hitting tactics, general and "idealistic." The second was all for war. It was the second part that called forth the most cheers. It jeered, in the very fashion of the famous jeer against the "little group of willful men," against "some narrow-minded minds that have no sweep beyond the day's horizon." It welcomed a fight with them.

The Great Crowd Roused.

"I have fighting blood in me," declared the President, and the crowd applauded as it had not applauded any of the idealisms that had gone before. He roused the crowd again by demanding to know if they were prepared to break the hopes of the new nations, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Armenia, and the rest, by slipping out of the promises America had made, and he explained with clear forcefulness that to abandon the Paris treaty would be doing just that thing. But he did not believe this would be done, and he got the wildest cheer—with one exception, to be noted hereafter—of the day by saying: "I have no more doubt of the verdict of America in this matter than I have of the blood that is in me."

Then he subtly questioned whether they, as representing the people, were with him in this fight by saying: "I have come back to say to you that I have tried in all soberness and honesty to speak your thought." The applause leaped into thunder before the words were fairly out of his mouth, and no cheer leader could have done more than be lost in the crush.

The President, when he returns from Paris the second time, is going to make a swinging tour of the country. This speech was the keynote. It warned the opposition what to expect, and was intended so to warn them.

Two kinds of friends of his have been at work upon him, both by cable and, since he landed, trying to get him to be either warlike or judicial, according to their preferences. The President's speech was extemporaneous, so that there was every chance to change it up to the last moment. He took his stand definitely with the warlike element. He is roused, and his swing around the circle will be nothing judicial. It will be, not a progress, but a campaign, the campaigning of a man sure of himself and fighting. The United States Senate has had experience before of what that means.

Yet it must be said that the President might have had a more fortunate reception, perhaps a more fortunate landing place. Boston audiences are not proverbially warm, any more than British or French audiences are. The Presi-

WARNS ENGLAND OF CIVIL STRIFE

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Asserting that the United Kingdom was faced with the prospects of civil strife and that the House of Commons should do everything in its power to avert it, Premier Lloyd George today introduced a bill to constitute a committee to inquire into the conditions prevailing in the coal industry.

The Premier said he had been advised that to grant the demands of the miners would place a burden of the most serious sort upon other industries—a burden so serious and so grave that it might have the effect of throwing scores, if not hundreds of thousands, out of employment, and that it might cripple the export trade in coal, iron, steel, machinery, and shipping.

It might be, said the Premier, that the figures the Government had were inaccurate, and that was the reason for the inquiry.

A commission of inquiry, he added, would be appointed. The commission would cover the questions of wages and hours of work, the cost of production and distribution of coal, the general organization of the coal fields, profiteering, social conditions and other matters. Mr. Justice Sankey, of the King's Bench Division, would be Chairman.

The commission would report by March 31, while the miners asked for a report by March 15. The Premier said that a strike for sixteen days under the present conditions would cause a breakdown of the majority of the industries, and the Government would have to feed the country with such fuel and supplies as it had at its disposal. Distress would fall on every class of the community. The composition of the commission, he added, could not be determined until after the miners met on Wednesday to decide whether they would take part in the inquiry.

At a Trade Turning Point.

Mr. Lloyd George said the country had come to a most serious turning point in trade, and the Government hesitated to make the concessions asked for by the miners without the closest possible examination.

The allegation of the miners that the mines could afford the extra burden if certain measures were taken to save waste was a legitimate subject for inquiry, he conceded, but he would be inclined to doubt whether economies in this direction could wipe out the extra eight or ten shillings a ton which granting the demands would involve. The profits of the collieries throughout the Kingdom for five years before the war had amounted to exactly a shilling a ton, and the royalties were sixpence a ton; and even if these were wiped out,

LEAGUE COMES UP ON WILSON'S RETURN

Covenant Put at the Forefront Again—Vital Matters Before Council.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Unless the opposition in America to the League of Nation covenant becomes so emphatic that President Wilson would feel obliged to modify his attitude, a proposal to confirm the covenant will be taken up by the Peace Conference immediately upon the President's return to France.

This appears to be a change in the program outlined by the Supreme Council. It was the intention to give precedence to the preliminary peace treaty when the President reached Paris, but it is evident from what was said today that the League project will have the right of way.

An unusual spirit of hustle is observable in connection with the conference. This is partly due to the feeling I have described that the present negotiations are dragging along interminably, but the opinion exists that the desire to save undue fatigue to Clemenceau, after his harrowing experience, has a part in it. The plenipotentiaries of other nations are filled with admiration for the courage and fortitude of the Premier, who refuses to consider his condition serious and makes light of it by referring to "my accident."

The Supreme Council is now confronted with the most important problems which it is called upon to settle. The French have presented their territorial claims, but have done so with an avoidance of anything approaching insistence upon an irreducible minimum. While arguing that France should receive control of the west bank of the Rhine, no demand to that effect is presented.

Italy's claims to the Dalmation coast, which was presented to the Supreme Council today, seem to call for an Italian protectorate of the old-fashioned kind instead of outright ownership.

The French views on Morocco will be presented tomorrow, and it is understood that they will suggest a protectorate. These desires may be construed as inconsistent with the principle that enemy territory should be controlled by national mandatories designated by the League of Nations.

The report of the commission on responsibility for the war will be presented to the Supreme Council in general terms, without naming any individual.

dent's ride from the pier to Copley Square did not compare for enthusiasm with some previous parades. The cheering was slight; it stopped with his own automobile, whereas when a crowd is really roused it goes on cheering until the procession of automobiles has ended, at least, if not longer. On this occasion no soldiers marched to increase the enthusiasm.

"Boston Never Goes Crazy."

In the hall itself, the interest was intense, the applause ready, but it was not great applause. There may have been many curiosity-seekers and sightseers along the line of march, such as caused Bryan to believe that he was going to be elected President through the mere immensity of the crowds that came to see him; indeed, it is probable, since the day had been declared a public holiday, the weather was fine, and there was nothing to prevent any one from turning out who had a mind to. But the crowd in the hall was different; it was a crowd admitted only by ticket. Therefore, it should have boiled over with enthusiasm over a President just returned from taking the lead in the world's affairs abroad.

Enthusiastic it was, but not in proportion. Perhaps an acquaintance with what New York and Chicago can do in such cases—or cases approximating this as nearly as possible, since there has never been anything exactly like it—may lead one to expect too much of a Boston crowd. And, as one young woman in the audience remarked, "This is good for Boston, but Boston never goes crazy." Certainly not, even in Mechanics Hall, did Boston go crazy. There was, however, to compensate, an intent and critical studiousness of attitude which, when applause did come, may have gone far to make up for the lack of that undiscriminating gale of madness which signifies "enthusiasm" when the word is applied to New York and Chicago.

The arrangements made by the authorities could not possibly have been worse; not even Baltimore, at the convention of 1912, when Mr. Wilson was nominated for the first time, approached their stupidity and danger. The difference was that in Baltimore one felt sure all the time that everybody was planning for the best, and that only incompetency accounted for the failures. In Boston today it appeared that the various unnecessary irritations were carefully thought out in advance, not, of course, with the intention of irritating anybody, but because of a certain inherent osseousness. There is no use in going over them, because the public in general is not in the least interested, but if ever it is proposed to hold another event of national importance in any great city, it might as well be understood that Boston is as hopeless as Baltimore is universally agreed to be, only for different psychological reasons. It is enough to say that they seemed carefully calculated, calculated beforehand to a nicety, to cause the greatest possible inconvenience to the greatest possible number.

All in at One Door.

The decorations in the hall were tasteful and in good form, the only remarkable thing being the juxtaposition of the portraits of Washington, Wilson, and Roosevelt in his younger days. They looked like stock decorations, though they may not have been. The crowd was let in an hour before the meeting—let in all at one door, so that there was a terrific mess, and it took all the efforts of men to keep women from being trampled, this being the result of a bright idea which had occurred to a woman member of the Mayor's committee fifteen minutes before. Up to that time there were different doors for the admission of different classes of ticket holders.

At the head of each aisle stood an army officer, a navy officer, and a Red Cross nurse, acting chiefly as critics of tickets. It made quite an effective display. A band of sailors discoursed music under the leadership of Wallace Goodrich until an artillery salute gave notice of the advent of the President. The first gun delivered such a boom that the building shook, and one of the audience remarked, "Mayor Peters must have dropped his badge." This joke will have no meaning for anybody who has not seen the enormous and portentous badges which the authorities in their wisdom have seen fit to create for this occasion.

Directly after this the Presidential party entered, the President walking with Mayor Peters and Mrs. Wilson with Governor Coolidge. The applause was genuine and enthusiastic and lasted one minute. Boston was not out to make any records, and, as a matter of fact, a real cheer seldom lasts much longer, in spite of the fabricated cheers at conventions and mass meetings which, being kept up by artificial methods, are recorded as having lasted thirty or sixty minutes.

It was 2:44 when the party came in and sat down, the President leaning back with one leg swung comfortably at a long angle over the other. After the minute of cheering was over somebody called for three cheers for Woodrow Wilson, and there was another minute of it.

President Tanned and Happy.

The President was very much tanned and looked happy. There was a got-back-home twist to his famous smile, and he looked and acted like a man who had been among strangers a long time and was now getting his first look at the home folks. John McCormack sang "The Star-Spangled Banner," or two verses of it, with the President and as many of the audience as knew the fourth verse joining in.

Mayor Peters, a Democrat, who made the first introductory speech, got a half-minute cheer, and, after making a strictly nonpartisan speech, turned the floor over to Governor Coolidge, who is a Republican.

The Governor's speech was also strictly nonpartisan on the surface, but he managed to get in a good deal about the 26th Division, which is the Bay State's own. As has been mentioned in these dispatches, the issue this Fall is going to be which party can do the most, at least, in promises, for the soldiers—that is, for the 26th Division; and if any soldier in the hall was left in doubt about whether the Governor was his friend or not, it was not the Governor's fault.

He does not look quite like Secretary McAdoo, but he looks like the pictures of him. He speaks in the clear, incisive twang which we have come to expect from New England statesmen, with the pause after each word, and the two gestures, one consisting of parting the two hands before the speaker as if he were swimming, and the other of raising the right arm high in the air.

Mr. Coolidge is apparently in all respects a New England statesman of the ancient type. Mr. Peters, on the other hand, looks just as Nicholas Longworth would look if he did not wear a mustache, and the likeness extends to the nature of his baldness, which is precisely the same in contour as Mr. Longworth's. Anybody who approached him from behind would be quite justified in slapping him on the back and saying, "Hello, Nick," or "How do you do, Mr. Longworth," according to the extent of his intimacy.

What General Clarence Edwards thought of it all is doubtful. He was the commander of the 26th Division, and he sat in khaki in the President's row, balder, grimmer, whiter-haired than he used to look when he was a desk officer down in Washington, before the war. He is New England's idol. The wild cheer with which the audience greeted the Governor's mention of the 26th Division was duplicated when he mentioned General Edwards and Colonel Logan of Boston's own, and the General smiled in his short way, while the President applauded.

A Long Way for a Republican.

The Governor got a good deal of applause by saying that Mr. Wilson had got such a reception in Boston as it was never united enough to give to Washington or Lincoln and by promising him the support of Massachusetts in the future "as she has supported him in the past."

Then a soldier led the audience in singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The audience, however, only knew the chorus; curious when you reflect that Julia Ward Howe wrote it and that in Chicago they know every word of it. You can't startle a Chicago audience by asking it to sing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and to judge by cable reports, they know it over in England.

The crowd also sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers," which it knew better. And then the President arose, amid cheers led by Mayor Peters. The cheering lasted a minute, and then Mayor Peters called for three cheers for the President, which called for another minute of cheering. It was all hearty and genuine and the real thing, though it was no such delirious scream as has been heard in New York on certain less momentous occasions.

The first real applause the President got, though there had been ripples before, was when he said, "The proudest thing I have to report to you is that this country of ours is trusted throughout the world." He went on for perhaps half an hour in what his critics term the idealistic strain. Meanwhile certain members of that element which would like the President to take a more vigorous and pointed attitude stood at the right side of the platform with looks of anxiety on their faces. But the President steamed steadily on, undiscouraged by the fact that the applause he got was not of the first water. He did, however, get a first-class cheer when he said that the nations, when they went to Paris, went first to the delegates of the United States, "because there is no nation in Europe that suspects the motives of the United States."

He turned to advantage what had been said by the Republican Governor, Coolidge, about the 26th Division, by saying, "You may be proud of the 26th Division, but I commanded the 26th Division." He meant that he commanded it as Commander in Chief of the armies of the United States. If it was meant to take the wind out of Mr. Coolidge's Republican sails it was successful, so far as getting a good, hearty cheer was concerned, but the cheer was not as great or as spontaneous as that which greeted Coolidge's first reference to that division. General Edwards, who commanded the division in the field, smiled a faint, not overhappy smile.

The Scene Suddenly Changed.

But the whole scene was changed when the President abruptly ceased to preach idealism and challenged those "narrow minds that have no sweep beyond the day's horizon"; when he said that he could have no welcome sweeter than that which involved the promise of a fight with such men; when he said that such an attack was an "indulgence" to him, and when he said that he no more doubted the verdict of America on that issue than he doubted "the blood that is in me." Round on round of cheers swept the hall; and over at the right the anxious, clouded faces beamed with relief and joy.

Suddenly and unexpectedly, at the end of his speech, the President gave a word of comfort to the radical elements. He said that if "the present Governments" do not aid the New World work their peoples will set up other Governments; that "the present Governments" knew this, and were acting accordingly; and added, in what seemed a menacing tone, "there's a great deal of harmony to be got by common knowledge." For whatever it is worth it must be recorded that this part of his speech, though delivered with round emphasis and a flashing and triumphant eye, got less applause than any other part of his speech; in fact, only scattering applause, hardly worth mentioning.

When he uttered his last sentence, "In loving America I find I have joined the great majority of my fellow-men throughout the world," the applause returned to life. The audience stood and cheered while he and his party left the hall and entered the automobiles that were to take them to the station. Outside great masses cheered him as he flitted by, and then broke and streamed in all directions after their two hours' wait.

WILL PLUNGE INTO WORK.

President to Take Up Official Duties at Washington Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Wilson will resume official routine tomorrow immediately after his arrival in the Capitol and will spend the entire day at his desk, according to present plans.

A Cabinet meeting in the afternoon is expected to be almost the only engagement of the President during his first day at work since his return to this country. Numerous requests for engagements have been received at the Executive offices, but no appointments have been made, and the list of persons desiring to see him will be submitted to Mr. Wilson for him to select those whose business he deems of sufficient importance to claim part of the busy week available to him before he sails again for Paris.

The President's most important conference, that with members of the Senate and House Foreign Affairs Committees for discussion of the Constitution of the proposed League of Nations, will be held Wednesday night.

The President and Mrs. Wilson will find the Spring cleaning at the White House finished. Every part of the house that needed attention has received it at the hands of a small army of workmen. They return also to a city decorated in gala fashion, in preparation for the parade of District of Columbia soldiers Thursday. The President will review the parade from a stand in front of the White House.

Late tonight the Executive offices had received no word of the signing of the Revenue bill or transaction of other business by the President since landing from the George Washington. It was thought he might sign the Revenue bill on the train tonight.

TO PRESS REPARATION STUDY.

Commission Decides to Push Their Work.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The Peace Conference Commission on Reparations decided at its meeting today to push forward the work of the first and second sub-committees, which are charged, respectively, with questions of the valuation of damages and a study of means of payment and the financial capacity of the enemy countries.

A third sub-committee was appointed to study measures of control and guarantees. William M. Hughes, the Australian Premier, was elected President and B. M. Baruch of the United States Vice President of the committee. The commission also welcomed the delegates of Portugal—Senhors Moniz, Freiee, and Doudrade.

BRITAIN DEMANDS GUNS BACK.

Has Asked Germans to Return All They Captured.

LONDON, Feb. 24, (via Montreal.)—Great Britain is demanding the immediate return of all British guns captured by the Germans.

This announcement was made in the House of Commons today by Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, in answer to a question by Colonel C. R. Burn.

PRESIDENT CHEERED FROM PIER TO HOTEL

TROOPS GUARD THE WAY

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Having declared the day of the return of the President of the United States from his trip abroad a holiday, Boston took the day off and in its own way gave President Wilson a reception that he seemed to enjoy thoroughly. The business houses and the schools were closed, so everybody felt perfectly at liberty to stand somewhere along the line of march the President took in his trip through the city and let him know they were glad to get him back. The President bowed and smiled, and waved his hat, and shook hands with everybody who came within reach, and otherwise showed that he was glad to get back on American soil once more.

The reception to the returning President actually began when daylight broke this morning and showed the gray hulk of the troop transport George Washington, on which he returned, swinging at her mud hooks in President Roads, the stretch of inner Boston harbor between Long and Deer Islands that corresponds to lower New York Bay. The various war and peace craft in the harbor had dressed ship for the occasion, and when the sun broke through a threatening sky a cheery sight greeted those aboard the Presidential vessel. When the boat bearing the members of the Reception Committee put out from shore to escort the President to Commonwealth Pier, the guns at Charlestown Navy Yard began to boom and the forts lining Boston harbor followed the echoes.

The members of the Presidential party were astir early and eagerly awaited the arrival of the coast guard cutter Ossipee to take them ashore. The time for the disembarkation was fixed at 11 o'clock. Promptly to the minute the cutter, containing Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts; Mayor Peters of Boston, Rear Admiral Spencer I. Wood, Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, and other dignitaries, poked her nose alongside the George Washington. A gangplank was run down at a steep angle from the lower deck of the huge transport. While half a dozen alert submarine chasers circled the troopship to keep inquisitive excursion boats at a proper distance and the 2,000 returning troops aboard the George Washington cheered lustily, the President and Mrs. Wilson, Ambassador Francis, Assistant Secretary of the Navy F. D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt, Rear Admiral Grayson, the President's physician; the three Congressmen who returned with the President, and the other members of his party went aboard the Ossipee.

Landing of the President.

A Presidential flourish was sounded, the Presidential flag was run to the truck head, and the little cutter put back to the Boston dock, where the real welcome was waiting. By the time the Ossipee reached the Commonwealth pier the half gale that had been blowing had died down, and the sun had come out. Three airplanes circled overhead, and every siren in the harbor broke loose. Standing on the upper deck of the little boat the President, muffled in a fur coat, waved his silk hat.

The long concrete pier was elaborately festooned with American and other flags and bunting, while a group of 1,000 persons waiting in the chilly air waved their hats and cheered. The President, quickly followed by Mrs. Wilson and the other members of the party, stepped from the boat to the pier and walked over a green carpet to an elevator, which took them to the upper story of the pier, where a fleet of automobiles waited. Soldiers and sailors formed a double row the length of the pier, through which the automobiles slowly proceeded. Scores of policemen and Secret Service men flanked the soldiers, and it was impossible for a stranger to get anywhere near the President.

The military and police authorities were plainly nervous over their task; they took no chances. It was repeatedly remarked that no such elaborate preparations to protect a President had ever been made. To complicate matters, the committee having the reception arrangements in charge so bungled matters that much unnecessary discomfort was caused.

A hearty cheer was given as Mr. Wilson's automobile started to move from the pier. The President and Mrs. Wilson, both wearing furs, occupied one seat, and Governor Coolidge and Mayor Peters another. Every auto horn honked its loudest. In response to the cheering the President stood up, smiling broadly and bowing right and left. As the automobile passed out of the pier shed a small troop of cavalry formed in front of it and so continued throughout the parade.

The Line of Parade.

The line of march from the pier to the Hotel Copley Plaza, where the President was scheduled to take luncheon before going to Mechanics' Hall to make his only speech of the day, was up Summer, Winter, and Park Streets to Beacon, down Beacon to Charles, to Boylston, to Arlington, to Commonwealth and along Dartmouth. Along the entire line of march—possibly three miles—soldiers and sailors, including both Federal and State troops, stood shoulder to shoulder. Some 900 policemen filled in gaps where they were needed.

Throughout the entire line not an untoward incident occurred. The President's car moved slowly, and the crowd had no trouble in getting a good look at him. Boston streets are narrow, and there were times when outstretched hands could have touched the President.

Along the line of march there was a dense crowd. It packed the sidewalk from the building line to the curb and overflowed into other streets at crossings. Every window that afforded any kind of a view was filled. The crowd waited for hours to see the President go by, and when he did appear, they cheered. Boston crowds are said to be noted for their lack of warmth in greeting a distinguished personage. If that is their characteristic, they ran true to form today, for, while practically every one along the line of march sent up at least one cheer, it was not a continuous salvo of applause. As soon as the President's carriage had passed the enthusiasm died suddenly. The President, nevertheless, seemed to enjoy the reception hugely. Again and again he stood up in his automobile and waved his hat up and down.

Reaching the head of Park Street, the procession swung into historic Beacon Street in front of the State House and skirting the Common. The grand stands were erected here, and they were jammed. The President waved his hat vigorously and smiled his broadest as the distinguished occupants of the stands shouted a welcome. Across the way, on the Common, half a dozen cannon thundered Presidential salutes. Small boys swarmed over the Shaw Memorial and hung from limbs of trees, while women crowded the windows and waved handkerchiefs.

When the parade reached Copley Plaza the crowd had grown to its densest. The police and soldiers kept the people well back, but every one got a good look at the President, and after he disappeared into the hotel waited for him to come out again in order to get another look. A huge throng filled the space about the hotel and lined the streets up to Mechanics Hall. But the same quietness prevailed after the initial cheer of welcome was given.

Armed Man Arrested.

While the President was at luncheon in the hotel two police officers noticed a man acting strangely, and took him into custody. Secret Service men found a 32-calibre revolver and a blackjack in his pocket, and he was locked up charged with carrying dangerous weapons. He gave his name as Andrew J. Rogosky, and his address as 1 Taylor Street, Worcester. He declared he had no intention of harming the President.

The President, Mrs. Wilson, and the President's son-in-law, F. B. Sayre, lunched privately at the hotel, while a party headed by Mayor Peters was accommodated on another floor. Before the President had taken his seat at the table he was called out by a delegation of suffragists, headed by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird. They presented to the President a large bouquet of flowers, and told him they were not of the "militant" type, representatives of which had been arrested earlier in the day at Boston Common, and were wholly in sympathy with him and the League of Nations' plan.

The President was hurried into the hotel so quickly that Admiral Wood and General Edwards could not keep up with him. As they were about to enter, the doorman blocked their way and refused to admit them. Despite their pleas, backed up by their uniforms, they made no headway with the doorman, until Secretary Tumulty arrived and straightened out matters.

After luncheon the President drove through the cheering crowds to Mechanics' Hall, where he delivered his address. Leaving the hall shortly before 4 o'clock he hurried to South Station, where another dense crowd cheered him. As his train pulled out at 4:30 o'clock for Washington, the President came out on the rear platform and smiled and bowed until he was lost to view in the tunnel.

Those who knew the President well and had seen him before his trip to Europe remarked upon his splendid appearance. They said they had never seen him look in better health.

Receives a Polish Delegation.

BOSTON, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—Just before President Wilson's train left the South Station, a Polish delegation was presented to the President. N. L. Piotrowski of Chicago, of the Polish National Department, expressed the gratitude of the Poles of America for the President's sympathy for Poland.

"It is particularly gratifying," he said, "to express our thanks to you for the recognition of the Republic of Poland. It is mainly due to you and to this magnanimous nation that Poland is free today."

In reply President Wilson said: "I will not attempt to say how deeply I am touched by this greeting. My belief in Poland has never wavered, and the cause has impressed me from the beginning. Gentlemen, I thank you for this greeting."

A bouquet of orchids from the Polish women of America was presented to Mrs. Wilson.

Among those in the delegation were M. Kwapiszewski of the Polish National Committee, Major Wagner of the Polish army in France, and K. Z. Chlinski of the Polish National Alliance.

Just before Mr. Wilson's departure it was announced that he had not signed the War Revenue bill or performed any other official act during the day. He received a delegation at the station from the Woman's Trade Union League, which presented to him an engraved address of welcome bound in leather and gold.

In the parade from the pier to the hotel earlier in the day fifty mounted policemen headed the procession, while Troop A of the State Guard, mounted, acted as the President's escort. The guard of honor formed a double row on each side of the street all the way from the pier to the Copley-Plaza, where suites were reserved for the Presidential party, and beyond that point to Mechanics' Hall.

Included in the guard of honor were two battalions of the 36th Infantry from Camp Devens, coast artillery companies from Portland, Me., and Newport, R. I.; naval reservists from Bumkin Island, sailors from the Shipping Board Training School, and units of the State Guard. A detail of 200 yeowomen had places as part of the guard of honor near the viaduct, and stood at attention as the President passed.

Sharpshooters were stationed on fishing boats tied up at the fish pier near the point where the President landed from the cutter Ossipee. Shortly before the Ossipee docked, the police made a thorough search of the pier and surrounding property to make sure no explosives were about and that no one not authorized to be present had gained admission. Similar precautions were taken at the hotel and at Mechanics' Hall.

Supt. of Police Michael H. Crowley, who rode over the entire route, estimated that 500,000 people saw the President pass.

James H. Wilson, son of Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson and a private in the Medical Corps, was the only man among the returning troops who was permitted to leave the George Washington here, the others remaining aboard for the trip to New York. Private Wilson had been ordered to proceed at once to Washington because of the serious illness of his mother.

ARREST 22 MILITANTS.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—Before they had time to carry out their threat to burn the President's speeches on Boston Common today while the Presidential parade was passing, as a suffragist protest, twenty-two members of the National Woman's Party were arrested and locked up by the local police.

Although the leaders of the party here announced a day or two ago that they would not carry out their threat to make a disturbance during the President's visit, a group of militants gathered on the Common about noon and took up a stand in silent single file in front of the reviewing stand opposite the State House.

The police treated the militants gently. When they refused to "move on," Police Sergeant Fitzgerald notified the headquarters of the party that they would be arrested if they did not obey. The policeman was told that he would have to attend to the matter himself. Thereupon he called for patrol wagons, and the women were taken to the Joy Street Station, where they were still quartered at a late hour, bail not having been furnished.

Leaving the headquarters of the party at 9 Park Street, en route to the reviewing stand, Mrs. Agnes H. Morey, Chairman of the organization, instructed the members to keep their hands off the police, to refuse to move, to decline to argue, and to keep their banners in their hands at any cost.

"If the police interfere and move you to speech," instructed Mrs. Morey, "just say to them, 'We are transgressing no law.'"

In addition to the white, purple, and gold banners the suffragists carried, were several bearing these questions:

"Mr. President, how long must women wait for liberty?"

"Mr. President, what will you do for suffrage?"

"Mr. President, you said to the United States on Sept. 30, we shall not only be distrusted, but shall deserve to be distrusted, if we do not enfranchise women. You, alone, can remove this distrust now by securing the one vote needed to pass the suffrage amendment before March 4."

The charge against the woman was "loitering." Those arrested were Mrs. H. S. Turner, Allston; Mrs. H. E. Russian, Detroit; Miss Eleanor Calnan, Methuen; Miss Martha Foley, Boston; Miss Dorothy Pratt, Boston; Mrs. Frank Page, Boston; Mrs. L. J. C. Daniels, Vermont; Mrs. Pacia Warren, New Hampshire; Miss Mary Pottier, Boston; Miss Betty Connolly, Newton; Miss Rose Lewis, New York; Mrs. George Roewer, Belmont; Mrs. George Fowler, Brookline; Mrs. Jessica Henderson, Wayland; Miss Wilma Henderson, Wayland; Mrs. J. Irving Gross, Boston; Mrs. George Hill, Brookline; Miss Ruth Small, Newton Highlands; Mrs. Lois Warren Shaw, Manchester, N. H.; Miss Camilla Whitcomb, Worcester; Miss Josephine Collins, Framingham; Miss Catherine G. Morey, Brookline; Miss Betty Gram, Oregon, and Miss Eleanor Calnan, Methuen.

WILSON WELCOMED ON WAY FROM BOSTON

ASLEEP ON ARRIVAL HERE

The special train bearing President Wilson from Boston to Washington arrived at the Pennsylvania Station soon after 10 o'clock last night and left thirty minutes later. Joseph Tumulty, the President's secretary, and others on the train told of the enthusiastic ovation to the President all along the line from Boston. Crowds had gathered at every station in the hope of catching a glimpse of the President, but he appeared on the platform of his car only at Providence, New London, and New Haven.

Responding to the cheers of a great crowd at Providence, the President said: "You are no more happy to meet me than I am to see you. It is a fine thing to be home again. The thing that has pleased me most in my contact with the peoples of Europe is that they trust the people of America, and all I have to say is that if America disappoints them the heart of the world will be broken."

Fully 3,000 persons were gathered at New London when the train arrived. The crowd surged toward the coaches, but the guards allowed no one to approach within fifteen feet of the train.

President Wilson, in response to repeated cheering, stepped out upon the platform, doffed his cap, smiled a wide smile, and bowed to the people. In the absence of Mayor Morgan, who is out of the city on business, Alderman Henry O. Chappell presented to President Wilson a huge floral piece.

Then President Wilson shook hands with many spectators just before the train started westward.

At New Haven the train ran a quarter mile beyond the crowd waiting to greet President Wilson and was switched on a siding where the Mayor and a committee of citizens boarded it and congratulated him on his successful trip. The President ordered the train to go back to New Haven so that he might show himself to the people. The run was made but the President made no speech, contenting himself with waving his hat and smiling in response to the cheers of the thousand people.

The train reached New Rochelle at 9:00 P. M. Everywhere along the route the police took unusual precautions. Inspector Walsh of the Bronx had sixty men strung along the bridge connecting the New Haven with the Long Island Railroad tracks before the train passed. There was a short stop at the Port Morris yards at 9:30 and President Wilson came out on the rear platform and shook hands with Police Captain Andrew Wines and his detectives.

Soon after this he retired, and so did not appear on the platform when the train drew in to the Pennsylvania Station. There were no crowds there, for it had not become known publicly that the Chief Executive would arrive at the station. Those on the platform included Deputy Police Commissioners Leach and Porter, with Police Captain Whelmse, eight detectives, Inspector G. F. Spencer of the Pennsylvania Railroad police with half a dozen of his men, and Stationmaster Egan.

The train was expected to reach Washington between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning.

NEW YORK PRESS COMMENT.

The President's Challenge.

From The World.

"The proudest thing I have to report to you," said President Wilson in his speech in Boston yesterday, "is that this great country of ours is trusted throughout the world."

This is the proudest thing that any President could report. It is the highest tribute that can be paid to the Republic. How, then, is that trust to be kept? How is the faith of the world in the American people to be maintained?

No critic of the League of Nations has advanced any plan of his own by which the peace that ends this war can be guaranteed. Not one of them holds out the smallest measure of hope to a civilization wounded almost to death. They leave the world weltering in its own blood and tell the afflicted peoples to heal themselves as best they can.

The World does not believe that that sentiment represents the mind and the heart of the American people. They may be confused for the moment by the clamor of discordant voices, but they have never strayed far from the ideals of the Republic. As the President said yesterday, "We set this Nation up to make men free, and now we will make them free." And that is his challenge to his opponents when he invites them to "test the sentiment of America."

No Quarrel With His Ideals.

From The Tribune.

The speech of the President yesterday in Boston, neither in words nor spirit, contains anything to arouse controversy. He interprets in broad phrases of great felicity the high mission of this country. He proclaims with great power his ideals; behold, they are the ideals of the great Republic.

No sensible person now challenges, or has challenged, the sincerity of the President's allegiance to the idea of organizing the world for peace instead of for war. The war was to end war, and if this is not completely possible, then to set up some bulwarks for peace. * * *

The practical aspects of the peace problem the President did not discuss. He is, of course, aware that the debate now going on relates not to wishes and desires, but wholly to whether or not the plan now being examined is calculated to further the end sought. His contribution to this debate is left for another occasion, and so leaving it he now offers nothing toward resolving doubts. The issue raised when the tentative plan was published thus remains as it was before.

Our Birthright at Stake.

From The Sun.

Before we Americans can fairly discuss and judge President Wilson's specific views on the League of Nations we must hear more from him than we heard at Boston yesterday, and we must know more than he has permitted us to know from any place at any time.

One thing which he said at Boston, however, this newspaper and, we make no doubt, the American people cannot fail to reject immediately. Mr. Wilson declared that he went over to Europe and plunged into the battlefields there solely for the sake of humanity. We did not. We went over there to help save France and England, because if France and England were not saved our turn would be next. With France and England lost there was good chance that we in our turn might not be saved. Wherefore we went over there, in truth, to save ourselves. * * *

Except as another mawkish vision, therefore, it cannot possibly follow as President Wilson states it, that we must go on till the crack of doom carrying the burden of the whole world, with no care for our own, with no thought of our own—with the single purpose, whatever it may cost us, to whatever end it may bring us, of serving Mr. Wilson's general humanity. The American people will never stand for such a mad squander of their noble birthright.

ASKS LEAGUE REFERENDUM.

Minnesota Representative Wants People to Vote on Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota introduced in the House today a bill calling for a referendum on the adoption or rejection of the proposed League of Nations Constitution. The bill was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

"We have announced the policy of self-determination for others," said Mr. Lundeen. "The American people want self-determination for themselves. The President and Senate cannot commit the people of the United States to a League of Nations Constitution which, in effect, amends the Constitution of the United States.

"On the great questions of war, League of Nations, and any other great dominant question, let the people of our country decide. The bill is short and easily understood and there is every reason for passing it at this session of Congress so that the people will be prepared to express their will as to the proposed League, promptly upon its being presented to them."

DECIDE ON AUTHORS OF WAR.

Sub-Committee of Commission on Responsibility Has Finished Work.

PARIS, Feb. 24 (Associated Press.)—The sub-committee of the Peace Conference dealing with the responsibility of the authors of the war has completed its work. It's report has not been made public, but as its meetings and the hearings it gave were attended by most of the members of the full committee there seems no doubt that the report will receive formal approval and be laid before the Supreme Council.

It is believed that the sub-committee has made findings only as to the moral responsibility of the authors of the war and not as regards technical violations of international law by individuals.

Other sub-committees, dealing with other phases of responsibility for the war, have not yet reached the point of reporting their findings.

Present indications are that nothing regarding the responsibility for the war, beyond a declaration of general principles, will be included in the preliminary treaty of peace. The special commission has worked in secrecy and heard arguments on every side of the problem, but it is gathered that the only result to be expected in time for incorporation in the Peace treaty is an expression of opinion on the general principles that may be applied to the cases thus far considered.

ALBANIANS PRESENT CLAIMS.

Question Is Referred to the Committee on Greek Affairs.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The official communication on the Peace Conference today says:

"The representatives of the allied and associated Governments met today at the Quai d'Orsay, from 3 to 5 P. M.

"The Albanian representatives were introduced, and Turkhan Pasha stated the Albanian claims. The examination of this question was referred to the Committee on Greek Affairs.

"The Paris Interallied Commission on Polish Affairs communicated certain information and proposals received from the Interallied Commission, now at Warsaw. Marshal Foch was present."

WANTS PEACE TERMS AT ONCE.

Ramsay MacDonald Urges That Conference Settle These First.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Socialist leader, writing in the Manchester Guardian on the death of Kurt Eisner, says:

"If Paris is not wholly devoid of statesmanship, it will not miss the real meaning either of what has taken place in Munich or within itself. It will put pressing things first and not last, and the most pressing of all is to decide the general terms of peace so that the mind of Central Europe may be occupied with other thoughts than those of its own chaos, work may be resumed and the new Democracies may settle down to face their problems.

EXPECT CLEMENCEAU AT WORK THURSDAY

Doctors Promise to Let Premier Go to the War Office on That Day.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The doctors attending M. Clemenceau expressed themselves as satisfied today that M. Clemenceau was out of danger and that his complete recovery was only a matter of a few days' absolute rest.

Asked concerning the date on which it was probable the Premier would be allowed to leave his home, one of the doctors said:

Premier Clemenceau expressed today a desire to go to the War Office on Thursday.

Marcel Hutin, in the Echo de Paris, predicts that the Premier will be back at work Wednesday, and will preside at the Peace Conference Thursday. The writer quotes the Premier as teasing his doctors with this remark:

"I am better, but it is not your fault. It is my good nature which has produced it."

Dr. Laubry, the Premier's family physician, confessed that M. Clemenceau was right.

BOY-ED ANALYZES WILSON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 21.—Captain Boy-Ed, who has been one of Germany's experts on American affairs ever since his return from the United States, is again called upon to explain President Wilson's psychology. "Is Wilson Honest?" is the title of an article on Wilson's aims, which has brought forth many letters of protest.

It should not be overlooked that Germany's conception of Wilson's honesty was that the President would fight for Germany's interests and wipe clean the slate for her, even though she were unrepentent and unashamed. Many Germans even expected financial help on a considerable scale and the news that Wilson took part in the last armistice arrangements came as a great shock. Some papers even seek to discredit the report.

Boy-Ed explains that President Wilson is honest and an idealist, but he is in the first place an American, then a cosmopolitan, and his ideals have an American tendency.

"The apparent inconsistency of his attitude," writes the Captain, "has resulted from a struggle between his aims in the war situation and his pacifism, for Wilson's political ideal always has been general peace by juredical court and mutual assurances. The political independence and economic power of America and, not the least, the cosmopolitan makeup of the nation appear to make Wilson, who is a natural fighter, a representative of these ideals."

The writer continues that the U-boat war was the only reason for moving Wilson to favor entering the conflict, and that Germany lost the war because she made many military and technical mistakes with the U-boat war especially and military control of U-boat building.

The President, he asserts, is a friend of the masses and is sentimental, like Americans, although this sentimentality is not appreciated. He adds:

"Wilson pities us, the badly beaten and hungry."

NEAR AGREEMENT ON GERMAN FOOD

Payment Expected to be Arranged Through the Transfer of Neutral Securities.

COMMISSIONS MEET TODAY

Objections by One of Allies Likely to be Withdrawn—Observer Tells of Hunger.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TREVES, Feb. 24.—The allied and German Commissions will meet tomorrow at Spa in a further effort to arrange for payment for food from America for Germany. The effort will probably be successful, and within a week an announcement may be expected of a scheme by which hungry Germany will be fed by the United States.

Previous efforts to arrange the payment to America for food supplies have met numerous obstacles growing out of precautionary desires on the part of our allies and stubbornness on the part of the Germans.

Perhaps it will be interesting to review briefly those negotiations. It will be recalled that at the time of the signing of the armistice, President Wilson expressed willingness to help feed Germany. German politicians forthwith made great material out of this, and impressed the people with the promise of aid from America.

The whole world knows how the Germans sent a hunger cry to the four winds of heaven. When the Germans considered that the prospects for food were not materializing as they had hoped, they brought the matter insistently to the notice of the Allies.

Hitch Over Pay for Food.

At the armistice renewal meeting in the middle of January they asked America to send food to be paid for out of a loan to be floated in the United States. The American and allied representatives at once negatived this proposal, but as the outcome of discussion on Marshal Foch's train at Paris came an agreement that Germany was to turn over her merchant fleet for the transport of food from America to Europe with the understanding that Germany was to get part of that food. In the meantime, financial arrangements were to be made between Germany and America, the Allies, of course, approving.

Forthwith the financial negotiations began. The Germans had certain gold supplies, upon which they might have drawn; but one of our Allies objected, on the ground that its claims constituted a prior lien upon that gold.

Germany next came forward with the suggestion for a mortgage upon her railroads. That scheme did not go through, because one of our Allies spoke up and said that Germany's railroads ought to be left until the unencumbered peace terms had fixed the manner in which the indemnity was to be paid. Germany's paper money was not acceptable.

Move to Use Neutral Securities.

The suggestion that food credits be advanced against German property sequestered in the United States proved unacceptable. Then it was suggested that Germany pay for American food with neutral securities, and one of our Allies again objected on the ground that indemnity claims might come before Germany's purchase of food.

In the meanwhile, Feb. 1, the date for turning over the German shipping came, but the Germans kept their ships on the ground that they wanted to make sure that they were going to get some of the food which these ships would bring across the ocean. Three days' negotiations in Treves ten days ago failed to produce a final result.

Now the prospects look brighter. The prediction may be hazarded that one of our allies will withdraw her objections to the use of neutral securities, and that Germany will in this way pay for her food from America. Germany and the Germans possess many millions in South American securities.

Sutton Found Great Want.

Lieutenant Arthur J. Sutton of the Signal Corps of the Third Army, who has just returned from a trip which took him across Germany through Berlin, through Prague, and through Vienna to Constantinople and return, brings a story of hunger which is very black. I know Sutton, who is a former newspaper man. He was always a German-hater. But today tears came to his eyes as he told me of what he had seen in Berlin and Vienna, especially in Vienna.

Long lines of men, women, and children were waiting for hours in the snow for a small bowl of barley soup, there was a 90 per cent. infant mortality rate in Vienna, starvation was rife in Roumania, and sullen despair in Berlin. Sutton brought back many photographs which will be shown to the American allied authorities.

"The one cry from Coblenz to Constantinople is 'Food! Food! Food!'" said Sutton. "In Coblenz there is food, and in Constantinople there is food, but in between are starving millions.

"Germany and Austria are smoldering volcanoes, which starvation will put in eruption. The world is talking about what sort of Government Germany will accept. I have been among the Germans most of the last two months, and I tell you they will accept any Government whose coming brings food. If no food comes, no Government can succeed in Germany.

"I was in Berlin during the Spartacide uprising, and I know that the Reds got their great strength from the people who were hungry and who felt that no change could be for the worse. If there had been food, there would never have been battles in the streets of Berlin.

"This unrest may be dormant in Berlin now, but it will spring up again there and elsewhere if food does not get into Germany quickly. The next time it will be harder to deal with. Among the people of Germany there is but one issue, political or otherwise, today and that is, food."

Prices Too High For the Poor.

Sutton said that in Berlin any one with money could get food, but the poor could not do so. In Vienna, no matter how much money one had, one could not get much. He could get no bread and butter, little meat, and that at high prices, in Vienna.

In Prague, he said, food conditions were no better.

Sutton told time and again of seeing hundreds of children in Berlin with great sores upon their bodies, which came, he was told, from lack of proper food. He said that Count von Bernstorff called his attention to these and asked why America was not sending food to "stricken" Germany.

Seldom a day went by, Sutton said, without food demonstrations in Berlin or Vienna. These demonstrations were not disorderly, but merely by crowds, mostly women and children, marching past the Government buildings and crying: "Food!"

Sutton said that on his trip there was never any hostility shown toward him, although he went to places where the American uniform was a strange sight. He remarked on the large number of soldiers whom he saw begging in the streets of Vienna.

LEOPOLD JAILED IN MUNICH PLOT

stitution which recognizes only State Governments based upon democratic general elections, whereas the Soviets referred to are purely class organizations. The Majority and Independent Socialists, also, are determined to reconvoke the Diet as soon as conditions permit, thus leaving the way open to an arrangement with the Central Government.

The Communists in Munich, dispatches say, are dissatisfied with the decision of the Socialist Commission to restore unity among the Socialist parties and have broken off relations with the Socialist parties. They intend to attempt to establish a dictatorship of the proletariat as a Soviet republic.

The Socialists have discontinued the wholesale distribution of arms to organized workmen, it having been discovered that the extreme radical elements and irresponsible individuals were obtaining weapons.

Weimar Takes Hopeful View.

WEIMAR, Feb. 23, (Associated Press.)—The situation in Munich, although still critical, is much more hopeful than yesterday, according to information received in German Government circles here at noon today. A Bavarian Government by a Council of workmen, soldiers, and peasants has not yet been proclaimed, although there were reports that it would be.

Quiet reigns in Munich for the time being, the reports add, and the Majority Socialists and Independent Socialists have entered the Central Committee of the Provisional Government. On the Council that controls affairs in Munich, the Majority Socialists have eleven out of twenty-one members. Two of the other members are from the Peasants' Organization, two from the Soldiers' Councils, two from the Country Peasants, two from the Country Workmen, and two from the Communists.

The general strike which had been proclaimed in Munich is expected to be over on Monday. The railroads and the telegraph and postal systems are again working and milk is again being received in the city.

Vice Premier Hoffmann of the old Government has disappeared, but Ministers Frauendorfer, Jaffe, and Unterleitner remain in office.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Spartacide riots have taken place in Nuremberg, Bavaria, where the prisons have been opened and street fighting is in progress, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today.

BASLE, Feb. 24.—Six persons were killed and thirty-nine were arrested during the rioting Saturday night at Augsburg, Bavaria, according to advices received here.

People Burn Archives and Open Prison After Meeting in Eisner's Honor.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Following a meeting at Mannheim, called in honor of the memory of Kurt Eisner, the Republic of Baden was proclaimed, says a Havas dispatch.

The people opened the gates of the military prison, liberated men in prison, and then raided the castle and burned the archives.

BERLIN, Feb. 23, (Associated Press.)—Spartacides are in possession of the telegraph system in Baden and railway traffic in that State has been suspended, according to a dispatch from Karlsruhe to the Lokal-Anzeiger.

BASLE, Feb. 24.—The leaders of the Centrists, Social Democrats, Nationalists, and Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils have issued an address to the people of Baden, declaring themselves in accord with the Government, says a dispatch from Karlsruhe today.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 24.—The town of Bottrop, in the Ruhr region, which was recently taken by Spartacide forces after a bombardment, has been recaptured by Government forces, according to Berlin advices received here. The Government troops are now in complete possession of the town.

At Düsseldorf, the advices add, the Executive Committee of the Workers' Council has announced an end of the general strike. One of the bourgeois newspapers has been permitted to resume publication.

The militia at Mühlheim-am-Ruhr, which refused to fight against the Government troops, has dissolved the Soldiers' Council and has chosen another. The new council and the militia have decided to support the Government and are determined to establish peace and order in Mühlheim and to disarm the Spartacides.

WANT BOLSHEVISM SLAIN AT SOURCE

SEE PERIL IN DISCUSSION

Soviet Propaganda Is Continuous at a Time When Unrest Is Deep and Far-Reaching.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The events in Bavaria, no less than the attempted murder of Premier Clemenceau, have drawn public attention here again to the Bolshevist danger.

There is a widespread feeling in Paris that the allied leaders should reach some decision regarding Russia other than discussion or the formation of investigatory committees. It is asserted that while time is thus being taken up the Bolshevist propaganda is continuing actively and thus far has been almost unchecked. In France, England, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland, and Scandinavia Russian emissaries are out among the masses, whose nerves are strained by war restrictions and war effort, whose anxiety has been aroused by fear of unemployment due to demobilization and to whom the cry of profiteering and vast war fortunes makes an instant appeal against capitalists aand employers.

During last week the NEW YORK TIMES correspondent talked with several persons, allies and neutrals, who had just returned from Russia. All agreed as to the genuineness of the Bolshevist program for worldwide propaganda. The terrorist leaders, indeed, have made no secret of their intentions and have boasted openly that as a result of the activity of their emissaries there would be revolutionary movements in all the countries mentioned before Summer.

Munich Leader Once a Parisian.

The authorities, here and in England, appear to be awakening to the danger, but it is doubtful if they realize even yet how complex and deep-rooted is the organization which they must combat.

International anarchism is no new growth and its ramifications extend far and wide. To take one instance, Musham, who was today reported to be leaving the Munich Spartacides, was a prominent figure in foreign circles of the Mont Parnasse quarter in Paris as long ago as 1909. Although he is said to belong to a wealthy family, he always looked slovenly and undernourished with his long reddish hair and unkempt beard.

His life was lonely and mysterious, but he had a tremendous reputation for brains and ability among his acquaintances and was treated with great respect, even by the richest and most prominent of his fellow citizens from Munich. In 1913 he was living at a well-known Pension Seurmann, in the Bohemian quarter of Munich, largely patronized by Russians and other foreigners, whose anarchist views were notorious.

Time Ripe for Propaganda.

Previous to the war the anarchist organization was not taken very seriously by the authorities save from time to time when assassinations or attempted outrages aroused popular indignation. Its members were comparatively few. Money was lacking and the working people were in general too contented to lend ready ear to their propaganda.

The situation today is very different. The soil is ready and fertile for deadly seed. The operations are directed by the able and unscrupulous men who hold the reins in Russia, and money is forthcoming in vast quantities from the stolen property of Czar, Boyar, and bourgeois.

It is becoming daily more the opinion here that attempts to cope with the evil in the countries affected are mere palliatives, and that trying to dam the flood of anarchy by restrictions at the frontiers is little more effective.

The only permanent cure, many feel, in the destruction of the Terrorist forces at their head centre—that it, the overthrow of the Bolshevist régime in Russia. Nothing less, it is argued, will suffice since, confine it in Russia or even Germany as the Allies may, anarchy's money and agents will slip through the barrier as long as the Bolsheviki remain in power.

Russia Held in Iron Grip.

Late arrivals state that Lenine and Trotsky have so ruthlessly crushed opposition that they hold Russia in a grip of iron. In the truest sense of the word, it is said, they reign by terrorism and so terrible is their vengeance upon their defeated opponents that no man dares to raise his hand against them. Their spies are everywhere and their victims are tortured so horribly that men shudder at the very recital. That they are hated goes without saying, but it is the hate of slaves who know their own impotence.

There are two examples out of thousands that show the real character of this bloodiest tyranny that the world has known. Some prisoners, returned from Germany, were parked in a sort of concentration camp near Moscow to the number of about 38,000. Perhaps the Bolsheviki were not sure of their entire adherence to the terrorist cause or it may have been a question of insufficient transportation. At any rate the prisoners began to murmur and demand to be sent home.

The local Soviet acted swiftly and decisively. Red Guards were posted so as to encircle the camp with a network of machine guns. Then all food supplies were cut off, that was all.

My informant says that he himself saw train load after train load of corpses being transferred from the camp to the municipal refuse destruction furnaces, and a Bolshevist official said:

"There are 25,000 fewer counter-revolutionaries in the world. The survivors will know better than to attempt to oppose us in the future."

Crushed Peasants with Guns.

In October the peasants of a district a hundred miles from Moscow, refused to obey the orders to send the harvested grain to the city and united to the number of 3,000 or 4,000 for armed resistance. A superior Red Guard force attacked them with machine guns and artillery. Four-fifths of these "counter revolutionaries" were massacred on the field of battle, their villages were burnt and their families were slaughtered by wholesale.

The survivors were brought to Moscow for execution. That the lesson might be thorough and far-reaching no refinement of cruelty that the Soviet's Chinese henchmen could devise was omitted. Impalement alive on wooden stakes, torture by flame, and mutilations, too hideous to relate, prolonged their agony in some cases two whole days. The blackened and twisted corpses were left hanging for weeks "as a warning against counter revolution."

Taft and Associates Urge Supporters Of League to Sway Congress Opinion

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BITTER CREEK, Wyo., Feb. 23.—The war against military autocracy has been won because the great free nations acted together, and its results will be secured only if they continue to act together. The forces making for autocratic rule on the one hand and for the violence of Bolshevism on the other are still at work. In fifty years the small State of Prussia organized Central Europe so as to defy the world. In the present disorganized state of Central and Eastern Europe that can be done again on a still larger scale, and menace all free institutions.

The death of millions of men and the destruction and debt in another world war would turn civilization backward for generations. In such a war we shall certainly be involved, and our best young men will be sacrificed as the French and English have been sacrificed in the last four years.

Such a catastrophe can be prevented only by reconstruction of the small States now seeking self-government on the basis of freedom and justice. But this is impossible without a league; for, divided, its members are not strong enough for the task. Should the victorious nations fail to form a league, German Imperialists would have a clearer field for their designs.

By the abundance of its natural resources; by the number, intelligence and character of its people, the United States has become a world power. It cannot avoid the risks and must assume the responsibilities of its position. It cannot stand aloof, but must face boldly the facts of the day with confidence in itself and its future among the great nations of the earth. United as never before, our people have fought this war. United and above party we must consider the problems of peace, resolved that so far as in us lies war shall no more scourge mankind.

The covenant reported at the Paris conference has come since the last election, and the people have had no chance to pass judgment upon it.

In this journey from coast to coast we have looked into the faces of more than 100,000 of typical Americans and believe that the great majority of our countrymen desire to take part in such a league as is proposed in that document.

We appeal to our fellow citizens, therefore, to study earnestly this question and express their opinions with a voice so clear and strong that our representatives in Congress may know that the people of the United States are determined to assume their part in this crisis of human history. The alternative to a League of Nations is the heavy burden and the constant temptation of universal armament.

TROTZKY POSES LIKE AN EMPEROR

WARSAW, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—Trotzky, the Russian Bolshevist Minister of War, has assumed an exalted military attitude, assembling about him commissaries whom he treats as his marshals. He is also holding frequent reviews, sometimes riding on horseback wearing a high cap of sheepskin and calling out to the men: "Good morrow, my little soldiers," whereupon they reply, "good morrow, comrade."

These close relations, however, did not prevent one of his comrades from stealing Trotzky's sable overcoat recently during a halt, when the War Minister was enjoying his usual sumptuous meal.

Trotzky, who has of late taken to himself more power than ever, had a fierce quarrel with Nikolai Lenine, the Bolshevist Premier, regarding the Princes' Islands conference. He strongly opposed this conference, but Lenine prevailed. Lenine desires to preserve Bolshevism at any cost, and also to keep in as far as possible with the Allies, in the belief that Bolshevism will sweep over the world.

Sverdloff, of the Central Executive Committee of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates, has been playing mediator between Trotzky and Lenine, and has been engaged at Vilna, Minsk, and other points in urging the Bolshevist officers to cease their crimes and keep a semblance of order, as reports of murder and pillage are reaching the "capitalistic press."

Meanwhile, Trotzky is continuing his efforts to build up an army, which is now estimated at 600,000 men. He is supposed to have ammunition for six months. Trotzky manages to keep the cloth factories working for uniforms, although handicapped by lack of coal, but large quantities of wood are being used. Another handicap is transportation difficulties. There are only two trains a week to Baranovichi, with a special first class coach for the Soviet delegates, and third class or freight cars for the others.

Among the Red Army are special corps of women, whom Trotzky is endeavoring to win over to his cause, although up to the present the women have proved its bitterest enemy, due to the Bolshevist plans to suppress marriage. The Commissaries are attempting to employ many women in the ministries and other offices, but the majority of them leave soon.

A fight against religion is going on. Moscow's celebrated Church of St. Basil has been closed. The statue of Our Lady of Iverskia has not been destroyed, but is covered by a piece of calico, on which is printed, "Religion is opium for the people."

Social conditions are very serious, and even medical students have been mobilized to treat serious cases of disease.

WILSON THANKS CHURCHES.

Acknowledges Wireless Favoring League—Religious Liberty Asked.

In response to a wireless message sent to President Wilson last Friday by the General War Time Commission of the Churches, representing 18,000,000 Protestants affiliated with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, in which "earnest desire" was expressed for the successful formation of a League of Nations "to meet the world's need for an established and righteous order of international relationships," the following reply was made public here today by Robert E. Speer, Chairman of the commission:

> The message just received from the General War Time Commission of the Churches has given me the greatest pleasure and encouragement, and I beg that you express my warmest thanks and gratitude for it. WOODROW WILSON.

As a practical evidence of their sympathy for the persecuted Christians of the Turkish Empire and for the Jews of Russia, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has sent the following cablegram to be presented to the Peace Conference:

> The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America urges upon the American representatives at the allied Peace Conference the importance of a guarantee of religious liberty in all countries directly or indirectly affected by the decisions of that conference, believing that such guarantee is a fundamental feature in the program of vital democracy and essential to the peace of the world.

The cablegram was prepared by a special committee composed of Bishop Luther B. Wilson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Dr. C. L. Thompson of the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Howard B. Grose of Boston, representing the Baptist Church, and the Rev. F. H. Knubel of the Lutheran Church.

POLES SKEPTICAL OF NATIONS' LEAGUE

Opposition Party Considers a Large Army Essential to the Nation's Safety.

WARSAW, Feb. 23, (Associated Press.)—Informal discussions of the League of Nations project that have taken place since the arrival of the Interallied Mission here have revealed little sympathy for the idea among the Poles, the opposition holding it to the impracticable. It is held by them that a big army is a necessity for Poland to unify the people and give the remade nation a new start by building on its military traditions, to employ the idlers, to assist in the restoration of Lithuania and White Russia, and to repel invasion.

This Polish party points out that the position of Poland, surrounded as she is by enemies, appears to be not well understood, especially by Americans. The prediction is made that Germany will surely use the economic weapon to recover her ascendency in Poland, and likewise in Russia, where Poland hopes to do much business.

Polish callers at the headquarters of the American section of the mission have had the view expressed to them, it is stated, that the idea of large armies is not in harmony with the League of Nations project, and that the settlement of boundary claims by force is likely to breed new quarrels.

As for the Marmora conference proposal, it has been favorably received by the Poles, who regard the sttlement of the Russian problem as of the most urgent importance.

The announcement by Ignace Jan Paderewski that a large Polish army is needed is being considered by members of the Interallied Mission here, and it is likely that the members of the mission will be obliged to stay longer than three weeks, the time which was fixed for its study of Polish affairs.

Both the tasks of adjusting present conflicts and planning for the future are receiving much thought from the mission, which sits mornings and sometimes continues its work in the afternoon. When not in session, the heads of the mission receive callers or make official visits. Many social functions have been arranged for the visitors, being chiefly attended by the younger members of society here.

An economic mission composed of six British railway and mining experts has arrived here for the purpose of making studies preliminary to submitting a report on conditions to the British Government.

Ten trainloads of food have been shipped in from Danzig, where relief ships are being unloaded. One train has been sent to Lemberg, but the Ukrainians have cut off railway communication beyond that point.

The Social Revolutionists, one of the four Socialist parties in the Ukraine, have issued a proclamation declaring that the "Franco-British imperialists" are the enemies of true freedom. Therefore, the proclamation declares, the Ukrainians must unite and forget their differences, in order to protect themselves from the attacks which are now under way on three sides of them—on one side by the Bolsheviki, on another by the Poles, who desire the oilfields, and on the third by the Rumanians, who are after Bessarabia.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The Warsaw Diet today continued its discussion of Premier Paderewski's statement of Feb. 20. M. Grabski, in the name of the Populist bloc, expressed confidence in M. Paderewski. He advocated a close union with the Allies, the formation of a strong army, and the return of the Polish troops which have fought on the western front under General Joseph Haller.

M. Stolarski, a Radical, also speaking for the Populist Party, seconded the demand for a strong army and asked for agrarian reforms.

M. Witos, a Moderate Populist, favored an alliance with the Entente and affirmed his confidence in M. Paderewski.

M. Dashinski, a Socialist, made a moderate speech, in which he offered no opposition to the Premier. He emphasized the necessity of the return of General Haller's troops.

BOLSHEVIKI ANSWER POLES.

Are Ready for Peace, Tchitcherin Informs Paderewski.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph at Geneva wires under date of Sunday:

"The Bolshevist Foreign Minister at Moscow has sent a wireless message to Premier Paderewski in reply to the latter's telegram expressing the desire to enter into negotiations with the Lenine and Trotzky Government with a view to terminating the conflict between Russia and Poland.

"Tchitcherin states that the Soviet Government is ready to enter into amicable relations with the Polish people and is ready to receive delegates from the Polish Republic, and desires to refrain from any interference with the internal affairs of Poland. He, however, draws the attention of Paderewski to the fact that Polish legionaires are fighting against Soviet troops on the Murman coast, in Siberia, and elsewhere in conjunction with Russian White Guards and counter-revolutionists. The Soviet Government desires that the Polish Government should put an end to this state of things and regulate in a peaceful manner all questions between the two Governments. This communication is signed by Tchitcherin on behalf of the Soviet Government.

"I am informed that the Soviet Government is in a mood to make another Brest-Litovsk treaty, this time with the Entente, and will accept from the Western powers, as it did from the Germans, any terms they may choose to impose."

EXPERTS AT ODDS OVER GERMAN FLEET

British and Americans Favor Sinking Ships; French and Italians Oppose It.

UNFIT FOR COMMERCIAL USE

Too Heavily Engined—Our Officers Say They Couldn't Be Broken Up at a Profit.

PARIS, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—While the Supreme War Council has not discussed the disposition of surrendered German warships, the naval experts of the council have studied the subject, British and American officers agreeing that the proper solution of the question will be to sink them in deep water. French and Italian officers do not take this view, and if the experts do not soon reach an agreement, the matter may be taken up directly by the Supreme War Council.

The British Navy has captured the greater number of German vessels taken during the war, and the British delegates feel they have a greater interest in the determination of the question, and they have the weight of the opinion of American experts with them. There are seventy-four German warships, aggregating half a million tons, or an estimated bidding cost of $200,000,000, at Scapa Flow. These naval vessels cannot be used profitably in commerce, are too heavily engined and have no cargo space, a fact which has been proved. It has also been demonstrated by American wreckers that naval vessels cannot be broken up at a profit.

The Italian Government is credited with having broken up the famous old battleship Duilio at a profit, but no one else has been able to do as well. The turrets and side armor plate could not be utilized excepting at great expense, and even the boilers and engines would be unsuitable for commercial uses. It is pointed out that it would be possible to detach the navigating instruments and much brass work, which would be done in any case, but the recommendations of British and American experts is that the hulls be sunk.

One naval expert of the Peace Commission said today there were important naval reasons for complete destruction of the German ships. It had been suggested that they should be distributed among the Entente Powers in proportion to the maritime losses sustained by each. On that basis the American share would be absurdly small. Then, he said, the distribution might involve disagreements and leave bad feeling between the powers and also provoke an enlargement of rival building programs at great expense. At the same time, the German ships would not fit into any of the Entente navies.

PUTS IRELAND'S CLAIMS BEFORE CONFERENCE

PARIS, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—Sean O'Cealligh presented himself to the Peace Conference today as "the accredited envoy of the Provisional Government of the Irish Republic."

O'Cealligh has sent a letter to Premier Clemenceau, to Paul Dutasta, Secretary General of the Peace Conference, and to each delegate a letter in which he brings to their notice the claim of his "Government, in the name of the Irish nation, for international recognition of the independence of Ireland, and for the admission of Ireland as a constituent member of the League of Nations."

This letter was accompanied in each case by copies of the Irish Declaration of Independence of Jan. 21, and the message of greetings from the "nation of Ireland" to the rest of the world.

In his letter O'Cealligh states that Professor de Valera, Arthur Griffith, and Count Plunkett have been delegated by the National Assembly to present a statement to the Peace Conference and the League of Nations in the name of the Irish people. He asks that a date be fixed for the reception of these men.

Ever since it was stated that the Irish would send delegates to the Peace Conference it has been generally understood here that their credentials would come before the Committee on Credentials in the same manner as those of any other persons applying for recognition.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The man giving his name as Sean O'Cealligh, who presented himself to the Peace Conference in Paris as envoy of the "Provisional Government of the Irish Republic," is J. T. O'Kelly, Member of Parliament from College Green, Dublin.

he said, eight or ten shillings would be left uncovered.

The Premier agreed that there was bitter feeling regarding housing, and this the Commission would inquire into, as well as wages, hours of work and other matters. He added that any scheme for the future working of the coal industry, whether on the present basis or by joint control or nationalization, would also come within the scope of the committee's investigation.

Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that the cost of coal at the pit mouth in this country was 17 shillings, as against 11 shillings in the United States. If the demands were granted, he said, the cost here would be about 26 shillings.

The country, the Premier said, had already lost large orders from Brazil, where before the war the British had virtually dominated the market. Orders were also being lost from Argentina, and this was important, he said, as the coal ships sent there brought back meat. The miners, as well as other workers, he pointed out, would be affected at once if trade were lost or industries crippled.

There were two objects in the demands of the miners: to meet the increased cost of living and to prevent unemployment by providing for more work to be done. The Premier said that, if his figures were correct, the granting of the demands, so far as those two conditions were concerned, would aggravate them. If the miners were seeking to reach an ideal, it ought to be done in such a way as not to precipitate a disaster in other industries, which ought to have time to adjust themselves to demands of that character.

According to information in possession of the Government, Mr. Lloyd George continued, the cost of steel was already high, and would go up 10 per cent. if the price of coal was raised.

The Premier emphasized the serious effect of the cost of coal in relation to the food supply. America, he added, was a very serious competitor in respect to the export of coal, which was more important for Great Britain than for America. If that export trade was destroyed, an increase in the cost of coal and food was inevitable.

A number of the miners' leaders spoke, some of them favoring postponement of the strike until the close of the Government inquiry, others advocating a further conference with the Government.

The Premier again rose and said he could not accept the latter suggestion, and added that, having heard the miners' leaders, he was more than ever convinced that it was a case not for a decision, but for an inquiry. The Government was not entitled to commit the State to nationalization without a careful investigation, not even to avert a strike. The Government would do its utmost to get the commission's report before March 31, but could gain nothing by yielding.

The miners, said the Premier, talked as though the war was ended. But it was not ended. His advices from Paris indicated that things were by no means settled. Peace had not been made with the formidable enemy, whom the miners themselves had made great sacrifices to defeat.

Adamson Urges Nationalization.

In speaking on the declaration of Premier Lloyd George as to the coal mining inquiry, William Adamson, Chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party, said that the Government had sufficient data at its disposal to deal with the questions of wages and hours. He urged the desirability of settling these questions before the miners' meeting on Wednesday.

Mr. Adamson also asked the Premier to agree to the principle of nationalization, leaving it to the commission to go into the necessary inquiries which were bound to be made prior to such a big undertaking by the Government.

The vote taken by the miners, Mr. Adamson said, was in favor of a strike by 611,998 against 104,997.

In a speech before a meeting of miners at Mansfield yesterday Frank Hodges, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, said that if the Government desired to avert a national disaster it must understand that a report on the wages and hours of miners must be forthcoming before March 14. He said that the principle of nationalization must be established and added that the railway men and the transport workers were with the miners.

EX-KAISER CONFERS WITH BERLIN OFFICIAL

During Saturday and Sunday he conferred with former Emperor William. Last night Dr. Kriege had a conference with Herr Von Gontard, the former Emperor's private secretary, and was with him far into the night.

The nature of the conferences at Amerongen Castle is kept absolutely secret. It is remarked, however, that the recent activity at the castle coincides with the presence at The Hague of Dr. von Kühlmann, the former German Foreign Minister, who is said to be showing the greatest zeal.

The Duchess of Croy, who was Miss Nancy Leishman, an American, has been staying for several days at the Castle of Zuylestein, a short distance from Amerongen. There is no confirmation of a report that she called on the former Emperor.

Erzberger and Brockdorff at Odds—To Discuss Army at Weimar.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 24.—A crisis is brewing in the German Cabinet, according to the Weimar correspondent of the Berliner Vossische Zeitung.

The trouble is due to a disagreement between Mathias Erzberger, the head of the Armistice Commission, and Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, Foreign Minister.

WEIMAR, Feb. 23, (Associated Press.)—The future of the German Army will be discussed when the German National Assembly meets on Monday. When the discussion is concluded, the revised draft of the German Constitution will be introduced by Minister Preuss.

JAPANESE REPEAT DEMAND ON AMERICANS

Want Equipment of Siberian Cossacks Who Asked Our Protection Given Up.

VLADIVOSTOK, Feb. 19, (Associated Press.)—The Japanese staff here has requested Colonel Henry D. Styer of the American Army to turn over to the Japanese the arms, horses, and equipment of the Cossack troops of General Kalmikoff, who mutinied late in January and then surrendered their arms and horses to the Americans.

A short time ago Major General William S. Graves, the American commander, refused a verbal demand of the Japanese staff that he cease to protect the 1,500 mutineers of the Kalmikoff forces, on the ground that Kalmikoff's record was not good, that he represented no authorized authority, and that there was no guarantee that he would not revive the reign of terror in the Ussuri-Khabarovsk district which caused protests to be made by General Graves to General Otani, the Japanese Commander in Chief.

The Japanese now claim that the equipment of these Cossack troops belongs to them. Up to this time General Graves has not been inclined to concede this claim without assurances that the men when released will not be the victims of Kalmikoff's vengeance.

Early last December the American and Japanese authorities were forced to warn General Kalmikoff that he would have to cease his harsh treatment of the inhabitants of the Ussuri district. Kalmikoff was said to have carried out a reign of terror in the region. Late in January 1,500 of his troops, the bulk of his force, revolted against General Kalmikoff. The men declared tney would no longer serve under Kalmikoff, and surrendered their arms and horses to the American troops, whose protection they requested.

Kalmikoff, who is only 28 years old, has never recognized the authority of any Government.

LEWIS DEFENDS FULL LEAGUE PLAN

Tells the Senate It Should Accept It Without the Change of a Syllable.

SEES POLITICS IN CRITICISM

WORLD ALLIANCE OR ENMITY

These, He Says, Are America's Alternatives—Denies That League Imperils Monroe Doctrine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Speaking in the Senate today, Senator Lewis of Illinois, the Democratic whip, made answer to the attacks upon the League of Nations by Democratic and Republican Senators. Senator Lewis, vehemently upholding the League of Nations project, declared that it would mean an alliance of the United States with foreign powers that would put an end to the possibility of a world war.

At the end of Senator Lewis' speech the galleries, packed as they have been on every other day when the League of Nations has been debated, broke into wild applause. Vice President Marshall, after banging the gavel until quiet was restored, announced that the rule of no applause would be enforced, and that if any further demonstrations were were made the galleries would be cleared.

"The galleries have been behaving like Bolsheviki," said the Vice President. "It cannot be tolerated any more."

Senator Lewis spoke for nearly two hours. He asked at the outset that there be no interruption by Senators, and his request was heeded. At the end of his speech, which, he announced, was in reply to those of Senators Borah and Reed, Senator Reed arose to combat one of the points raised by Mr. Lewis. The Illinois Senator had asserted that the League of Nations would not mean the disarmament of the United States or any other nation.

"The Illinois Senator presumes to speak for the Administration," said Senator Reed. "I want to let him know that the chief thing about this League of Nations proposal is the disarmament of the nations going into it. The Illinois Senator assumes to speak for the Administration, but he does not get his facts straight."

Senator Lewis spoke in advocacy of the entire League of Nations project, saying that it ought to be accepted by the Senate without the change of a syllable. He regretted, he said, the attacks made against the League project, most of which, he felt, were induced by partisanship.

Wilson Assailed Like Catiline.

"If Woodrow Wilson were a Roman Catiline," he said, "charged by a Cicero with conspiracy to surrender his land to the enemy of his country, and Taft a modern Aaron Burr, they could not have been more violently impugned than each has been by the leaders of the opposition to the League of Nations. Yet the head and front of the offending by those two first citizens of our Republic is but to do the will of God and fulfil the prayer of Christ for 'Peace on earth and good will to men.'

"Nothing so proved the animosity to Wilson's success in any design as the refusal to grant him his request, cabled as he sailed for America, to postpone discussion of the constitution of the League until he could arrive and explain the circumstances of its formation. The fact that there would be months after Wilson returns to Paris for the conclusion of his work, in which discussion of every nature could be had, was of no influence on those who preferred to exhibit everywhere their defiance of any request he might make.

"The reasons urged as a justification for the assault have, I declare, no grounds in the contents of the document. It is said that the document violates our policy against alliances with foreign Governments as opposed by Washington. I answer that the document prevents what Washington opposed—partial alliances by America with any foreign country, even were her statesmen inclined. It requires two-thirds of all to permit any war or peace action with one. Would two-thirds ever allow such disadvantages to them in favor of any one against them all? The constitution of the League prohibits the possibility of a political alliance with any European power by balancing against the European, the Asiatic, Japan, and all of South America. The army and navy of the United States is provided for in the charter by words, as of a kind that she shall by her situation and peculiar geography personally adopt and personally control.

Monroe Doctrine is Safe.

"It is asserted by the opponents of the plan that it violates the principle of the Monroe Doctrine, which guarantees the countries of South and Central America from aggression by European countries. It was to prevent this very assumption that Section X. of the charter pledged all of the Governments in the League to resist aggression by any one State or the Government of any State. The words of this Section X. are taken from the spirit of the resolution passed by The Hague Peace Conference in 1907, in resolving to preserve the Monroe Doctrine in any treaty of or alliance of world nations for world peace. It is this that Wilson pledged in his address to the Senate Jan. 22, 1917.

"We ask why this false fear is heralded by Senators? What purpose has Britain to gain by allowing her European or Asiatic rivals in trade for territory to possess South or Central America? Will Spain, France, and Italy, the mothers of the sons of these southern lands, vote their destiny in the possession of Britain? The cry is to awaken prejudice, not to convince by the truth of a situation.

"Senators opposing the compact say the Executive Council is composed of five great world States—and, the United States being but one, it would be outvoted in every enterprise of world contest by each nation of the League casting one vote. Such is not in the possibilities. The Executive Council admits the States of the League. France, Britain, and Italy alone have such personal, racial, and commercial interests in all Central and South American countries that their entrance is to be of the first. There are eleven republics of America in, with eleven votes. If all of Britain's colonies having independent Governments each have a vote, the United States with Central and South America outvotes the Europeans on any American policy nine to five—assuming only the larger republics admitted to the council.

Scouts Danger from the East.

"If the issue should ever arise as to the citizenship privileges of Japan and China in the western continent, Canada, each of the four Australias, all of the colonies of South Africa, by their now existing legislation are one with the United States on her declared policy. Britain will not be against her own colonial children.

"Where is the ground for this fear of Japanese invasion by citizenship or immigration on America through the League for peace? Let us submit now that if there is a danger of the dishonorable consolidation of the European nations against us in every vote, then, when we sat in with them for an allied council for the conduct of the European war or now sit for an allied peace, we risked our nation to defeat and our people to dishonor. Every action of the Allies has proven the falsity of this fear.

"The document on its face refutes every attack made against it. The people of the United States will pass on the justice of the provisions through their representatives in the Senate, who must ratify or reject it—as of any other treaty.

"Now, I protest against our opponents assuming to create the political issue by crying 'nationalism' against the object of the League. I oppose their design in trying to convince the American people that the spirit of democracy was against nationalism of America for internationalism of the world.

"I reply to this accusation that it was not the democracy that hurled the United States into government in the Philippine Islands and by going into Asia when our Government gave Asia the right to demand to come into our Government with her people. It was not democracy that sent the army of the United States into China to protect foreign nationalities and afterward possessed the railroads and commercial privileges of that land for favorites under cry of 'open door,' all at the expense of the hatred of China and distrust of Japan. It was not democracy that plunged the United States into a European conflict for the balance of power—of Kings and Emperors—at the conference in Spanish Algeria [Algeciras?] to settle who should filch Morocco.

"Nor shall I allow the assailing Senators to preach their false assumption of nationalism by calling up the name Roosevelt as its sacred apostle. Let the reply be heard that, so converted to the belief that America was now of the world and its protector of justice and guardian of right, ex-President Roosevelt, demanded to the ears of the world that, merely because the neutrality of Belgium was invaded by Germany, the United States, without waiting for a dollar of her property to be assailed or a citizen of her land to be wronged, should, should sail our armies by millions, our navies in fleets, to Europe and dash us into the world war to every risk we hazarded—unprepared as we were, merely to avenge, as Roosevelt cried forth, 'the brutalizing of Belgium.'

"It was democracy in America that ever cried for a continent of peace and harmony with the world. It is now that which we ask in the name of Christianity. We ask it by the process of an agreement of human hearts, covenanted to the love of men and justice to nations. If, as charged by the Senator from Idaho, Mr. Borah, this is an internationalism, made contemptible by the espousal of Trotsky in Russia, I answer it is then redeemed by the respectability of the advocacy of Lodge, Senator from Massachusetts, of the system now proposed by Wilson and Taft.

Quotes Lodge as Favoring League.

"The leader of the Opposition (Mr. Lodge) in his speech in Washington, May, 1916, said:

"'I know how quickly we shall be met with the statement that this is a dangerous question which you are putting into your agreement—that no nation can submit to the judgment of other nations, and we must be careful at the beginning not to attempt too much. I know the difficulties which arise when we speak of anything which seems to involve an alliance. But I do not believe that when Washington warned us against entangling alliances he meant for one moment that we should not join with other civilized nations of the world if a method could be found to diminish war and encourage peace.'

"And, said the Senator:

"'This League certainly has the highest of all aims for the benefit of humanity, and because the pathway is sown with difficulties is no reason that we should turn from it.'

"Then the Senator concluded, saying:

"'The limit of voluntary arbitration has, I think, been reached. I think the next step is that which this League proposes, and that is to put force behind international peace. We may not solve it in that way, but if we cannot solve it in that way, it can be solved in no other.'

"I accept the sentiments of Senator Lodge of 1916. I demand of the opponents; present your plan for peace. Have you any? Is there only the voice of veto from you all on whatever plan—merely that it is proposed by Wilson? The country is not deceived. It will understand—and when it does know that for party politics or personal prejudices their representatives would continue to consign the nation's children to the misery of cripples, the agony of sightless eyes, and order the destruction of their young lives forever, these Christian mothers and patriot fathers will cry down on the heads of them all the curse of heaven.

Shall America be Ally or Enemy?

"It is now for our country to make her decision. It is to the white paths of peace or the black plains of war. And now, when my country comes to the final judgment, let her not come blindfolded with the scarf of delusion. Let her behold herself in her now new relation to the world. The tomorrows greet her as the accepted friend to each or as the enemy of all.

"This America is now an island, surrounded by those who, as friends, can be the aid and supporter of the United States on her way to a peaceful eminence of prosperity to her nation and happiness to her people, or with the Behring Sea at the north, with maddened Russia frienzied in hatred of us, the Atlantic on the east, whose tides boom the summons to every ancient European grudge or national rivalry to sate itself at the first opportunity.

"On the Pacific are the mysterious lands of the mystic East, in silent meditation as to their course, in retaliation for the long affront against their people and indignity of years against their nation. At the south, the Panama Canal and a guf that widens to a sea, which echoes in its every singing wave the doubt and suspicions of South and Central America against the professed friendships of the United States.

"Our tomorrows approach heavily upon us with the burdens of uncertainty. Let us not be deceived that we are exempt from the inheritances which, from the dawn of time, have befallen those who march in rivalry to overcome by supremacy of superiority their rival nations. For us there is but one of two fates decreed. It is to be victor or victim!

"We will live in the brotherhood of peace, tranquil in the family fraternity of nations, through interchange of benefits and blessings, or we will live the life of one threatened by the powerful, hated by those who fear us, and the object of hoped for destruction by those who long for the day of power to execute their hidden vengeance. Japan and China can be one in common grievance on the East; the new Russia and the Germanic lands with a kindred hatred waiting revived strength to avenge. In Europe abide those commercial rivalries that can leave our former battlefield allies indifferent to the results that our avowed enemies may attempt upon us.

"Our America is now more imperilled in her future than has been her lot since her Republic sprung to life. Only to herself can she look with sure confidence. Only within herself can she find complete security.

"This, our country, must prepare for armies and navies of a volume that shall make us supreme against any land and every foe, but which shall swell the debt of the nation to where it will exhaust the rich and beggar the poor, and then awaken a discontent to burst forth in internal daily dissensions, provoking, in the end, civil revolution. Or we must reckon with out new changed condition, with the fleets of the sea knitting us to every shore of every land, the air woven into a canopy of death or in curtains of life by the shuttle weavings of the airplane.

"From all this we must see that the peace our country seeks of the earth for mankind is not for only others than ourselves. Let our country behold itself as the light of truth reveals us—in danger. We can prepare now to empty every home of its first-born—we can smite the tears from every mother's heart and wring with agony the soul of every wife. More, we can consign every boy to the fate of a cripple—and many to the horrors of sightless eyes and a hopeless life. We can empty the treasuries of the cities and make barren the farms. We can leave our country a graveyard for her dead children, stricken by her own hand, and turn our churches of God into the mourning houses where the wails of the desolate will cry unto heaven to consign the creators of their desolation to the depths of hell. All this we can have, that we may boast of military glory and the vanquishing by world-murder of every foe.

"Or, Sirs, we can salute the regenerated earth in the new spirit which our children reincarnated with their sacred bodies, still sanctifying the soil that is their distant graves. We can join in friendship that surrenders no right nor yields one privilege of a just peace.'"

KITCHIN TO PRESS VICTORY LOAN BILL

Presents Report to House and Hopes for Passage of Measure Today.

SENATE OBSTACLE ARISES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—In his report on the Victory Short-Term Notes bill, submitted to the House today, Representative Kitchin, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, estimated that the expenditures for the fiscal year would reach $19,000,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000,000 over the original estimates of the Treasury Department. Of this amount $14,000,000,000 has been raised, or will be obtained as follows:

From the Fourth Liberty Loan, $7,000,000,000; from the War Savings certificates, $1,000,000,000; from the new revenue law, $6,000,000,000.

This leaves $5,000,000,000 to be raised through the short-term notes authorized in the pending bill.

Mr. Kitchin said he would call up the bill tomorrow afternoon and he is hopeful of its passage by the House before adjournment tomorrow. While he was making his report, the Finance Committee of the Senate met, and in its brief session opposition to the $1,000,000,000 revolving fund and to delegating authority to the Secretary of the Treasury to fix the interest rates on the notes developed. Republican members of the committee are inclined to withhold consent, and, by doing so, to force a special session of Congress.

Tax Exemptions Allowed.

The report analyzes the bill, and explains in detail the amount of exemptions under the pending bill and the bond acts. Under these provisions, a taxpayer could hold the following amounts of Government obligations exempt from all income taxes and excess and war profits taxes:

Bonds absolutely tax free in addition to the 3½ per cent. First Liberty bonds, $50,000.

Fourth Liberty bonds, tax free until two years after the termination of the war, $30,000.

First Liberty bonds, converted; Second Liberty bonds, converted or unconverted, and Third Liberty bonds, until two years after the termination of the present war, $45,000.

First Liberty bonds, converted; Second Liberty bonds, converted or unconverted; Third and Fourth Liberty bonds, until five years after the termination of the present war, $30,000.

First Liberty bonds, converted; Second Liberty bonds, converted or unconverted; Third and Fourth Liberty bonds, so long as the owner holds $6,667 of notes originally subscribed for by him, $20,000.

Credits to the Allies.

Mr. Kitchin points out that the bill makes provision for the extension of credits to foreign Governments to the amount of $1,500,000,000, and that the section on the maturity of foreign obligations reads:

"That the obligations of foreign Governments acquired by the Secretary of the Treasury by virtue of the provisions of the First Liberty Bond act and the Second Liberty Bond act, and amendments and supplements thereto, shall mature at such dates as shall be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury;

"Provided, that such obligations acquired by virtue of the provisions of the First Liberty Bond act or through the conversion of short-time obligations acquired under such act shall mature not later than June 15, 1947, and all other such obligations of foreign Governments shall mature not later than Oct. 15, 1938."

Explains Exporters' Loans.

Discussing War Finance Corporation loans, the report says:

"This section authorizes the War Finance Corporation to make loans to exporters and to banks, bankers, and trust companies until one year after the termination of the present war to assist in the exportation of domestic products. Because of exchange conditions, thereby necessitating some of the foreign Governments putting restrictions upon our exports to them, as it is claimed, it is believed that this provision will materially help our industries in their production during the transition period, and to maintain their export business.

"This section authorizes the War Finance Corporation to make advances, for periods not exceeding five years, direct to any exporter engaged in the export business in the United States, if, in the opinion of the Board of Directors of the corporation, he is unable to obtain funds upon reasonable terms through banking channels.

"Any such advance shall be made only for the purpose of assisting in the exportation of such products, and shall be limited in amount to not more than the contract price therefor, including insurance and carrying or transportation charges to the foreign point of destination if and to the extent that such insurance and carrying or transportation charges are payable in the United States by such exporter to domestic insurers and carriers. The rate of interest charged on any such advance shall not be less than 1 per cent. per annum in excess of the rate of discount for ninety-day commercial paper prevailing at the time of such advance at the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the borrower is located.

Advances to Banks.

"This section also authorizes the corporation to make advances for not to exceed five years to any bank, banker, or trust company in the United States, which, after this section takes effect, makes an advance to any exporter for the purpose of assisting in the exportation of domestic products. Such advances are to be limited to not exceeding the amount remaining unpaid of the advances made by the bank, banker, or trust company to the exporter for the purpose of exporting domestic products.

"The corporation cannot have outstanding under this section and unpaid at any one time advances in excess of $1,000,000,000.

"The corporation at the time of making any advance must require the promissory note or notes of the borrower together with full and adequate security in each instance by indorsement, guarantee or otherwise. It shall also retain power to require additional security at any time. Authority is also granted to the corporation to extend the time of payment of any advance through renewals or the substitution of any obligations or otherwise, but in no case can it extend the time for payment of the advance beyond five years from the time the advance was originally made."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24, (Associated Press.)—After the Ways and Means Committee had reported today the Treasury authorized the statement that the $5,000,000,000 mentioned by the committee as the possible size of the Victory Loan was not necessarily exact, since the amount would not be determined finally by the Treasury for a month and a half. The size then will depend on Government expenses, which can not be forecast accurately for the next month or more.

SAYS MEXICO WANTS CREDIT ESTABLISHED

Financial Representative Expects Bankers' Committe to Decide on Plan.

Rafael Nieto, acting Secretary of Finance of Mexico, who is in this country to discuss plans for the rehabilitation of his country's finances with American bankers, issued a statement yesterday following the publication of news that a group of international bankers had been formed to study the Mexican financial situation.

"The appointment of a committee of bankers to represent the interests of holders of Mexican Government and industrial securities," said Mr. Nieto, "will furnish the Mexican Government an opportunity to discuss on the broadest possible basis the matters which, as Secretary of Finance, I have been dispatched to New York by President Carranza to take up with banking interests.

"The Mexican Government aims to resume the payment of interest on its debt, and to give the fullest security to foreign investors. It is clear to every one, of course, that the revolutionary government has heretofore had to devote most of its energies to the establishment of law and order, and to meeting its immediate Government financial responsibilities. As a result of the effective work done by President Carranza in this respect, Mexico is arriving at the time when she will be able firmly to re-establish her financial credit. Despite the revolution, during the past few years many foreign business enterprises have prospered exceptionally in Mexico, to the mutual advantage of the owners of these enterprises and of the Mexican Government. I refer especially to oil and mining companies.

"It is my confident belief that a group such as the Bankers' Committee, by considering the needs and problems of the Mexican people, can, in conference with representatives of the Mexican Government, arrive at a plan of cooperation in regard to their investments and interests which will redound to the mutual advantage of Mexico and investors in Mexican securities.

"Mexico hopes to share in the great progress which is coming to the world after the period of readjustment from a war to a peace basis is past. Mexico looks forward to building up her civilization in common with other great nations of the world. In her efforts she will welcome all legitimate enterprises on the part of foreign investors wherever such enterprises do not thwart the progress of the Mexican people themselves."

A "MANDATE" IN MEXICO?

Great Britain Evidently Willing to Indorse Any American Action.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—As a sequel to the announcement made today in New York, London, and Paris concerning the formation of an international committee to see what could be done to protect the interests of investors in Mexico, it was learned today that various informal conferences had been held here, since the beginning of the Peace Conference, by the American and European representatives to discuss the Mexican situation.

Great Britain is eager to have order restored in Mexico as soon as possible, without even waiting for the formal action of the Peace Conference. The English delegates said that in effect to the Americans, assuring them that Great Britain would indorse any program initiated by the United States. In other words, America could have an unofficial mandate now if she would take it.

When President Wilson returns to Paris, he will have further talks with Mr. Balfour on this subject.

France has much the same feeling as England, but is not so emphatic in urging America to action. It will be remembered that in a recent interview summing up the present financial plight of France, Premier Clemenceau referred to the unfortunate conditions in Mexico as one of the many causes of French losses.

Thomas W. Lamont, who is now in Paris on behalf of the United States Treasury, at work on Peace Conference problems, will probably stay here for some time because of his interest in this Mexican question.

SCHWAB SANGUINE OF NATION'S FUTURE

But Sees Little Hope for Exports for Some Time, He Says, Returning from Europe.

HE IS AGAINST PROHIBITION

Believes in Workman Having His Glass of Beer—Europe Can't Understand Amendment.

The White Star liner Olympic arrived from Liverpool and Brest last night with 5,834 troops and 124 civilians on board. The troops were chiefly colored, and included the 365th Infantry complete, 124 officers and 3,515 enlisted men, who did good work in the fighting near Metz, where they were under shell fire from the big guns in the German fortress.

Charles M. Schwab, Lloyd B. Sanderson, and many of the civilian passengers on the liner, as well as the ship's officers, spoke in the highest terms of the good conduct and morale of the colored troops on the voyage. They were allowed to walk on the promenade deck all the time, but never interfered with the space reserved for the deck chairs, the officers said.

Several of the non-commissioned officers in the 365th were university graduates. There were from sixty to seventy cases of influenza in the hospitals on board all the way from Brest and there was one death from pneumonia on Sunday night.

Schwab Proud of America.

Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who was Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation during he war until last December when he resigned, returned in the best of health and spirits after visiting the American, French, and Belgium fronts and the occupied territory in Germany.

In an interview given as the Olympic steamed up to her pier from Quarantine, Mr. Schwab said that, taking a broad view of what he had seen, he returned prouder of America and of what her sons had achieved in the war than he had ever felt before. He said he did not believe there was much opportunity for export trade between the United States and the allied countries in Europe for some time to come. They needed breathing space to get back to normal conditions.

Mr. Schwab, however, was very optimistic about the business future of this country, and said he talked with President Wilson at Brest, who held the same hopeful views. In the general description of his trip, which began on Jan. 1, when he left Hoboken on the George Washington, he said:

"I spent three weeks on the trip to the battle fronts in automobiles placed at my disposal by Winston Churchill, General Pershing, and Marshal Foch, because I wanted to see for myself the conditions in the devastated regions in Northern France and Belgium. I visited the battlefield of Chateau-Thierry and heard the accounts of how the American soldiers and marines had fought there, and it was some fight, and made me feel ten times prouder of being an American than I was before; I also went to the Argonne, St. Mihiel, and Verdun, and was deeply impressed with everything I saw.

"The American soldiers have made a hit everywhere they went in France and Belgium, and I heard nothing but praise of them. I met General Pershing, whom I knew before, in France, and found him in good spirits. He is well regarded by the military and civil officials of the Allies with whom he has come into contact.

Clemenceau "Half American."

"I also had the pleasure of meeting that grand old leader of men, Premier Clemenceau, in Paris, and was deeply shocked when I had the news by wireless of the attack made upon him three days ago, but was not at all surprised. Clemenceau is one of the most democratic public men I ever met, and he never took the slightest precaution to protect himself in his office.

"I remarked to a friend who was with me after I called on Clemenceau that I should not be surprised at any time to hear of some anarchist making an attempt upon his life. In his ways I think that he is more than half American.

"While I was in Paris I also met Marshal Foch, who does not speak English very well, and I do not speak French in the native way, but I was charmed with his modesty, which he carries to a degree. When I complimented him upon his great military achievements the Marshal smiled and said that in his opinion the allied armies were all members of a great orchestra that played together in the war and he had the good fortune to wield the conductor's baton for a time, that was all.

"During my three days at Brest I visited the camps at Pontanazen and had a delightful lunch there before I was aware of the criticisms that had been made in America. After I had signed the book, stating that I considered wonderful what had been achieved there since last fall for the comfort of the soldiers, Generals Buckner and Harbord showed me some of the dispatches from New York. It is not Fifth Avenue, of course, but things are not bad there at all.

"Of the occupied territory in Germany, I only went into Cologne. Coblenz, and Metz, where it was exceedingly quiet, and the Germans seemed to be willing to be let alone, and there was no sign of suffering from lack of food. I saw many Germans that I had known before, but none of sufficient importance to discuss. I have certainly come back with a sense of extreme satisfaction of the broad ideals of my own country.

Economic Conditions in Germany.

"The grand record of our officers and soldiers gives one a great satisfaction. In traveling through the occupied regions where our troops are in Germany one might as well travel in the regions of France and Belgium untouched by war. As to the economic conditions in Germany I know that they are putting up a bold face. Though I have no intimate knowledge, I personally think the economic conditions in Germany are bad. This is the first time that I have been abroad since 1915.

"As to the business development in our own country, I am an optimist and believe it will be very great, but I have been hopeful that some method might be found that legally would tide over temporarily the period of transition that is bound to be with us.

"I left business behind and took little interest in reconstruction work. It seems too early yet to begin, and because of this I see no immediate outlet for American iron and steel.

"During the present voyage I have been among the colored troops on board and talked with them, and have seen and learned what American soldiering has done for them. They are better men than they were when they went away."

Mr. Schwab said that the people in Europe could not understand the prohibition amendment which was going to be put in force on July 1 would make the country "dry," and he hoped personally that it would not be done.

"I never touch liquor myself," he said, "but I do not like to see the United States start to prohibit anything, because when a Government does that it causes men to get together and make plans to get the thing that has been prohibited. You can say that I am in favor of the workingman having his glass of beer."

On Sunday night Mr. Schwab made a short address in the main dining room in which he spoke of the economic qualifications of the French housewife who in normal times saved millions of francs every month to invest in the Government securities and he believed that the solution of the problem of economics in this country was in the hands of the American women.

He added that he had been very much impressed by the able and effective manner in which Bernard N. Baruch was handling the industrial end of the Peace Conference in Paris for the United States.

Belgium Recovering Rapidly.

Edgar Rickard, acting United States Food Administrator, returned from a trip to Paris, where he went to consult with his chief, Herbert Hoover, regarding arrangements for dealing with the $100,000,000 appropriation made by Congress to feed and clothe the helpless people in Northern France and Belgium. He said Mr. Hoover would be away for many months because there was a vast amount of work to be done to get the proper machinery in working order. It was too early to discuss the plans, he said.

"Belgium is getting back toward her normal conditions rapidly," Mr. Rickard continued, "because her people were much more advanced in industrial methods before the war than the inhabitants of Northern France. When I visited that devastated region I found the people simply numbed by all the horrors they had gone through. They had been living for generations on the land their forefathers had tilled and worked in the same old-fashioned factories, too, where their ancestors had toiled.

"The people of this once fair land of Northern France are in a pitiable plight, because they have no initiative, they have no tools or machinery, and do not know where to begin and will have to be taught again like children how to live. The Belgians have suffered a great deal, their fine cities and towns have been destroyed, and the factories stripped, but they are a young people and are full of hustle now they have their country back again with financial help, and will rapidly go ahead."

One of the wounded British officers who arrived on the Olympic was Captain John Jacob Astor, second son of Viscount Astor. He lost his right leg at Cambrai on Sept. 1 by a high explosive shell when he was serving with the garrison artillery which had been organized from his regiment, the First Life Guards.

When asked if he had any other wounds, the Captain smiled and said that his left arm had been broken in two places by the shell, which drove fifteen pieces of metal into his body, but he believed that they had all been extracted. After spending ten days in New York he is going to Palm Beach.

Captain Astor said that he left America when he was 6 years old and returned for a brief period when he was 12, which was twenty years ago. Apart from the loss of his leg he appeared to be in good health and spirits. He was accompanied by his wife, who was Lady Violet Minto, daughter of the late Earl. They were met at the pier by his wife's brother, the present Earl Minto, who is 25 years old and is on the staff of the Governor General of Canada.

Many Mines in Adriatic.

Another distinguished passenger on the Olympic was Rear Admiral W. G. H. Bullard, U. S. N., who has been in command of the forces in the Adriatic during the war. He said there were ten destroyers and six submarine chasers there when he left and that everything was quiet. The Adriatic coast was strewn with German and Austrian mines and the allied navies were helping to pick them up, the greater part of the work being done by the Italians.

Many of the officers and men among the colored troops on board wore decorations for gallantry in the battle field, and were proud of the part they had played in the war. The colored officers felt slighted because they had been separated from the white officers on the voyage and expressed their sentiments to the reporters.

"There was no such thing as segregation on the battle fields of Europe," said one negro officer. "We all fought together as Americans through and through—all intent on helping to accomplish a big task—that of bringing peace and happiness to all the world."

15,000 AT BALL OF COLUMBUS KNIGHTS

Crowd in Madison Square Garden So Great that 5,000 Fail to Gain Admittance.

Madison Square Garden, decorated with a mass of allied flags which were suspended from the ceiling and draped with bunting of the Stars and Stripes, was the scene last night of the Charity Ball of the Knights of Columbus. When at 9 o'clock every seat in the Garden was taken and the total attendance was estimated at 15,000, the Fire Department ordered the doors closed, with the result that more than 5,000 persons were forced to remain in the streets. Fifty police reserves kept them from the building and let them in a few at a time as others left the ball.

The evening's entertainment commenced with a concert by the band of the Battleship Recruit, and this was followed by a military drill of the new 69th Regiment, in which was included some of the overseas troops of the Rainbow Division. Before the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," by Miss Anna Fitziu of the Chicago Opera Company, the Paulist Choristers, under the direction of Father Finn, entertained with many musical numbers. The program included also many vaudeville stars, among whom was Marie Dressler, the "Queen of the Ball." Besides amusing the spectators present, she rode around the arena in the automobile which was later raffled. Another novelty was the awarding of a gold medal to the most fashionably gowned woman, who was judged by Lady Duff Gorden and Herman Patrick Tappe.

There were many notables of New York society at the ball, including Baron de Cartier, Minister for Belgium; Marcel Knecht, member of the French High Commission, and Mr. De Mareira of the Brazilian Legation. John Moroney of the Lafayette Council was Chairman of the Ball Committee, and Miss Elisabeth Marbury was Chairman of the Woman's Auxiliary Committee. The patronesses included Mrs. Simon Baruch, Major Helen Bastedo, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Enrico Caruso, Mrs. William Astor Chanler, Miss Elsie de Wolfe, Mrs. Victor J. Dowling, Mrs. Michael Gavin, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. DeLancey Kane, Mrs. Martin J. Keogh, Mrs. John Magee, Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff, Mrs. Henry W. Taft, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

K. OF C. OBJECTS TO FETTERS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—An ultimatum denying the power of the Committee of Eleven and the War Departments' Committee on Training Camp Activity was issued by the Supreme Board of Directors of the Knights of Columbus at a special meeting at the Hotel Lasalle tonight.

The members of the board contend that the committee has no power to tell them how they shall spend the $25,000,000 allotted them in the recent drive for funds for the seven war work organizations. The action tonight came as a sequel to the action of the War Department's committee last week in deciding that the organizations shall not spend more than 10 per cent. of their share of their drive funds for free comforts for soldiers in France.

The Knights of Columbus contend that their part in the war work is mostly of the "free" variety, and if they are to be restricted to spending $2,500,000 in this work, their whole campaign for soldier relief will be thrown out through lack of funds.

In the resolution passed tonight, the board sets forth the nature of the work being done by its field organizations, and cites the rules under which it is managed. The board's contention is that the "creature comforts"—the little things—are the things that the soldier really needs free.

The resolution closes with the appointment of a committee to take the matter up with Secretary of War Baker.

SEEK NEW EVIDENCE OF SPANIARDS' PLOT

TRANSLATE RADICAL PAPERS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—After an examination of the ten men arrested here in connection with the fourteen I. W. W. plotters taken in New York, United States District Attorney Kane said tonight that it might take several days to determine to what extent the prisoners were concerned, if at all, in the operations charged against them.

"But," he added, "if the charges are true, the aliens will be deported and the others held for trial here."

Another man was taken into custody today, and one of those arrested last night was released. Most of the prisoners are Spaniards. Several hundred pounds of anarchist and Socialist literature, found in the rooms of the men, was translated by Government officials, but the result was not made public.

The men under arrest are Eduardo Parades, a Cuban, said to be the leader of the Spanish I. W. W.; Pasquale Surreno, Jose Gomes, Jose Rigo, Juan Marques, Olliero Blanco, Leonard Garas, Juan Rodrigues, Jose Gonzales, and Jose Antonio Pena. All but Parades are natives of Spain, and nine of them are aliens.

Secret Service men here attach more importance to the arrest in New York of two Philadelphians, Florien Medina Veitia and Elario Orestissa, than to the roundup of the ten Spaniards in this city.

A local agent of the Department of Justice learned by chance about two weeks ago of a meeting of those arrested here in New York at which some of the radicals dropped a hint of a plot against the President. The agent learned that two men were to be sent from this city to New York in connection with the conspiracy. All the Government agencies in both cities immediately turned to the task of foiling the Spanish terrorists.

The fourteen Spaniards arrested in this city on Sunday at resorts of Spanish radicals, after the Secret Service had received reports that two anarchists had traveled from Philadelphia to New York on their way to Boston in a plot against the President, were held at Police Headquarters yesterday.

Assistant United States District Attorney Matthews and Captain Peter A. Rubano of the Secret Service intended to start proceedings yesterday before United States Commissioner Hitchcock on the charge of circulating seditious literature, but action was postponed at the request of members of the Police Bomb Squad, who wanted further time in which to sift the Spanish correspondence and other documentary evidence, which they found at the radical headquarters, where they had made the arrests, and to complete the roundup of associates of the Spanish group.

Captain Rubano, who made the complaint on which the fourteen men are held by the police, said that a number of the fourteen would be deported, but he refused to discuss whether any of them would be charged with serious crime.

The fourteen prisoners were all taken from their cells at police headquarters yesterday and escorted to the gymnasium where they were put in the line-up. The police detectives did not recognize any of them as having been in trouble before.

The police continued extremely reticent regarding the evidence against the men. Search of the lodgings of all those arrested was made yesterday, and several addresses of friends were visited by detectives. Several associates of the fourteen may be arrested, but it was found yesterday that most of the other men, who were wanted, had taken warning and were hiding.

107,444 SOLDIERS DIED AT HOME AND ABROAD

More Than Two-Thirds Passed Away Overseas—Disease Killed More Than Battles.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Deaths during the war in the American Expeditionary Forces and among troops in the United States from all causes number 107,444, according to a War Department announcement today.

The total in the Expeditionary Forces was 72,951. Of these 20,829 resulted from disease, 48,768 from injuries received in battle, and 3,354 from all other causes.

Deaths from disease among the troops in the United States totaled 32,737 and from other causes 1,756, giving a total for the troops in this country of 34,493.

The figures for the American Expeditionary Forces cover the period from April 1, 1917, to Feb. 16, 1919. Those for the troops in the United States from April 1, 1917, to Feb. 14, 1919.

The figures show that the total deaths from disease exceeded the total battle casualties by more than 5,000.

WITNESS UPHOLDS O'LEARY.

Stephen W. Johnson Tells Also of Talk with Mme. de Victorica.

Stephen W. Johnson, one of the organizers of the Friends of Irish Freedom, according to his own statement, testified yesterday at the continuation of the trial of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, that he was present at a meeting held in Sulzer's Harlem River Park, at which the defendant is alleged to have made seditious utterances. He denied that O'Leary had attacked the draft act, but said the defendant had spoken loyally of the United States. O'Leary is charged with violation of the Espionage Act.

The witness told of having met Mme. Marie K. de Victorica, the Government's chief witness, in July, 1917, at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street, where an open air meeting was being conducted by the Friends of Irish Freedom. She spoke to him, he said, and he recalled having ushered her to a seat at a meeting held a few nights before in Carnegie Hall. Mme. de Victorica remarked that she wished to have a conversation with him, Johnson swore, and he took her to a nearby restaurant. Here they talked of Ireland and Irish freedom and she told him that she wanted to have Ireland's sufferings put into a motion picture story to be exhibited in South America. At that time Mme. de Victorica gave her name as Mme. Vanzieres, Johnson said.

Charles Noonan, one time official of the American Truth Society, and Assistant District Attorney William J. Morris of Queens, testified to the character of O'Leary. Noonan declared that he had never heard O'Leary express sentiments which he thought were un-American. Morris said he had known O'Leary for fifteen years, and believed the defendant was a loyal American. The trial will be continued today.

COLLEGE TRUSTEES RESIGN.

At a meeting of the Council of New York University last night the resignations as Trustees of the university of Dr. Cleland B. McAfee of Chicago and David A. Boody of Brooklyn were accepted. Dr. McAfee had served from 1909 and Mr. Boody from 1907. Dr. McAfee moved to Chicago about four years ago. Minutes on the death of former Chancellor Henry M. MacCracken and Dr. Adolph F. Schauffler were adopted.

The care of the Hall of Fame at University Heights was put in charge of a committee, of which Finley J. Shepard is Chairman, known as the Committee on University Heights Property. Prior to his death, Chancellor MacCracken was in charge of the Hall of Fame, and the other property at the Heights was under the jurisdiction of Mr. Shepard's committee.

Bolshevist Apologist's Experiences Proved to Have Antedated Those of Other Witnesses He Contradicts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Albert Rhys Williams, the apologist for Bolshevism, who on Saturday began his narrative in defense of the Trotzky-Lenine Government before the Senate committee investigating Bolshevism, concluded his story late this afternoon. On Saturday he was permitted to talk with a few interruptions, but today he was called upon to answer a great many questions.

On Saturday he estimated that the number of people who have lost their lives in Russia totaled between April 17, 1917, and June of last year not more than 45,000 persons. Today he said that the number killed between November, 1917, when the Bolsheviki overthrew Kerensky, and June of last year totaled not more than one in a thousand of the population. He estimated the Russian population at 150,000,000, and this would indicate a casualty list under the Bolshevist régime, in the period named, of about 150,000 persons.

"I think," said Mr. Williams, "that there is a measure of truth in the statement that the Russians desire heaven and are willing to go through hell to get it."

On Saturday some of those at the hearing gained the impression that Mr. Williams had been in Russia up to the middle of last Summer. Today it was brought out that he left European Russia last May and sailed from Vladivostok for San Francisco in June.

"Therefore," said Senator Wolcott, "you were only in Russia under the Bolsheviki from November, 1917, until last May?"

"Yes, that is correct."

It was pointed out that all of the diplomatic and consular officials, private citizens, and others who have testified to conditions in Russia and whose stories in nowise agree with the picture drawn by Mr. Williams left that country from five to seven months after he did.

In answer to a question by Senator Wolcott, Mr. Williams said he believed that the other witnesses, who told of the horrors they had witnessed, were honorable men who had gained their impressions from contact with the upper and not the humbler elements in Russian life. He made the claim that in the beginning the Bolsheviki were distinctly anti-German and were "inclined to be Pro-Ally."

Early in his testimony Mr. Williams launched into a defense of the Bolsheviki as regards the attitude of that group toward women. He said that the Central Bolshevist Government would not tolerate nationalization of women, and that in the places in which this policy was adopted it was the work of isolated Soviets.

"Is it your contention," asked Major Humes, "that in Russia at this time each Soviet, and you say there are thousands of them, are in their several spheres of jurisdiction supreme, and that each can make such laws as it sees fit without regard to any of the other governing authorities?"

"No, that is not the case. I admit that there have been disagreements between the Soviets, but that was inevitable in a crisis such as Russia has been passing through."

"Well, then, has the Central Soviet, as you call it, become a strong centralized government—in other words, a dictatorship?"

"That can be answered yes or no, categorically. I believe the Soviet is the form of government that the Russian in his heart most desires. Even Lloyd George has said it may be ruthless but he also says 'you have to admit that it is efficient.'"

Mr. Williams then told of an election in Vladivostok, which he said was held during the allied occupation of that city and at which the Bolsheviki polled 12,000 votes, which was more than the total cast for all the other tickets.

"Now," said Major Humes, "don't you know it to be a fact that only a small part of the Vladivostok population voted in that election? You have stated that under the Bolsheviki everybody 15 years and upward can vote, and that would mean about 50,000 votes in Vladivostok. Now isn't that correct?"

"It may be so. However, Carl Ackerman has written in THE NEW YORK TIMES that in his opinion all Siberia thinks Bolshevist. And right here, to revert back to European Russia, I want to point out that when the Bolsheviki gained power there were 12,000,000 men in the Russian Army, and these men went home and fully half of them took their arms with them. Now, if Russia wants to overthrow the Soviet Government, why don't these armed men, who other witnesses say are against the Bolsheviki, take up arms and overthrow it?"

"Of course, you must know," remarked Senator Wolcott, "that arms without ammunition are useless."

The witness estimated that there were now about 100,000 former residents of this country in Russia, and that probably 25,000 of them held public office of some sort. Mr. Williams said that a great many of these persons had denounced the United States on their return to Russia. However, he thought they could be made a link to restore amicable relations between America and the Bolsheviki.

Senator Wolcott made it plain that he was not in favor of such a link.

In answer to questions regarding graft in Russia the witness said that his information was that 40 per cent. of the men executed in Moscow were former officials of the Bolsheviki who had been convicted of taking graft. He heard a few days ago, he said, that a decree had been issued punishing by death officials who got drunk. Major Humes asked him to cite the case of any Bolshevist officials who had been executed for grafting. He said he knew of a commissary, but did not say who he was or where he was located.

In reply to a question as to the source of his income, Mr. Williams said that his lecture tours depended entirely upon private subscriptions. He named the Boston Economic Club as one of the organizations that had contributed to his lecturing expenses. He also said that an army officer in Washington gave him $10. He said that he had borrowed when in Russia 6,000 rubles from Raymond Robins and had received less than 600 rubles all told from the Bolsheviki for work he did for them. Since his return to this country he had not received a cent from Russia. He had written special articles for The Nation, The Dial, and other publications.

The committee will meet in executive session tomorrow and will pass on official reports as to conditions in Russia, several of which will be placed in the record by Major Humes and be made public tomorrow afternoon. Senator Overman said today that he expected Ambassador Francis to take the witness stand Wednesday.

Connally was convicted of having broken into the drug store of Arthur Conn, another negro, on the night of Jan. 15.

COLONEL HAYWARD TELLS 15TH'S PART

Leader of New York's "Black Watch" Troops Thrills Audience at W. S. S. Meeting.

How the strategy of General Gouraud turned the tide against the Germans on the night of July 15 last, at a time when the German Army was at its maximum of power, was described last night by Colonel William Hayward of the old 15th Infantry, New York's "Black Watch," at the convention of secretaries of the War Savings Societies of this city. Colonel Hayward, who received a noisy ovation, told of the part the old 15th and the 165th Infantry, formerly the 69th Regiment, played in driving back the enemy on that day.

"In my opinion the 15th of July was the turning point of the war, and I was surprised when I learned on my return to this country that people here had heard of General Gouraud's coup de état.

"You see, the Germans had been reinforced by the released prisoners from Russia, so they had their maximum forces. They had broken through the British and it was pretty near a disaster. This was east of Rheims. The Germans had also torn through the French at Montdidier, gone through thirty or forty kilos. We knew the next attack was to be the maximum attack of the German Army. They had as many men as they could get. They were at the zenith of their power.

"We knew this attack was coming and knew it was to be the maximum German effort. About one hour before ten o'clock on the night of July 14 we captured German prisoners in a raid. They told us when the attack would come.

"The artillery preparation was to start at midnight and continue for five hours and twenty-five minutes, the prisoners told us. So General Gouraud started our artillery fire five minutes ahead of theirs."

Meanwhile, Colonel Hayward continued, General Gouraud sent back and obtained all the soldiers that could possibly be spared from other points to re-enforce the thin French line, with which the Fifteenth had been brigaded.

"I have heard stories about how hard he had to work to convince General Pétain and Marshal Foch that his plan was right," he went on. "But he took a chance—the greatest chance any soldier ever took in the world. He took his troops out of the front line trenches over a front of fifty kilometers. Some of these trenches had cost thousands of lives. He abandoned them when he was sure where the attack was coming.

"And when this had occurred he had the 15th New York on one end of that 50-kilo line and the old 69th New York, in the Rainbow Division, on the other end.

Promptly at midnight the Germans started their barrage and for 5 hours and 25 minutes, Colonel Hayward said, their shells fell in empty trenches, except for the patrols, who had stayed there expecting to be killed. All of them, he added, escaped injury. When the hour for the German infantry attack came, the patrols set off mustard gas bombs and signal rockets.

"The German masses were literally smashed by the terrific artillery fire of the French which followed," Colonel Hayward continued, "the Germans never got to our second-line trenches. A mile and a half back the French and my boys of the 15th sat on the parapet of their trenches and watched the 'show' in comparative safety."

The necessity of making a strenuous campaign to encourage continued thrift on the part of the people was pointed out by Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, Colonel Charles A. Withrow, and Captain A. P. Simmonds, who also addressed the gathering.

BIG BUILDING STRIKE ENDS IN ARBITRATION

Carpenters and Employers Name Representatives and Work Will Be Resumed Today.

JUDGE DUGRO TO BE UMPIRE

Conference with Secretaries of War and Labor Brings About Prompt Agreement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—All workmen on strike in the New York building trade dispute and all other sympathetic strikers were ordered back to work tonight, under an agreement reached at a conference here today between representatives of the Building Trades Association, the union, and the Secretaries of War and Labor.

This statement was issued by the Department of Labor after the conference:

"Adjustment of the building trades dispute in New York, involving 25,000 men, was reached this afternoon at a conference, called by the Secretaries of War and Labor, held in the War Department.

"It was agreed that the men should return to work tomorrow, leaving their grievances to be settled by a conference of employers and employes. If, however, no settlement can be reached by this method within three days, then all questions on which they cannot agree will be referred to Judge P. H. Dugro of the New York State Supreme Court as umpire.

"The dispute was solely over wages. The men asked $6.50 a day, and are now receiving $5.50. The employers had expressed willingness to concede an advance.

"Those at the conference today included, in addition to the Secretaries of War and Labor, representatives of the workmen and of the employers and of the American Federation of Labor, and Henry J. Skeffington of Boston and Walter Davidge of Washington, Commissioners of Conciliation."

The employers presented their side of the issue in a letter to Secretary Baker, in which they said:

"In accordance with your suggestion, the Building Trades Employers' Association appointed its arbitrators, who met in conference with a committee representing the Brotherhood of Carpenters of New York on Friday, Feb. 21. We advised the representatives of the Brotherhood of Carpenters that we were prepared to proceed and appoint an umpire. They declined to consider the matter of the selection of an umpire, whereupon the conference terminated.

"In further compliance with your suggestion, we are now reporting to you. "We have appointed our arbitrators, who are prepared to proceed and settle the present dispute in the manner provided for. We request you to advise the Brotherhood of Carpenters to appoint their arbitrators, have their arbitrators meet with ours immediately, and proceed to the selection of an umpire. The only condition to the arbitration that we cannot waive is that all strikes on all jobs of our members, wherever located, must be officially called off and the men returned to work before the hearing of the case begins."

14,000 SHOEMAKERS STRIKE.

Men in 85 Factories in and Near New York Demand Advance.

According to Raymond P. Morse, Chairman of the Labor Board of the Shoe Manufacturers' Board of Trade, a complete tieup of eighty-five shoe factories in New York City and vicinity, involving about 15,000 workers, is threatened by a walkout yesterday of about 4,000 members of the Goodyear Operators' Protective Association. The men are employed as lasters and in other basic occupations in the shoe trade.

"There are 4,000 men out in Brooklyn and Long Island City," said Mr. Morse, "and the strike, if it continues, will tie up every factory. The men who demand a 40 per cent. advance are piece workers, some of whom are earning $70 a week, and few less than $35. The manufacturers cannot pay more without putting up the price of shoes."

At a meeting of the Goodyear Operators' Protective Local No. 2, at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum last night, James F. Campbell, Chairman of the Executive Board, reported that 14,000 operators in factories in Brooklyn, Manhattan, and Long Island City would refuse to go to their work today. The union had not ordered a strike, he said, but merely had issued a "request to the employes to cease work until another meeting of the Executive Board can be held tomorrow night." Efforts to settle the differences would be made today, he said.

Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, who is directing a strike against the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, declared last night that 10,000 white goods workers would strike this morning against the Cotton Garment Manufacturers' Association, which, he said, had refused to grant the forty-four-hour week and an increase in wages.

"The White Goods Workers' Union," said Mr. Schlesinger, "is confident that the entire white goods industry will be tied up as a result of the strike call of the union."

LONDON TIMES EDITOR OUT.

Dawson Says Northcliffe Has Long Been Dissatisfied with His Policy.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Geoffrey Dawson has resigned as editor of The Times, a post he has held since 1912. Mr. Dawson gives as his reasons for relinquishing the editorship that "Lord Northcliffe has been constantly dissatisfied with the policy of The Times on the ground that it differed with his own expressions of opinion in other newspapers." The letter was addressed to John Walter, Chairman of The Times Publishing Company.

Lord Northcliffe holds a preponderance of the shares in The Times Company.

H. Wickham Steed, who has been foreign editor of The Times for several years, will succeed Mr. Dawson. Mr. Steed has been associated with Lord Northcliffe during the war in the latter's propaganda work in enemy countries.

Dr. Kirchwey Shows Need of Appropriation by Congress.

In a statement issued yesterday Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Federal Director of Employment for New York State, spoke of the necessity for Congress to pass upon the deficiency appropriation of $2,932,849 to carry the Employment Service until July 1, and also of the need for $10,033,808 to carry on the work of the United States Employment Service during the next fiscal year.

The Community Labor Board of New York City, of which Alfred E. Marling is President, resolved yesterday at a meeting held in the office of the United States Employment Service, 469 Fifth Avenue, to send a telegram to Congress urging it to pass the appropriation needed.

INCOME TAX RULES FOR INDIVIDUALS OUT

LIBERTY BOND EXEMPTIONS

Interest Up to $5,000 of Bonds of Each Issue May Be Excluded from Gross Income.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The United States Internal Revenue Bureau today issued the first edition of the income tax regulations, which deal with the tax on individuals' incomes, and copies will be distributed by Internal Revenue Collectors within the next few days. A separate edition for use by corporations in preparing their returns under the income tax, war profits, and excess profits tax provisions will be issued about March 1, to be followed by a complete joint edition. Rulings made during the last year are incorporated.

The regulations, which cover 164 pages of printed copy, go exhaustively into all questions relating to the bureau's attitude toward the methods of computing and the collection of personal income taxes and emphasize the necessity for all persons liable to taxation under the new revenue bill to make the first quarterly payment by March 15.

A new ruling also was made today in connection with the taxation of aliens which was made necessary by thousands of inquiries received, especially from large communities such as New York City.

Under the law the income of aliens is taxed at the source. Provision had been made, however, that by signing a certificate an alien who resided in this country and had no intention of quitting it an early date could escape this system. The complaints came in because such aliens, who were in effect permanent residents, although they had expressed no intention to take out citizenship papers, feared that in signing the certificate they were in some way committing themselves to become citizens. Hereafter, according to the ruling, the certificates will bear the words, "this certificate has no effect on citizenship." This, it is felt, will remove all doubts.

Exclusions from Gross Incomes.

Under the heading of "What May Be Excluded from Gross Income," the regulations state:

"Gross income excludes the items of income specifically exempted by the statute, also concerning other kinds of income by statute or fundamental law free from tax. Compensation paid its officers and employes by a State or political subdivision thereof, fees received by notaries public commissioned by States, and the income of State workmen's compensation insurance funds established by State statutes are not taxable. Employes of universities receiving salaries paid in part or in whole from funds available under the Smith-Lever act of May 8, 1914, who are officers or employes of a State, are not required to return as taxable incomes the salaries received. Since June 15, 1918, no assessment of any Federal tax may be made on any allotments, family allowances, compensation, death or disability insurance, payable under the War Risk Insurance Act of Sept. 2, 1914, as amended, even though the benefit occurred before that late."

"Accordingly, there may be excluded from gross income (a) the interest received on not exceeding $5,000 principal amount of Liberty bonds of any or all issues after the first, up to and including the fourth, and until two years after the war (b) the interest received on not exceeding $30,000 principal amount of Liberty bonds of the fourth issue, plus (c) the interest received on an aggregate principal amount of Liberty bonds of the first loan converted, the Second Liberty Loan, converted or unconverted, and the Third Liberty Loan, not exceeding $45,000 and not exceeding 150 per cent. of the principal amount of the bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan, both originally subscribed for by the taxpayer and still owned by him at the date of his return, plus (a) the interest received on not exceeding $30,000 principal amount of Liberty bonds in which First Liberty bonds may have been converted in the exercise of any privilege arising as a consequence of the issue of the Fourth Liberty bonds."

Another ruling of public interest holds that in computing business expenses "the deduction of an allowance for depreciation is limited to property used in the taxpayer's trade or business. No such allowance may be made in respect of automobiles or other vehicles used chiefly for pleasure, a building used by the taxpayer solely as his residence, nor in respect of furniture or furnishings therein, personal effects or clothing; but properties and costumes used exclusively in a business such as a theatrical business may be the subject of a depreciation allowance."

Still another important provision states that "a deduction on account of amortization will be allowed only in the case of an enterprise or project falling within the class of activities contributing in the prosecution of the war."

In dealing with loss in value of inventory the Revenue Bureau rules that: "To be allowed such inventory loss must be substantial in amount and represent either (a) a realization by sale of goods taken in the inventory or (b) a shrinkage in market price—and such shrinkage must show sound evidence of permanency—of goods taken in the inventory and unsold at the date of the claim." No claim will be allowed for any loss of anticipated profits.

The regulations under the heading "Items Not Deductible" give these rulings, which will bear a relation to the incomes paid by every individual:

"Personal and family expenses—insurance paid on a dwelling owned and occupied by a taxpayer is a personal expense. Premiums paid for life insurance by the insured are not deductible. In the case of a professional man who rents a property for residential purposes, but incidentally receives there clients, patients, or callers in connection with professional work (his place of business being elsewhere) no part of the rent is deductible as a business expense. The father is legally entitled to the services of his minor children, and allowances which he gives them, whether said to be in consideration of services or otherwise are not allowable deductions in his return of income.

"Amounts paid from a salary received for all service rendered and expenses incurred are deductible as busines expenses when the expenditures are occasioned by the services in respect of which the salary is paid. A salesman who has to pay for the use of a sample room at a hotel for the display of his goods is entitled to deduct such payment as business expense, and a traveling salesman or actor is entitled to deduct railroad fares paid to enable him to move about in carrying out his occupation.

"Improvements and betterments—Amounts expended for additions and betterments or for furniture, which constitute an increase in capital investment and add to the value of the assets are not a proper deduction, but such expenditures when capitalized may be reduced through annual depreciation deductions."

DEFINES INTOXICANT IN WARTIME MEASURE

Beverages Containing More Than One-Half of 1 Per Cent. Alcohol Barred.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Any beverage containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol will be banned by the wartime prohibition act effective next July 1, after a measure approved to-day by the House Judiciary Committee to make the act effective is adopted. The committee's definition of intoxicating liquor was written in the bill as follows:

"The words beer, wine or other intoxicating malt or vinous liquors in the war prohibition act shall be construed as any liquor which contains in excess of one-half one one per cent. of alcohol."

Enforcement of the wartime prohibition law, which continues in effect until after demobilization, is placed with the Internal Revenue Bureau by the bill framed by the committee. Agents of the bureau would investigate violations of the law and prosecutions would be conducted by United States District Attorneys. Any place where liquor is manufactured or sold would be declared a public nuisance, subject to abatement, and its operators subject to fine and imprisonment as guilty of a misdemeanor.

Property that owners knowingly permit to be used for violating the law would be subject to a lien for fine and costs of cases resulting from the prosecution.

BILL DOUBLES TAX ON LIQUOR.

Some Saloons Have Already Raised Price of Drinks Five Cents.

The new Revenue bill practically doubles the tax on alcoholic beverages. A few places raised the price of "hard" liquor 5 cents a drink yesterday, and more are contemplating a raise when the President signs the new Revenue bill.

Not only will the new tax increase the price of straight drinks, but champagne, liqueurs, cordials, and, to quote the tax inventory schedule, "similar compounds," will have to pay a higher tax. Based upon a 100 per cent. raise, the officials of the Internal Revenue Department estimated that on each bottle of champagne containing half a pint or less the tax will be 12 cents, and said that the tax will be added on each additional half pint. On bottled sparkling wines the tax will be 6 cents each half pint, and on liquors and cordials the same tax will hold as on sparkling wines.

Distilled liquors are now taxed $3.20 each 100-proof gallon, and when the new Revenue bill becomes effective that price will be doubled. Liquor held as wine, but containing more than 24 per cent. alcohol, is classed as distilled spirits and subject to the $6.40 tax. Wines containing more than 21 per cent. alcohol and not more than 24 per cent. will pay $1 a gallon; containing more than 14 per cent. and not more than 21 per cent., 40 cents, and containing 14 per cent. and less, 16 cents a gallon. It has been estimated that 5 cents additional a drink on whisky and other drinks containing more than 24 per cent. alcohol will cover the additional tax.

ROUND UP RUM-RUNNERS.

Michigan Authorities Get Further Court Aid to Stop Liquor Traffic.

MONROE, Mich., Feb. 24.—A supplementary injunction designed to stop the carrying of liquor into Michigan on the Detroit, Monroe & Toledo Short Line (interurban) was granted by Circuit Court Judge Jesse Root here this afternoon at the request of Attorney General Alex Groesbeck of Michigan.

In his application for the writ the Attorney General recites that during the last few days more than 1,000 quarts of liquor daily have been carried into the State on the interurban line.

Additional search warrants empowering members of the State constabulary and inspectors of the State Food and Drug Department to examine automobiles and other vehicles traveling between Toledo and Michigan points were issued in Judge Root's court this morning.

Meanwhile Federal and State officers, realizing that their activities along the Ohio border have served to drive the smugglers to other points, are turning their attention to the routes of travel leading from Wisconsin and Illinois into Michigan. Several arrests already have been made at Grand Rapids and Grand Haven of persons charged with attempting to smuggle liquor from Chicago and Milwaukee.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 24.—Ninety-five persons are held by Michigan authorities at Monroe on charges of liquor smuggling as the result of renewed activity yesterday and last night on the part of the Michigan State constabulary. The constabulary officers also confiscated contraband whisky estimated at more than 2,500 gallons.

PROHIBITION OPPOSED.

New York County Medical Society "Against" by Big Vote.

Prohibition ratification by the State Legislature was condemned by a vote of two to one at the meeting of the New orYk County Medical Society last night, at the Academy of Medicine, after rejecting the report of its Committee on Public Health advising that no action be taken on the resolution which was referred to it for consideration a month ago. The Committee's report was based upon the fact that, the New York Legislature having ratified the national prohibition law, action now was useless. Dr. John P. Davin author of the anti-prohibition resolution. Dr. William S. Gottheil, and many others, urged the necessity of medical expression of opinion upon the subject, and it was adopted without change after a long debate.

One of the physicians, speaking in support of the resolution, said: "This prohibition ratification means that writing prescriptions will be dictated by the Anti-Saloon League."

A report was presented by Dr. E. V. Delphey, chairman of a special committee, recommending that the physicians of the State have proper representation on the commission of the proposed Public Health Insurance measure before the Legislature.

In order to assist the public in computation of the income tax provisions of the new Revenue act, which was delivered to President Wilson yesterday in Boston for his signature to make it law, experts are to be stationed at advantageous points in the First, Second, and Third Internal Revenue Districts of this territory. About thirty men will be scattered through Collector Keefe's district in Brooklyn; from 50 to 75 will be posted in the Second District, or lower Manhattan, under Collector Edwards, while about fifty are to act as advisers in Collector Mark Eisner's district, comprising, locally, upper Manhattan.

The experts are to be installed in banks, hotels, and department stores, or wherever crowds congregate. Their services will be free, and they will be on duty from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. According to Collector Edwards, the consultants will be equipped to answer offhand most of the questions which will spring up when the individual begins to study the complexities of the income return forms. Collector Edwards said yesterday that Form 1,099, "report of income of $1,000 or more paid during the calendar year 1918 in salaries, wages, rent, interest, or other fixed or determinable gains, profits and income," had arrived at the Customs House. He advised that those who need this form of return make application at once. Under the Revenue Bill, liberal deductions for business expenses are allowed.

"Business expenses are the amounts actually paid or incurred during the tax year in the conduct of a business, trade or profession," said Mr. Edwards, "and in computing net income a merchant may reach his profits on the following basis:

"First, ascertain the gross sales and the other items of gross income, such as interest on bank balances and miscellaneous items. Then add together the inventory at the beginning of the year and the cost of goods purchased for resale. From this sum subtract the inventory at the end of the year, and the result is the cost of goods sold. This cost, plus necessary business expenses, is to be deducted from the gross sales and other income, and the result is the net income of the business. If the taxpayers' accounts are kept on a receipts and payments basis, the return may be made in accordance therewith.

"A merchant may claim as deductions the amount paid for advertising, hire of clerks, and other employes, the cost of light and fuel, water, telephone, &c., used in his place of business, the cost of operating delivery wagons, motor trucks and incidental repairs to such such vehicles. Amounts expended in entertaining an out-of-town customer may be deducted if the sole purpose is to cultivate the good will of the customer and obtain an increase in trade.

"A physician may claim as deductions the cost of medicines and medical supplies used by him in his practice, a reasonable proportion of the expense paid in the maintenance and repair of an automobile used in making professional calls, the expenses of attending medical conventions, dues to medical societies and subscriptions to medical journals, the rent paid for office rooms, the cost of heat, water, telephone, &c., used in such office rooms, and the hire of office assistants. If his office is in a rented home he may claim as a deduction that portion of the rent properly chargeable to the rooms used for professional purposes. The same deductions are allowed a dentist.

"The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in preparing his land for a crop, and the cultivation, harvesting and marketing of the crop. The cost of seed and fertilizer used and the amounts spent in caring for live stock are deductible items. The cost of minor repairs to farm buildings, other than the dwelling, and of fences, farm machinery, and wagons may be claimed, also the cost of farm tools which are used up in the course of a year or two, and of material for immediate use, such as twine, stock powders and so forth. The cost of machinery of a permanent character, such as threshing machine or tractor, is held to be a capital investment, and is not allowed as deduction. Deduction may be made for the rent of a farm.

"This, in a general way, outlines the ordinary expenses incurred by a merchant, professional man or farmer, and the principle underlying these allowances is equally applicable in the conduct of any trade, business or profession. In short, all expenses connected directly and solely with the conduct of an income-producing business, trade, profession, or vocation are allowable."

ARREST IN NUN MYSTERY.

Priest's Housekeeper Accused of a Murder Eleven Years Old.

MANISTEE, Mich., Feb. 24.—Mrs. Stanislaws Lypchinski was arrested here tonight charged with the murder of Sister Mary Johns, who mysteriously disappeared from the convent at Isadore, Mich., eleven years ago, and whose body, it recently became known, was exhumed last Summer from a grave in the basement of the church. At the time of the disappearance of the nun Mrs. Lypchinski was the housekeeper of Father Andrew Bienowsmki, then in charge of the Isadorr Parish.

Leelanau County officers came here from Travers City late today to question Father Bienowske and Mrs. Lypchinski in connection with the mystery. Both denied any knowledge of the manner in which the nun met her death. Mrs. Lypchinski was placed in jail but Father Bienowske was allowed to remain in the parish house.

Mrs. Lypchinski told the officers Sister Mary left the convent for a walk one day and until the discovery of the body, her whereabouts had been unknown to her. When presented with the charge, Mrs. Lypchinski was overcome with grief and was placed in the care of physicians.

ASKS WIRES BACK AT ONCE.

Dugan Says Government Could Effect Return Any Time.

The suggestion of the National Association of Railway and Public Utility Commissioners that President Wilson be petitioned for a return of the wire communications of the country not later than June 30, yesterday drew a statement from William J. Deegan, Secretary of the Mackay Companies, the holding corporation of the Commercial Cable-Postal Telegraph Company.

"We do not think the Government should wait until June 30," said Mr. Deegan, "but should turn back the lines to the companies immediately, and this could be done at midnight without causing the slightest disturbance to the wire companies or to the business of the country. The Postmaster General treated the Bell and the Western Union so liberally in his compensation awards to those companies that the Government is losing heavily on those contracts every day they continue in force. We urge the immediate return of the lines, or at least return our lines to us, and we will operate them in competition with the Government, without increasing rates."

Is Equipped With

"Wear-Ever"

Aluminum Cooking Utensils

LIKE many other transports and battleships of the U. S. Navy, the "George Washington" is equipped with aluminum cooking utensils consisting of giant steam-jacketed kettles, coffee urns, stock pots and carriers used for conveying food from the kitchens to the feeding stations.

Aboard the "George Washington" there are 23 steam-jacketed kettles, 13 coffee urns, 150 stock pots and 125 food carriers. This equipment is made of the same material and in the same way as the "Wear-Ever" aluminum utensils that are serving in so many thousands of American homes.

We are proud of the war-record of "Wear-Ever"—proud of the demonstration it has given on ship and battlefield, in hospital and cantonment of its ability to withstand the hardest kind of usage, far more severe usage than "Wear-Ever" would ever receive in the home.

This "Wear-Ever" demonstration of durability emphasizes what so many women already know:—that, on the basis of years of service, "Wear-Ever" utensils are the most economical utensils possible to buy.

We wish also to express our appreciation to those women who, although desiring to add to their "Wear-Ever" sets during the war, were patient when they found it impossible to get the "Wear-Ever" utensils they wanted because of incomplete dealer-stocks as a result of the demands made on "Wear-Ever" by the national service.

We are glad to announce, however, that we now have resumed manufacturing a complete line of "Wear-Ever" in quantities sufficient, we hope, to meet the nation-wide demand for these most durable utensils that are like silver in their shining beauty.

"Wear-Ever" utensils are preferred by women who are no less particular about the quality of utensils in which they cook food than they are about the quality of the dishes from which they serve it.

Replace utensils that wear out

Aluminum utensils are not all the same. To be sure of getting "Wear-Ever" look for the "Wear-Ever" trade mark on the bottom of each utensil.

They Shall Not Perish

OFFICIAL BULLETIN of the AMERICAN COMMITTEE for RELIEF IN the NEAR EAST

"Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass? Behold, and see if there be any sorrow, like unto my sorrow."

Lamentations 1:12

WE ARE ENCOURAGED

¶ God is Good!

¶ The Editor thanks Him out of the pits of his sinful heart for the generous responses to the first instalment of our Bulletin.

¶ You are entitled to a receipt for every offering.

¶ Please, don't forget to make your offering in the name of God and His Charity.

¶ The house-to-house canvass begins next Monday morning.

¶ We want six millions of dollars to feed, clothe, shelter and start on a new life nearly four millions of souls.

¶ They are all human beings, men and women and little children like you and me, dear reader—with this exception: they were persecuted for years before the war,—and the Turk tried his best to completely destroy them during the war.

¶ The Editor would be flattered beyond belief if a million dollars could be raised by means of this Bulletin before our campaign begins.

¶ We have a dear friend who is a railroad President, of a road that runs out of a quiet town across the North River. It's a road the comic writers and artists poke fun at, betimes, and the good President, being a man of fine humor, joins in the laughter.

¶ If he knew we were trying to write so that we could touch human hearts, we might send a check that would give still more encouragement to all of us.

¶ But don't wait, dear reader, for this railroad President to start the "big" gifts in His Name. If your charity prompts you to start it, please do it now.

¶ There are those who, like Peter, have neither gold nor silver. We need them too. They can give their prayers in the morning, at noon, and at night, for the success of this undertaking.

17 cents a day,
$5 a month,
$60 a year,

Will keep alive one of these unfortunates.

I am very glad, indeed, to make this little offering in the name of God and His Charity for the relief of the Armenians, Syrians and Persians. Please send me literature.

GIBBS FINDS SMALL MEN BEST SOLDIERS

SPEAKS AT CITY CLUB HERE

Analyzes Bravery Under Fire, and Pays Tribute to American Forces and Women Workers.

Philip Gibbs was received with great enthusiasm at the City Club last night, where an audience too great for the main hall gathered to hear him. Many who came were disappointed because no space remained even on the stairs leading to the assembly room where he spoke.

The audience applauded when Gibbs was described as "the finest war correspondent that ever lived." By Frederic Villiers, the oldest and most experienced of war correspondents, from whom Kipling is supposed to have drawn "The Nilghai" in "The Light That Failed."

Mr. Gibbs discussed different types of courage displayed by soldiers. He said that it was his own observation, corroborated by the opinions of eminent military men with whom he had spoken, that the men from cities, even those weak in stature and constitution, had proved themselves among the greatest of soldiers.

"Strangely enough," he said, "the undersized men, who appeared to be nervous and looked as if they could never stand the battle strain, held out better than the bigger men. This was especially apparent in cases of shell shock. The big men of the Sergeant-Major type, the 'John Bull Englishmen,' broke up much quicker under this terrific ordeal. Men of the little, nervous type, by nerve control, succeeded better in standing this and many of the other kinds of strain."

Mr. Gibbs asserted that the bravery of a soldier was not absence of fear, but control over fear and ability to carry on their work in spite of fear. There was, no soldier, he said, who had not experienced fear constantly. The apparent callousness and heartlessness of the soldier in the midst of death, he said, did not indicate blunted sensibilities, but was an armor put on to save himself.

"I remember," he said, "when some Londoners were brought up on one occasion after a heavy bombardment in which many lives had been lost. There was one spot where five men lay, all with their heads torn off by shells. One of the men who saw it exclaimed:

"'Oh, I say. Those fellows have lost their heads a bit.'

"In this room, I know that sounds ghastly indeed, but this grim and terrible jest did not reflect the mood of the man who made it. He knew that he and those with him would be facing the same fate in a few minutes and he was determined not to let this terrible sight affect his nerve. His jest aided him and his fellows in fighting off the dreadful impression of the spectacle."

Mr. Gibbs told various other stories of the courage of undersized and nervous men, including one of a little British Sergeant in charge of a handful of men, who were on top of a German dugout, where they had reason to believe a fair-sized nest of Huns were in hiding. The Sergeant caught one German coming out, captured him and asked him if he could speak English.

"Nein," was the reply.

"Well, you will have to learn it very quick,' said the Sergeant. 'You tell the rest of them in there that they will have to come out now, or something terrible will happen to them."

The German developed a sudden gift of language, descended the dugout and came out with some forty others.

Mr. Gibbs praised the courage of the Americans, which, he said, was of the highest type. He said that no courage shown by men could exceed the fortitude and bravery which had been exhibited by French, British, Belgian, and American women in France and Belgium, and he told many stories to illustrate their courage.

Mr. Villiers, who has "reported" practically every war since the days of the Commune in Paris in 1871, told of his first meeting with Gibbs in the Balkan war, and later in the early days of the present war, when he said that he had predicted a great career for the famous young correspondent. Frank Dilnot, President of the Foreign Press Correspondents in the United States, presided at the meeting.

ENVOY FRANCIS, HOME, WARNS AGAINST REDS

Would Not Make Peace With Germany While Bolsheviki Rule in Russia.

BOSTON, Feb. 24. — Ambassador Francis, home from Russia for the first time in two years, had several conferences with President Wilson while coming over on the George Washington, and made several recommendations for action on the part of the allied and American Governments for meeting the Bolshevist menace and restoring Russia to the family of nations. Mr. Francis probably will disclose them later when he appears before one of the Congressional committees. He probably will remain in Washington some time, advising the State Department and Congress on the situation as he saw it on leaving.

"A reign of terror instituted by the Bolsheviki, with the purpose of maintaining themselves in power, is prevailing in central and northern Russia," said the Ambassador. "The outrages they have committed are incredible. I think it impossible to restore peace to Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia. In fact, with Germany practically uninjured industrially, I am persuaded that if a peace is negotiated with Bolshevist rule continuing in Russia, Germany in twenty years or a decade will be stronger than she was at the beginning of the war. She is familiar with the Russian character, and for a generation has been studying it to influence it.

"If this turns out, Germany, instead of having been defeated, will have gained a victory."

ARMY OFFICER ON TRIAL.

Captain Sidney P. Corn Charged with Accepting Bribe.

The trial of Sidney P. Corn, ex-army Captain of the personnel office, Camp Upton, charged with bribery, was begun before Judge Chatfield and a jury in the Federal court in Brooklyn yesterday.

It is alleged that Corn, while in the personnel office, accepted a bribe of $250 from Sergeant Lloyd Mehlig, a soldier at the cantonment, to expedite his discharge from the army. The money, Mehlig alleges, was paid to the ex-officer while the two were riding from New York to camp in an auto. The prosecution also alleges that after having been paid the money Corn entered the jewelry store of Mehlig's father and demanded a valuable scarf pin for "another officer at the camp."

Judge Chatfield showed interest in the examination of Mehlig. "How was it that you were allowed to keep an automobile at Camp Upton for your personal use?" he asked at the point where Mehlig had told of driving Captain Corn around the camp and passing money to him. Mehlig replied that it was by no means unusual for non-commissioned officers and even privates who came from well-to-do families to keep their automobiles nearby and to ride about the camp and to and from the city in them. The case will be continued today.

DRAMA

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

For the current week the French Theatre has revived one of its most popular offerings of last season, M. Copeau's translation of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." It is a pleasure to record again how much the play gains when a full text is spoken under stage conditions approximating those for which it was written.

It is not merely that the action is more rapid and consecutive, the interest of the story and the development of the characters more sustained. In addition to these inestimable gains, many values and contrasts appear which are sometimes subtle and sometimes vivid in humor and in romantic color—values which are quite lost when the text is cut and the action halted to make way for the "modern" scenic investment. It is as if one were witnessing this master comedy of Shakespeare for the first time.

That much of the native and traditional Shakespearean atmosphere vanishes in a performance by French actors goes without saying. Speech and gesture are in an alien key. But it is equally evident, to any one who takes note of M. Copeau's audiences, that the fact is no real bar to an enjoyment of all that is most essentially Shakespearean. The performance as a whole has an authenticity, an integrity, such as is seldom found in the performances of English-speaking companies.

M. Copeau plays Malvolio, in place of François Gournac, who has returned to France. His conception of the part is highly intelligent, even imaginative, being closely related, as it seems, to that of Sir Henry Irving. And it is a work of very considerable virtuosity. It remains, however, a conception rather than a thoroughly established performance, a cerebral effort rather than an instinctive and absolute creation

The Viola of Suzanne Bing had similar qualities and limitations, being as wilfully unyouthful and unromantic as it was subtle and fine in speech and facial play. The Sir Toby of Romain Bouquet is as lacking in humor and unction as was that of Marcel Vallée last year. But the Sir Andrew of Louis Jouvet and the Clown of Lucien Weber remain creations that stand among the happiest of Shakespearean recollections.

SEIZED AS HIGHWAYMEN.

General Electric Company's Auditor Among Prisoners at Malden, Mass.

EVERETT, Mass., Feb. 24.—Charles S. Whittemore, General Auditor for the General Electric Company, was arrested at his home in Malden today, charged with conspiracy and assault in connection with the attack on Frank R. Brown, assistant paymaster at the local plant of the company, who was held up on Dec. 20 and robbed of the weekly payroll, amounting to $12,000.

Louis Bennett of Boston, familiarly known as "Pooco" Bennett, and Charles Mortalli, alias Charles Celeste, also were arrested in the same connection. The three men were arraigned in the Malden court on charges of being accessories before the fact to the robbery, and were held in $10,000 bonds each for a hearing March 6. Assistant District Attorney George S. Harvey said that the cases would be placed before the Grand Jury before that time.

Lieutenant Pat O'Brien, war hero and author of "Outwitting the Hun," made his first appearance in vaudeville yesterday afternoon at the Palace Theatre, entertaining the audience with an account of his war experiences. Ruth St. Denis returned to the Palace stage with a new dancing act, and the program also included Louise Dresser and Jack Gardner, George White, and Frank Fay.

Mary and the Asp.

"Mary fed a little asp, its fleece was white as ink, and every time that Mary died the asp went on the blink." Last night at the Lexington Theatre the naughty worm gave up the ghost when Cleopatra shuffled off her mortal coil. The direct cause of its death was faulty tone production. It was the last performance of the New York season with Miss Garden as the Nilotic serpent in the mucilaginous opera of Jules Massenet. The management has already wired for a new and fatal ophidian to play the part in the various out-of-town engagements of the Chicago Opera Association.

The last week of this organization and the last appearance of the famous American singing-actress in the rôle of Cleopatre, occurred on this occasion. The house was crowded. There was enthusiasm unbridled and plenty of curtain calls. Mr. Maguenat repeated his splendid impersonation of Marc-Antoine, and Pavley again startled us with his suggestive writhings and sinuous rhythms. Miss Garden was magnificently arrayed, and her Queen as fascinating a dramatic portrait as ever. The whereabouts of the obsequies of her victim, the tiny hissing asp, has not yet been decided upon; probably in some lonely serpentine jardinière. Ave atque vale!

There is announced a change of bill for Friday evening. Mme. Melba will not appear. Instead "Cavalleria Rusticana" is to be sung in conjunction with the new opera "Le Vell Aigle" and the Russian Ballet. At the Saturday matinée "Lucia" with Galli-Curci is to be the attraction.

Caruso Celebrates.

Today Caruso celebrates his forty-sixth birthday. Last night the great tenor anticipated the event by singing like a twenty-six year old and playing pranks like a lad in his teens. The vehicle for his superb singing—he was in good voice—was "L'Elisir d'Amore," and with Marie Barrientos, gave a huge audience profound pleasure. Like good wine, Caruso improves with the years. Congratulations are in order.

The Yon Organ Recital.

The audience in Aeolian Hall last night heard some admirable organ playing from the hands of Pietro Yon, organist of St. Francis Xavier's Church in this city. Now, the average organ recital is not as interesting as a dog fight, but this artist is vivid or nothing in the handling of his instrument, and always musical in his interpretations.

He played a picturesque sonata by Don Pagella, organist of the Salesian Fathers in Turin, Italy, which began unconventionally enough with a scherzo, sprightly in idea and well developed. We confess we preferred the second movement "Duello," in which two contrasted themes are cleverly interwoven. Its sentiment is poetic. "Jesu Bambino," a Pastorale by Mr. Yon, proved charming. It is founded on an authentic nativity folksong of the mountaineers of the Aosta Valley, which is contrapuntally utilized with "Adeste Fideles" as a background.

Skilled musicianship was revealed in this composition, while the registration, manual work, pedaling, and the deft use of the vox humana and the chimes of the splendid Aeolian organ, were evidences of brilliant virtuosity.

The program also contained J. S. Bach's C major Toccata Adagio, and Fugue, and other compositions of Mr. Yon. His auditors testified to their pleasure in his masterly performance.

PADEREWSKI OFFERS TO RESIGN AS PREMIER

General Pilsudski, Chief of State, Asks Him to Continue in Office.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the Polish Premier, offered his resignation yesterday to General Pilsudski, the Chief of State, who declined to accept it, says a Havas dispatch from Warsaw under Sunday's date. General Pilsudski asked Premier Paderewski to continue his function.

The Polish Diet last Thursday confirmed the powers of General Pilsudski as Chief of State until the plans of a constitutional form of government have been adopted. General Pilsudski had previously gone through the formality of presenting his resignation to the Diet, and it would appear that Premier Paderewski's action was a similar formality after the confirmation by the Diet of General Pilsudski's position.

AMIR OF AFGHANISTAN REPORTED MURDERED

British Press Bureau Announces That He Was Shot in Camp Feb. 20.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Habibullah Khan, the Amir of Afghanistan, was murdered on Feb. 20, according to an official announcement made here today by the Press Bureau, which received the news from Kabul.

Full details are lacking, but it appears that the Amir was attacked very early in the morning, while in camp at Laghman, on Feb. 20, and shot dead. No arrests in connection with the murder have been reported. The motive for the crime is still obscure.

Bolsheviki Are Suspected.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The circumstances of the assassination of the Amir are still unknown officially, and the motive of the murderer can be only a matter of speculation.

The Daily Chronicle says it is possible that no new political significance attaches to the tragedy, but several probabilities point rather to Bolshevist agency.

"Lenine and his friends," says The Chronicle, "are known to have attached the utmost importance to propaganda in British India. Their efforts have hitherto been thwarted because the Amir of Afghanistan blocked the way against their emissaries, just as during the war he denied passage to the emissaries of Germany. Recently he was reported to be negotiating an alliance with the Mohammedan rulers to the north of his country, the Khans of Bokhara and Khiva, who before the Russian revolution were subjects of Russia, and since have been regarded with special hostility by the Bolsheviki of Central Asia."

Habibullah Khan succeeded to the throne of Afghanistan in October, 1901. The country, since the tribesmen were put down by the British, has been under the protection of Great Britain, although the Amir has claimed independent sovereignty.

The Amir had four wives. In 1907, when he visited Calcutta, India, he was introduced to the Duke and Duchess of Manchester, the latter formerly Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati, and he offered to purchase the Duchess from her husband. The Amir had six sons, the oldest being Inayatulla Khan, born in 1888.

MR. WILSON'S RETURN.

"I have not come to report the pro-"ceedings or the results of the pro-"ceedings of the Peace Conference," said the President in his brief address in Boston yesterday. Nevertheless, he did make a report, and a most inspiring report, upon the great purposes which guide the deliberations of the Conference. The war has wrought a spiritual transformation among the peoples of the world, and Mr. WILSON has labored with unflagging zeal to help on that transformation. He returns from great labors and great triumphs abroad to new labors here in which we predict for him new triumphs not less brilliant. The people will welcome him all the more warmly because, although they regretted his departure, they now understand the immense value of his service in Paris. They feel that without him the progress of the Conference in the greater works it has undertaken could not have been so marked; and although they felt that he was much needed at his post here they perceive that the business of the Executive Department has not visibly suffered from his absence. He has proved that the ocean is no more a barrier to the transaction of public business than it is to private business.

The President defers his exposition of the League of Nations plan, but he brings a message which the American people may profitably ponder while they are awaiting what he has to say on that subject. "The peoples of "Europe are buoyed up and confident "in the spirit of hope," he told his Boston audience, "because they be-"lieve that we are at the eve of a new "age in the world when nations will "understand one another, when na-"tions will unite every moral and "every physical strength to see that "right shall prevail." That is the very soul of the League of Nations. We can imagine that the Senatorial opponents of the League will dismiss it as another example of Mr. WILSON's idealism. Then, what in the name of reason and right is their ideal? What is their plan? With what projects and proposals will they respond to this spirit of hope that possesses the peoples of Europe and the people of this country as well?

Not one suggestion of any other plan, any substitute proposal of a defense against the horrors of war; any hint of a means by which the feeling of cordial friendship between the nations united against Germany, the intense longing for an assurance of peace and justice among nations, can be turned to account has come from any of the Senatorial sneerers at Mr. WILSON's ideals.

They seek to destroy what he has helped to create, they have given no sign that they would create anything themselves. For all that they have said to the contrary, we may assume that they would be quite willing to declare the forfeiture of every permanent gain secured by the war, and see the world revert to the pre-war condition, with every nation which cherishes a ruthless ambition left free to fall upon its neighbors with fire and sword—in short, all this agony to be gone through with again and again.

The President has a very different conception of the world in its present temper. He sees the nations eager to unite in a society of peace, as partners bound by articles of association that make right and justice the rule of conduct. His Senatorial opponents see the nations still "red in tooth and claw" from the last deadly struggle, secretly harboring the purpose of new ravenings. And, most astounding thing of all, they present to our view the United States as the intended victim of their onslaught, a weak and defenseless little land unsuspectingly putting its head into the snare which they have contrived to strangle it. It is our opinion that Mr. WILSON is a more competent witness to the present spirit and temper of the nations than the Senators who oppose him. It is our belief, too, that the event will show him to have a profounder understanding than they now have of the feeling of the American people in respect to the League of Nations.

WARNING FROM THE SUPER-GOVERNMENT.

Mr. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON, Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, the Super-Legislature and Super-Government of the State, has issued another message. Certain malignants and malefactors in the subordinate body have dared to talk about legalizing the sale of beer and light wines. They have composed a concurrent resolution, a "shameful" resolution, for the purpose of unratifying and "nullifying" the Prohibition Amendment, passed by order of the Anti-Saloon League. Any such plunges into wetness, the Fount of Government says, will not be submitted to by the people. Efforts at nullification, delays of the court in responding to the sacred ardor of the Drys, will result in "carrying the issue into the next campaign."

Since Governor WHITMAN was beaten last Fall by his alliance with the Prohibitionists, since the election of Governor SMITH can't be explained otherwise than as a reflection of the popular disapproval of prohibition, Mr. ANDERSON's threat of an appeal to the voters is not without humor. He explains, indeed, that Mr. WHITMAN was defeated because his managers "tried to flirt with the Wets." The Governor might have liked to have the vote of the Wets, but the jugglery to that end was too apparent. The people gave their opinion on prohibition. Obedient to its boss, the Anti-Saloon League, the Legislature ratified the amendment in spite of the popular verdict against it. Now some of these weak-kneed statesmen have heard from their constituents and would like to reconsider and rescind their vote. Rule by the minority is the linchpin of that government by little, arrogant societies and secret conciliabulums, whereof the Anti-Saloon League is one of the finest examples.

Mr. ANDERSON talks roundly, as usual. "The moral convictions of the nation, or even of the State," that is to say, of the league, must not be "thwarted," or great and terrible will be the revenge taken at the polls when "we" go back "to the people with the issue." Mighty is the sceptre of Mr. ANDERSON, and any member of the Legislature who likes to tremble at that symbol of the league's empire is free to do so, but Mr. ANDERSON, as a serious sovereign, should not demean himself by talking about appeals to the people. The Anti-Saloon League is the people. It justifies, ratifies, and supports itself. Its power resides in its fulminations and comminations. Why should it bother about ballots, with which, as a matter of fact, it is not too lucky?

FINANCING THE TREASURY.

The authorization of seven billions of Treasury notes is for the purpose of financing the Treasury, not for waging war. The Treasury has spent a considerable part of the taxes levied on last year's business, although they have not yet been paid, and has also anticipated a considerable part of the new money to be borrowed on short time. Secretary GLASS even says that the taxes on this year's business, to be collected next year, will not suffice for needs of the Treasury, and will be spent before they are collected. It had been thought that the increase of our debt to twenty-five billions, more or less, would close the chapter of war finance, and comfort has been taken in the comparison of that burden with heavier burdens in proportion to ability that we have easily borne in the past, and that other nations are now sturdily bearing. If that hope is to be realized there must be a check to such expenditures as have brought us to the verge of our expected maximum already, and with hints of fresh borrowing before even these notes are issued.

We have come to speak of billions so easily that there is danger of underestimating the difficulty of placing these fresh seven billions. That lacks but little of being half of the maximum deposits of all national banks, and is more than three-quarters of their maximum loans. The comparison is useful as indicating the manner in which the notes should not be floated. The Treasury borrowing thus far has not constricted commercial borrowing because of the efficient manner in which appeal has been made to investors. National banks, therefore, own less than a billion of the seventeen billions of bonds outstanding, and have lent depositors on pledge of them just over a billion more. Those two billions were for the purposes of war expenses to be incurred, and their expenditure stimulated trade. The forthcoming seven billions are mostly on account of past expenditures, and have less claim upon the commercial banks. Only a few hundred millions of the seven billions should be absorbed by the commercial banks, and as few as possible by the Federal banks. Already they are carrying in rediscounts their customers' notes for the fourth loan, whose total is just stated at $6,993,073,250, in many cases on understanding for three renewals of the ninety-day notes. The discount on the Fourth Liberties disinclines either banks or customers toward further commitments, and the appeal to investors must be urgent.

The proposal is to issue four classes of notes; one fully exempt, another fully taxed, another exempt respecting income and profit taxes, a fourth exempt respecting estate and inheritance taxes. These four classes are to be interconvertible, for it would not be practicable to know the proportions in which any of them will be wanted, and therefore to limit them. The exemption privileges of four preceding issues are enlarged, and there is authorized an extension of the privilege of conversion of outstanding 4s into 4¼s. The proposal is to limit the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury in these respects, but he is left with the authority of fixing the rate. If he can be trusted with the rate, he might equally be trusted in the other respects, for there is a presumption in favor of his discretion over that of those who control him, and thereby put him under something like compulsion to raise the rate more than otherwise might be necessary.

For it is necessary to consider that the exemption privilege is losing its attractiveness just at the time when it would be greatest if it had not been used prematurely. With twenty-four billions of Federal bonds exempt in varying degrees, in addition to the billions of local exempt securities, there will be enough to suit all tastes and satisfy all demands. The enactment of a 65 per cent. surtax in addition to a 12 per cent. normal tax loses its terrors, and the inducement of the rate gains in importance. Moreover, the appeal must be made to investors who have been induced by patriotism to pay for seventeen billions of bonds more than they were worth on any other grounds than that of winning the war. They have learned by experience that there is no guarantee against decline of Federal bonds. Bond buyers are not less patriotic than they were, nor than others are, but they are sophisticated comparatively, and they will make rate comparisons.

It is agreeable to remark that the proposal to reject Secretary GLASS's recommendation of the extension of war credits by the Treasury to the Allies, and by the War Finance Corporation to general borrowers, has itself been rejected. It will profit the lenders more than the borrowers, and will help placing of the seven billions of notes. Activity of trade is never more desirable than when such appeals are made, and for that the prospect is bettered.

RESTORING THE STATE CONVENTION.

At its annual meeting in January the Association of the Bar of the City of New York passed a resolution in favor of the nomination of candidates for the office of Judge of the Court of Appeals and Justice of the Supreme Court by nominating conventions instead of direct primary elections. The Republican Club of this city has approved the amendment of the election law to restore the nominating convention for elective State officers. The Walton-Fearon bill, now before the Legislature, provides for restoring the State convention for the nomination of candidates to be voted for by all the electors of the State and candidates for Justice of the Supreme Court. This bill ought to pass for many sufficient reasons, most of which the experience of the last five years has brought out in the minds of observers of or participators in State politics.

The Union League Club's Committee on Political Reform, of which Mr. WILLIAM D. GUTHRIE is Chairman and Mr. J. VAN VECHTEN OLCOTT Secretary, has made a report which states concisely and fairly the objections to the present nominating system. In 1913 the State convention ceased to exist as a nominating body. In 1914, when the direct primary system was new, the party enrollment and share in party elections increased; they have diminished as the nap of the novelty wore off. Thus, in this county the enrolled membership of the Republican Party nearly doubled between 1914 and 1918. In 1914 the primary vote was 41.5 per cent. of the enrollment. In 1918, though there was a sharp competition between Governor WHITMAN and Attorney General LEWIS, the primary vote of the county was but 27 per cent. of the enrolled; and in some other counties the percentage was less. In multitudinous instances primary elections were held at great expense, although there was no contest. Perhaps the finest triumph of the comic spirit occurred in 1916, when Mr. WHITMAN was officially designated candidate of "the American Party" for Governor. In the whole State the poll of that organization stood: WHITMAN, 38; SEABURY, 37.

Under the present system Mr. GUTHRIE's report says:

> The voters of a small portion of the State can put a candidate in nomination by petition for any elective State office and any number of names may be placed on the official primary ballot. In fact, twenty or more names can be placed on the official primary ballot of a party as candidates for an elective office, and the person receiving a plurality of the votes cast will be the candidate of a great party to whose support the party will be committed and for whose conduct in office the party will be responsible, although the successful candidate may be entirely unknown to nineteen-twentieths of the voters at that particular primary election except, of course, in the case of candidates for Governor.

The number of persons taking part in the primaries is small. A small minority may nominate a candidate about whom the majority knows nothing. "There is no way of ascertaining for "whom petitions are being circulated; "no publicity is required or provided "for, even after the time has expired "for filing petitions, and in many in-"stances the great majority of the en-"rolled voters have no knowledge "whatever as to many of the can-"didates for office on the official pri-"mary ballots until they open their "ballots at the polling places." Only persons of means can afford to advertise as candidates. Not a cent of the party funds can be spent on the primary canvass. Thus the candidates and their backers have to pay for what piping is done in their behalf.

If we have representative government, why should we not have a representative body to select candidates for office and lay down party platforms? In England, France, and Italy the representatives of the people in Parliament possess not only legislative but executive power. Our own executive and administrative officers are chosen separately. If, then, the representative principle is to prevail here, our State executive and judicial officers should be nominated by representatives of the voters. The State convention permits responsible and representative party action. It never should have been abolished. The sooner it is restored the better for all parties and the State.

HOW OLD ARE WE?

We have been used to hearing for these many years that America was a young, an immature, nation. The assertion was familiar as a criticism, an apology, and a boast; but it has remained for contemporary psychology to make it exact. These little tests of association of ideas and quickness of thought, as exemplified by the subject's reaction to a command to mark a cross in the fourth circle when there are only three circles there, or his ability to discern in five seconds the fallacy in the sentence, "He received her telegram the same day," have been used for years on such helpless victims as criminals, imbeciles, and immigrants; but when war came they found a wider field. They were employed to grade and classify the men taken in the draft, and with such success that Columbia University may adopt them as an alternative for entrance examinations. Of course, the psychologists tell us, every system will make an occasional error; this explains away the frequency with which these tests, when applied to some college President or captain of industry who happens to be curious about them, will show that he has the mentality of an adenoidal child of seven. Aside from these exceptions, the system stands unchallenged.

Hence the shame of Philadelphia when a study of the psychological reactions of some thousands of her drafted men led to the distressing conclusion that the two million people of that city had collectively the intelligence of a child of ten years old. To the ribald this furnished a simple explanation of Philadelphia politics, but perhaps it is not so simple as that. When a city which has made considerable contributions to literature, science, and the higher grades of commerce and industry is found to be only ten years old, it looks as if something is the matter with Philadelphia, or the psychologists, or the standard of measurement. Since the psychologists are by their own statement above error, it may be that children of ten have more intelligence than we think; or perhaps they meant no ordinary child of ten, but such an exception as NORBERT WIENER or WILLIAM JAMES SIDIS.

At any rate, we should be nearer the truth by reversing the proposition. Instead of saying that Philadelphia has the mentality of a child of ten, we ought to say that a child of ten has the mentality of Philadelphia. Then a lively girl of twenty-two would have the mentality of New York; a lady of fifty, with independent means, of Boston; a retired farmer who has no troubles of his own and thinks that other people's troubles are their own fault, of Indianapolis, or at least of the literary section of that city. If our psychologists will only do a little more work we may have a whole series of geographical metaphors that will pass into currency. "They "wanted a younger man for the job; "he was Baltimore." "Of course "she should have known enough not "to marry him, but she was only "Chicago." Our psychologists have at least opened up a field extensive enough to insure them steady employment for a long time to come, which quite possibly is the chief object of psychologists as well as of most other people. Philadelphia's loss is science's gain.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Many Tongues, but All Understand.

With the assembling in Paris of people from most of the earth's nations, some of them delegates to the Peace Conference and the rest deeply interested in it, and hoping to influence its decisions, the inconveniences and inhibitions that arise from inability to understand each other's speech have been brought to attention to a degree perhaps never before equaled. Naturally enough, this fact has encouraged the advocates of a "universal language," to be learned by everybody in addition to his native tongue, to present again their well-known arguments.

And they are not bad arguments, either. Indeed, they are so good that there is something a little mysterious in the world's refusal, as yet, to take them with the seriousness that would necessitate a serious effort to refute them. Instead, the several peoples have preferred to reply, in effect: "Yes, what you say about your artificial languages seems to be true enough, but we are getting along fairly well as we are, and even if we took the trouble to learn your beautifully—and inhumanly—regular and consistent language, we should get nothing except the language itself—no literature, no associations, no new intimacy with any neighbor nation."

And there the matter stands after many years of effort and the expenditure of not a little learning in the manufacture of languages that have no fault except that somehow they do not fit in with the linguistic sense as it has developed anywhere on earth. Real languages are not made; they make themselves, and their seeming or theoretical imperfections must be without reality, as they are all conquerable by any halfway normal child before reaching the age of 4.

Probably the fundamental error of those who invent artificial languages and preach their adoption is that they exaggerate the difficulties created by diversity of speech, and fail to ascribe enough of importance to the deep-lying regard of every race for its own speech. In reality, people do manage to make themselves understood, at international conferences and at other times, with the help of the always available interpreters, and probably there is not to be recalled a single instance in which anything like national interests were betrayed, or even adversely affected, because their representatives could not talk to each other.

Admiral PERRY arrived at a very definite agreement with the Japanese, and CAESAR never found a barbarian tribe to whose members he could not communicate his ideas with a clearness sufficient for his purposes.

The chances are that the universal language of the future, or the universal secondary language, if there is one, will be a natural, not an artificial, language. Once it seemed that French was destined to attain that eminence, but at present English leads in the competition for the honor. To the theorist English has about all the faults a language can have, including a system of spelling worthy of a madhouse, but—well, already it has spread over the greater part of the world, and its rivals are apparently on the point of giving up in despair.

Everybody May Tell the Truth.

Testimony more contradictory could hardly be imagined than that which has been offered in regard to the Embarkation Camp at Pontanezen, near Brest. On the one hand, many soldiers who have been there tell dreadful stories about their hardships and sufferings, while, on the other hand, several newspaper correspondents, including some who presumably would not be reluctant to report horrors if horrors existed, have made what they declare to have been careful and complete examinations and either admit or proclaim that the much-criticised camp, all things considered, is a credit to American ability to guard the health of our soldiers and American determination to do it.

And now we have a detailed report of an examination made at General PERSHING's order by a competent subordinate of high rank, and he, too, says that the camp is well organized, the buildings weather-tight and warm, the food good and its distribution excellent, and that adequate measures have been taken to keep the men out of the mud inevitably formed in that part of France at this season of the year when many troops are gathered in close quarters.

This is, of course, an investigation of the accused by themselves, and favorable reports are naturally to be expected in such circumstances, but it is incredible that Major Gen. HELMICK would deliberately misrepresent facts that are known to thousands and thousands of people, or that General PERSHING would as deliberately present falsified hospital statistics.

This, however, is not to say that "somebody is lying," and still less to say that the men who have so bitterly complained about their experiences at the Pontanezen Camp are the ones who have been doing it. A possible theory of the discrepancies in the evidence is that the witnesses all tell the truth, but are referring to different times—that evils once real enough were remedied as soon as possible. Allowance must be made, too, for the impatience and irritability of the soldier, eager to get home and detained on the coast of France—where apparently it always rains—for a period the length of which he does not understand.

Confusion Needlessly Confounded.

Well-grounded complaints are made by people who go to meet friends arriving at the Pennsylvania Station. The trouble arises from the fact that passengers from a single train are allowed, and in effect compelled, to use two, and sometimes three, passageways leading to the central concourse, and that it is impossible to know through which doorway they will make their appearance in the part of the station accessible to the public.

The result of this is that the arriving passengers often mingle with the general crowd and disappear before their friends see them—a result always annoying and sometimes decidedly serious.

The remedy, seemingly, would be, not the closing of all except one exit from each train—that would make troublesome delays for the travelers—but by means of ropes to converge the several streams from the several exits toward a single point near which friends waiting for passengers could take their stand when the train comes in.

That would be a simple expedient and apparently easily practicable.

THE CALL.

Will ye leave the world unguarded, with the lie that your work has ceased?
Will ye turn to trade and barter, when ye should forge chains for the Beast?
Guarding your isolation, as a lion guards his den,
Lest the peoples who fought for freedom may prove to be lesser men?

Will ye praise your buried prophets, in order to shirk the task?
Will ye quote their ancient sayings, as a cloak wherewith to mask

The uttermost faith in each other when first was thy creed declared;
Yours is the voice awaited—it is yours to make or mar,
Will ye build as your fathers builded, or oppose mere words to war?

I, the Lord, call upon you—I, who am Lord of your hosts,
To summon the men of your cities, to summon the men of your coasts,
To league with mine other peoples, to 'stablish my statutes at length,
That the gates shall be closed to warfare, and justice be stronger than strength.

O. E. HOWARD THOMSON.

A SPANISH-SPEAKING STATE.

That, It Is Feared, May Be the Result in New Mexico.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Columns are being published at this time in THE TIMES and other progressive newspapers of the United States in regard to the Americanization of the foreign elements in this country, and more especially of means to compel the use of the English language as a first step to that end.

Very little notice, in this talk, is taken of the States bordering on Mexico, inhabited largely by Spanish-speaking people, many of whom speak no English whatever. New Mexico especially comes under this head, with the Spanish-speaking element largely predominating in her inhabitants, and from which element the Governor and many of the members of the Legislature are elected. In the Legislature of New Mexico the interpreter is present at every session, and most of the speeches made in that body are translated as they are delivered.

In The National Geographic Magazine for August, I think, of last year, appeared an article by Kristina Krysto on her experiences in teaching enlisted foreigners to speak enough English to enable them to understand orders given in training, and at the same time to attempt to give the men some knowledge of what this country was fighting for. She speaks of an incident when a boy from New Mexico was asked how long he had been a citizen of the United States. The boy replied:

"Seven months."

"How long have you been in the training camp?"

"Seven months."

"Where were you born?"

"New Mexico."

Here was a boy born in New Mexico unaware that he was born in the United States. Such ignorance might have seemed astounding before the recent statement of the number of illiterates in the United States.

There is no compulsory school law in New Mexico. A law now before the Legislature of this State probably voices the point of view of the majority of the people of New Mexico, not an Anglo-Saxon majority. This law was presented by the Governor of the State as a part of an educational program, as the report below from The Albuquerque Evening Herald shows:

"Governor O. A. Larrazolo's program of educational legislation made its appearance this morning (Feb. 12) in a series of six bills presented to the House of Representatives by Speaker Sedillo and Republican Floor Leader Barnes. The measures follow closely the outlines given in the Governor's message to the Legislature four weeks ago.

"Bill No. 154 provides that all high school students and all students in the University of New Mexico, the State Agricultural College, the School of Mines, Military Institute, Normal University and Normal School, and the Spanish American Normal School shall be compelled to study Spanish, but that no student shall be compelled to continue such study for more than a total of four years.

"The final bill in the Governor's program requires that teachers in rural school districts inhabited principally by Spanish-speaking people must be able to write, read, and speak the Spanish language and that these teachers shall translate all reading lessons into the Spanish language and teach their students to read in Spanish.

"Whenever it is impossible to secure teachers with this bilingual qualification the act will not apply."

This law, if passed, would in effect create a Spanish-speaking State on the border of New Mexico, yet within the United States. It would have exactly the opposite effect desired by thinking people of the country at this time, to make English the single language of the United States.

Recently you printed in a Sunday issue views of various Governors of the States on methods of Americanizing foreigners and illiterates. It would be interesting to know the views of the Governor of New Mexico on this matter, taken in conjunction with this bill. From the point of view of a resident within the State, it would seem that, with a State bordering on Mexico wherein the Spanish language is compulsory for every child, where teachers are compelled by law to teach in Spanish where English is not understood, the country is threatened by a menace similar, if smaller and less conspicuous, to that of the German-language schools and newspapers within the borders of the United States.

SERBS AND CROATS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Italy and Austria are concerned over the possible growth of a strong Jugoslav State, and the reasons for their concern are patent. To frustrate this they seek to employ not only such propaganda as may tend to raise provincial and political jealousies among the component parts, but also to play upon religious differences. The immediate method, as indicated in the message given out by the Italian Press Bureau, and published in your columns today under the caption, "Say Serbs Oppress Croats," is to arouse feeling against Serbia and to do so in a most unjustifiable manner.

With the collapse of the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the spectacular developments in the Balkans and along the Adriatic, we are inclined to overlook the part played by brave little Serbia in the great war and the overwhelming sacrifices made by her in the common cause. We forget that Belgium's struggle and sacrifice, great as they were, were small compared with those of the Knight of the Balkans that stood across the pathway of Germany to the east. The Croats and Slovenes and Serbs of Austria do not forget, however, for long before the war they regarded Serbia as their champion. Before they were liberated they voiced at Corfu their desire for union with Serbia in a strong federation under the Karageorgevich dynasty, and this desire they reiterated when freed from Austrian rule.

Now, however, to attain their ends, the Italians and Austrians seek to break up this accord. Their agents are endeavoring to make the Croats see in the Serbians an imperialistic power that would dominate them. The Catholic Church may look on this move with sympathy, for the Croatians are Catholics, while the Serbians are orthodox. In America, however, another point is made. Attention is called to the fact that Serbia is a monarchy, and a play is made to appeal to American feeling by advocating a Jugoslav republic.

This is of course entirely disingenuous. Serbia is a constitutional monarchy, quite as liberal and democratic as England or America, but feeling a devotion to brave old King Peter and Prince Alexander as great as that which the Belgians accord to King Albert. The attempt to play upon American prejudice against the very word "king" is made in a clever effort to separate the Jugoslav peoples. Similar efforts in America are also extended to relief societies, where no stone is left unturned to arouse jealousy and suspicion, and to make each party feel that there is unfairness in effort and in distribution.

The future peace of the Balkans depends on a strong and unified Jugoslavia, and all should be on their guard against an insidious propaganda that seeks to weaken and divide it. J. L.

ENDING NAVY WORK ABROAD.

Franklin Roosevelt Announces Demobilization of Overseas Forces.

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—Practical demobilization of the American naval establishment in European waters and the sale of the Lafayette wireless station at Bordeaux to the French Government for about $4,400,000 were announced today by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who arrived with President Wilson on the George Washington after having spent a month in Europe liquidating contracts and settling claims.

On the trip over Mr. Roosevelt told the officers and men of the George Washington that the United States spent more than $30,000,000 laying the mine barrage in the North Sea, and that by the naval offensive which the United States forces helped to bring about submarines were driven from the coasts out to sea, where their work was more difficult.

"Few realize," said Mr. Roosevelt, "that the American Navy had fifty-four bases in European waters and the Azores, including destroyer stations and mine-laying bases, although the majority were naval aviation bases from which more than 200 American seaplanes operated. We had more than 70,000 men at these bases and on ships operating them. We leased docks and buildings, and, in addition, constructed hundreds of hangars, piers, hospitals, storehouses, and other buildings. Almost 50,000 officers and men now have been sent home and all the flying stations and bases, with a few exceptions, have been evacuated. All material of future value has been sent home. Portable houses, provisions and motor trucks have been sold to the Red Cross and the army, and what remained of lumber and other salvage material has been sold to the British and French Governments.

"The Lafayette radio station, near Bordeaux, was intended to insure communication between Washington and the army and navy in case the cable system was put out of commission or interfered with by German submarines. It has eight towers and could communicate with the United States day and night. I arranged with the French Government that we shall complete the station, which is two-thirds finished, and they will then take it over at what it costs us."

TO PLAN FOR GOOD ROADS.

Convention of Builders Will Open at McAlpin Today.

An important meeting in the interest of good roads to be held in this city will be opened today at the Hotel McAlpin, with the sixteenth annual convention of the American Road Builders' Association. Several hundred delegates will be present from all parts of the country, including the highway Commissioners of many of the larger States which are taking an active part for road improvement this year.

One of the big problems which will be discussed will be the suggestion that has been gaining strength among road advocates that a Federal Highway Commission should be appointed at an early date by Congress to formulate a comprehensive road building policy. The plan involves the construction under the auspices of the Government of connecting interstate trunk highways, providing through highway traffic for long distances for motor transportation.

Arthur H. Blanchard of this city is President of the association, and he will preside. The conference will continue four days. Among the speakers will be General T. Coleman du Pont, who will speak on the importance of national highways; George T. Pride of this city and a former member of the Highways Transport Committee, who will talk on the necessity of connecting up the highways, railways, and waterways of the country; C. W. Pinckney, Chief Engineer of the Borough of Manhattan; Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate; Willis Whited of the Pennsylvania Highway Department, H. E. Breed, First Deputy Commissioner of the New York Highway Department; Prevost Hubbard of the United States Bureau of Public Roads, Frederic E. Everett, Highway Commissioner of New Hampshire; Paul D. Sargent of the Maine Highway Commission, and Charles J. Bennett, Highway Commissioner of Connecticut.

WOULD REGULATE PACKERS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Senate Agriculture Committee today ordered reported the Kendrick bill, providing for regulation of refrigerator cars by the Interstate Commerce Commission, licensing of packers' facilities and divorcing of stock yards from control by packing companies.

The committee disregarded recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission for ownership by the Railroad Administration of stock and refrigerator cars and Government regulation of branch plants.

The packers, under the bill, have two years with provision for a two-year extension in which to dispose of stock yard interests. Control of the stock yard, it is contemplated, would be exercised by other private concerns.

While the packers would be permitted to retain ownership of refrigerator cars, the bill provides that cars must be furnished to others in accordance with regulations to be issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Licensing of the packers' facilities would be placed under the Department of Agriculture, but decisions of the Secretary would be subject to appeal in the courts.

GERMANS RESTORE BONDS.

French Owners Identify Securities of Which Invaders Robbed Them.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Stocks and bonds taken by the Germans from branches of the Crédit Lyonnais in St. Quentin, Douai, and other towns occupied during the war were returned to the owners who could identify them at an unusual meeting in the vaults of the bank in Paris today.

The bank had notified the inhabitants of the various towns to appear at the bank to identify the securities which had been recovered from the Germans. The claimants sat around a table on which were emptied the securities taken from the branch of the Crédit Lyonnais in their town. Most of the securities were identified and returned, but the owners of the remainder have not been found.

Two German agents, who had been in charge of the securities, attended the meeting.

"OBJECTORS" RETURN PAY.

$5,000 Already Sent Back by Men Released from Fort Leavenworth.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Nearly all the conscientious objectors recently released by the army at Fort Leavenworth have returned the money paid them on discharge, holding that the scruples which prevented them from fighting also forbade the acceptance of pay for noncombatant service which relieved a fighter for the front.

It was learned today that about $5,000 already had been returned and remittances still were coming in.

To Rush Action on Wire Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Right of way for action on the resolution to end Government control of telephone and telegraph systems on Dec. 31, next, will be proposed this week by the House Rules Committee. Chairman Pou announced this decision today after a meeting of the committee.

Recommends Williams' Confirmation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—By a strict party vote of 9 to 4, the Senate Banking Committee decided today to recommend confirmation of the nomination of John Skelton Williams to succeed himself as Comptroller of the Currency.

RANSDELL RAISES SHIPPING PROBLEMS

$2,500,000,000 AT STAKE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Six months after the treaty of peace between this country and Germany is proclaimed, the authority granted to the President under the Shipping act will cease, and the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation will automatically go out of existence.

With these facts in mind, Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, one of the most prominent members of the Senate Commerce Committee, today asked in a speech in the Senate:

He enumerated as many courses as he said had come to his attention, and named them as follows:

1. Complete Government ownership and operation.
2. Ownership and operation through a public corporation controlled by the Government.
3. Vessels owned, manned, and equipped by the Government, but operated by private shipping agencies on a commission basis.
4. Vessels owned by the Government, but operated, manned, and victualed by the private companies.
5. Vessels owned, manned, and victualed by the Government, but leased to private companies under time charters.
6. Vessels owned by the Government, but chartered to private companies, which would pay all expenses of operation and maintenance.
7. Title to vessels placed in a large corporation, which would issue stock to private individuals, the Government participating in the profits.
8. Selling the vessels to private purchasers.
9. Combination of any of the foregoing plans.

"The Shipping Board," said Senator Ransdell, "now owns 44 per cent. of the ocean-going merchant marine of the United States over 500 gross tons. In a few months it will own half. When the ships already launched and now being completed in the wet basin have been delivered it will own 54 per cent. When the ships now on the ways have been launched and delivered it will own 57 per cent. When all the ships now under contract by the Shipping Board have been delivered more than 70 per cent. of the ocean-going tonnage under the American flag, of more than 500 gross tons, will be owned by the Shipping Board.

"The Shipping Board owned on Feb. 12, 1919, 657 ships of an aggregate deadweight tonnage of 3,582,800 tons. There have been launched but not yet delivered 1,784,800 deadweight tons, and there are on the ways under construction 3,674,093 deadweight tons. If the present building program is carried out, even taking into consideration cancellations during the last few weeks of approximately 2,250,000 of tonnage found unsuitable for commercial needs, the Shipping Board will own in 1920 a total of 14,525,522 deadweight tons of merchant shipping. These figures compare with a total American merchant marine (excluding the Great Lakes fleet) in 1914 of 5,045,766 tons gross register, or approximately 7,000,000 deadweight tons. In addition to the ships which the Shipping Board will own, there are now approximately 1,649 ships under the American flag of 500 gross tons or over, with an aggregate deadweight tonnage of 4,473,328, making a grand total under the American flag in 1920, exclusive of Great Lakes ships and ships under 500 gross tons, of 18,998,[illegible] deadweight tons—practically 19,000,000.

"Six months after the proclamation or ratification of the peace treaty—perhaps nine months from now, almost certainly within a year—the Shipping Board will have a merchant fleet of from five to six million tons on its hands, with no power to operate it and no power to dispose of it, unless the Congress has by that time adopted further legislation, or unless the ships have by that time been disposed of.

"We must rid ourselves of the delusion that the merchant marine problem of the United States can be solved by merely repealing the Seamen's act. The impression has been sedulously fostered that the Seamen's act is responsible for all our maritime woes. Those who are taken in by this propaganda generally forget what the Seamen's act is about. It abolishes that form of involuntary servitude known as arrest and imprisonment for desertion. It requires that 65% of the crew must be able seamen. It requires that 75% of the crew must be able to understand the orders of the officers. It establishes standards of safety at sea recommended by the International Convention of Safety at Sea. Are not these reasonable and meritorious provisions? As a practical question we must accept the Seamen's act. Members of both parties in this body have expressed the opinion to me that it cannot be repealed without a struggle that would carry us far beyond the time during which we must reach a solution of the problem.

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that under statutes now in force the Shipping Board itself has complete power to adopt a policy for the disposition of two and a half billion dollars' worth of ships and contracts without consulting Congress. The Emergency Shipping Fund legislation of 1917 authorized the President not only to manage or rate ships acquired by the United States, but to dispose of them, and this authority the President has delegated to the Shipping Board without reservation.

"One word in an appropriation act—that single word 'dispose'—gives a body of five men power over two and a half billion dollars' worth of property and contracts; a power they can exercise without even consulting Congress. I mention this without at all implying that I have any reason to believe that the Shipping Board will attempt to exercise this power. I mention it merely to show how unsatisfactory is our legislation on the subject at present and how important it is that permanent legislation of a satisfactory character be soon adopted."

NO FINAL VOTE ON SHIPPING.

But House Tentatively Approves a $626,000,000 Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Appropriation of $626,000,000 for the continuation of the work of the Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation was tentatively approved by the House in the course of consideration today and tonight of the Sundry Civil bill for the next fiscal year. James R. Mann, the Republican leader, made a point of order on the provision for the payment of obligations incurred for the construction of requisitioned ships, reducing the original estimate by $35,000,000.

Representative Sherley, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said the Fleet Corporation had 774 ships on the ways, and that keels would be laid for 882 others, making a total of 2,532 of 14,578,111 deadweight tons in the entire program. The total loss to the Government in writing off the difference in costs in war and peace times would be approximately $2,000,000,000, Mr. Sherley said.

Opposition to the appropriation was expressed by Mr. Mann, who said Congress was not justified in appropriating more money for shipbuilding when it was practically certain that costs would be too high.

Other important appropriations passed tentatively included $2,000,000 for the Federal Board for Vocational Education; $1,055,000 for the Federal Trade Commission; $4,396,000 for the Interstate Commerce Commission; $605,000 for the Smithsonian Institution, and $300,000 for the Tariff Commission.

MAYOR'S WELCOME STAFF DISMISSED

GIVES ECONOMY AS CAUSE

E. B. Cochems, on Other Hand, Calls Action Result of Chaos Over Hearst Issue.

Grover A. Whalen, secretary to Mayor Hylan, yesterday dismissed E. B. Cochems, executive secretary of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to the Homecoming Troops, and the entire office staff of the organization "in the interests of economy." Their work of preparing for the city's official welcome to the 27th and 77th Divisions will be supervised by Mr. Whalen and other city employes from the office of the Mayor, by whom contracts for the erection of stands and for other public work in preparation for the celebration will be let.

Mr. Cochems cited his dismissal, and that of the nine other employes, including a publicity director and the secretaries of three other important committees, as proof of his assertion that the Mayor's Committee was in a "chaotic state" because of the opposition to the membership of William Randolph Hearst as Chairman of the sub-committee on Military Affairs and because of the attempt to make the organization a political asset instead of a nonpartisan welcome to the returning soldiers.

None of the members of this staff knew the personnel of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome, nor of the number of resignations. Mr. Whalen repeatedly has refused to give out information on either point, except to say that 5,000 persons had been invited to join the committee.

Calls It Economical.

Mr. Whalen said that the ten employes had been dismissed because it was believed by the members of the Executive Committee on the Mayor's Committee that the use of city employes in this office would be "more economical and just as efficient." Speaking of the work of the employes who were dismissed he said "there was too much running around and expense." Expenses of maintaining the office staff in the Hall of Records were about $475 weekly, Mr. Whalen added, all paid by private subscription.

Alfred J. Johnson, ex-City Chamberlain, who is a member of the Executive Committee and the personal representative of Daniel G. Reid, the Chairman, said last night that he understood the dismissal of the employes was to be "in the interests of economy," although the maintenance of the office was no expense to the city. Mr. Johnson said that Mr. Reid had underwritten the expenses of the office and was willing to continue to pay out the money, but that it was believed by other members of the Executive Committee that "a good thing should not be worked to death."

Speaking of the assertion that he had been dismissed in "the interests of economy" Mr. Cochems said that the expense of his office were only $271 weekly and not $475, and that Mr. Reid had paid them to save the city that expense. He added that George W. Loft, Chairman of the Sub-Committee on Pageants, had offered to pay his salary. Other reasons were responsible for the action of Whalen in asking the Executive Committee for permission to dismiss the staff, Mr. Cochems said, and he related that on Feb. 3 he had been engaged by the Executive Committee for the new work and informed on Feb. 19 that his duties in the Mayor's Committee would be taken up by John Glennon, Chief Clerk in the Mayor's office, and Alfred Meehan, Secretary to the Street Cleaning Commissioner. On Feb. 20 he wrote a letter to Secretary Whalen, saying in part:

Ask Non-Partisan Conduct.

"I am saying all these things in the most kindly spirit and for the general welfare of the committee itself, as this committee is in charge of quasi-public functions that are nearer and dearer to the hearts of the citizens of New York than any other events that will take place again in this generation. If this matter cannot be done in a non-partisan way, as it has always been done under the Mayor's Committee on National Defense for the past two years, then I want to be apprised of that change of front and will hereby submit to you my resignation as Executive Secretary, but not as Secretary of the Pageant Committee, until I hear from its Chairman, the only man authorized to accept it.

"I will gladly submit to any decision of the Executive Committee on all other matters, but I will not submit to the Secretary of the Committee, whom I believe has no authority to select or remove any one who has been selected by the Executive Committee of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Home Coming Troops.

"If this matter is to be settled from City Hall without the knowledge and consent of those men whom his Honor, Mayor Hylan, has selected to carry on these public functions, and to make them successful and an honor to this city, I wish to have no part therein."

Mr. Cochems contended that it was his duty to arrange for the parades and do all the work he had done at public functions in the Mitchel administration. He said also that the distribution of tickets and the preparation of stands for the celebration ought to be left to him. Another right demanded by him was that he should be permitted to carry out the wishes of George W. Loft, Chairman of the Pageant Committee, and General George R. Dyer, the Vice Chairman, and represent them on the Executive Committee. Meetings were held without sending him notice, he said, and questions vitally affecting the celebration were "railroaded through."

Alfred J. Johnson said that the action of the committee did not mean that Mr. Reid had withdrawn as Chairman of the Executive Committee, nor that there was any other disruption. Chairman Loft, who was the supporter of Mr. Cochems, is in Havana, but cablegrams from him yesterday instructed Mr. Cochems to represent him as Chairman of the Pageant Committee. None of the members of the Mayor's Committee was willing to say that there was a row over the Hearst membership.

Cochems directed all the recruiting campaigns of the Mayor's Committee of National Defense during the Mitchel administration, as well as many other public movements, and he said last night that he was "never then asked to take part in any political movement while he remained an employe of the committee." He was head of the Speakers' Bureau for the Progressive National Committee in 1912 and assistant director in the Republican campaign in 1916. When he was considering taking some part in the Mitchel campaign, he said, he was instructed that he would have to leave the committee if he went into politics. He was formely a football star and coach at the University of Wisconsin.

STATE RECEPTION CERTAIN.

Senate Passes Bill Welcoming 27th—Plans Progress.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 24.—The Senate tonight by unanimous vote adopted the concurrent resolution creating a State Commission to welcome the 27th Division when it returns from service abroad next month. Under the provisions of the resolution the commission will be headed by Governor Smith and composed of all the elective State officials, members of the Senate and Assembly, the United States Senators and Representatives in Congress from this State, the Judges of the Court of Appeals and the Regents of the University of the State of New York. The Assembly has already adopted the resolution which now becomes effective.

Lieut. Col. J. Leslie Kincaid, commander of the advance contingent of nineteen officers who returned to this country last week to arrange for the reception and demobilization of the 27th Division, composed of the units of the old New York National Guard, announced yesterday that the entire division probably would sail from France in one convoy about March 5. They will probably arrive in this country about March 15.

Five of the largest ships in the transport service have been designated by Major Gen. David C. Shanks, commander of the port of debarkation, to take the units aboard at Brest. They are the Leviathan, the Harrisburg, the Louisville, formerly the American liner St. Louis; the Agamemnon, and the Pannonia. It was announced also that the British transport Mauretania probably would aid in carrying the division to this country.

An official cablegram was received yesterday from the army headquarters in France saying that the 102d Engineer Train, one of the auxiliary units of the 27th Division, and four companies of the 102d Engineers, under command of Lieut. Col. William S. Conrow, had sailed from Havre on Feb. 18 on the Rochambeau, and probably would arrive here March 1. This contingent comprises 1,000 men and sixty-nine officers, including the Headquarters and Field Staffs of the engineer regiment, the band, Companies A, B, C, and D, and the Ordnance and Sanitary detacnments. Of this number, 913 men and twenty-nine officers are from this State, and most of them were members of the old National Guard. The remainder represent replacements.

HUDSON VEHICLE TUBE.

Goethals Plan Out—Two Levels, Paid For and Free in 20 Years.

The joint meeting yesterday of the Bridge and Tunnel Commissions of New York and New Jersey at the office of the commission, 115 Broadway, brought out details of the latest plan by General George W. Goethals, consulting engineer to the commission, of a vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River. The plan calls for a single tunnel of concrete blocks, divided horizontally, in order to give two traffic levels, each having a roadway of 24½ feet wide, allowing three vehicles abreast, and permitting fast moving vehicles to travel without any delay. The capacity of the tunnel would be 100,000 vehicles daily in both directions, exceeding that of seventy-five ferry boats running continuously for twenty-four hours, or double the possible capacity of the fourteen existing lines between Manhattan and New Jersey.

The estimated time of completion is three years, and the total cost, including easements, is placed at $12,000,000, of which the States of New York and New Jersey will each pay $6,000,000, to be repaid to the said States from the proceeds of the tolls collected at each end. It is estimated that a toll per vehicle materially less than present ferry charges would produce $415,000 the first year, which, with a 5 per cent increase each year, would in twenty years amortize the total cost and create a fund for maintenance.

DR. JOHN A. BODINE DIES IN HIS CLUB

Professor of Surgery at Polyclinic Medical College Came of a Family of Surgeons.

Dr. John A. Bodine, a noted surgeon, died suddenly yesterday at the New York Athletic Club in his fifty-fourth year. Dr. Bodine was Professor of Surgery at Polyclinic Hospital and Medical College, consulting surgeon at St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, and a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. His father and grandfather had been surgeons before him. He lived at 182 West Fifty-eighth Street.

Dr. Bodine was sitting in the reading room of the club yesterday afternoon chatting with several friends when he was stricken with a heart attack. He rose from his chair as if in great pain and sank back dead. Dr. Charles A. Chetwood of 125 Park Avenue, a friend who had been attending Dr. Bodine, explained later that the surgeon had been subject to heart attacks for more than a year, an after effect of blood poisoning, which resulted from cutting his hand while performing an operation.

Dr. John Van Doren Young, former Secretary of the County Medical Society, said last night that Dr. Bodine's work toward the perfection of local anaesthesia for herniotomy was known among surgeons throughout the country who used his methods.

"Dr. Bodine's death will come as a great shock to the medical profession in this city," said Dr. Young. "He was a remarkable surgeon and contributed much to medical science, especially in the development of local anaesthesia. As a post-graduate teacher of surgery he had no equal—he whittled his facts down to the finest points and then hammered them home, as those in his classes were wont to say."

Dr. Bodine was born in Kentucky in 1865, and received his education at Notre Dame University and at the University of Louisville, Ky., from which he was graduated in 1893. He came immediately to New York and began practicing here.

Dr. Bodine was a member of the American Medical Association, the Academy of Medicine, the County Medical Society, the New York State Medical Society, and a number of other medical organizations. He was also a member of the New York Athletic and Knollwood Club. He is survived by his wife, who was Alice Boyle of Louisville, and a daughters, Mrs. Frederick A. Babcock of Schenectady.

He exhibited generously in this country, and received awards at the Buffalo Exposition in 1901 and at the San Francisco Exposition of 1915. Mme. Emma Eames obtained a decree of divorce from the artist in the Spring of 1907, after proceedings which were almost secret. The artist made no answer to the suit.

THE SERVANTS OF RELIEF FOR INCURABLE CANCER beg for help for their Country House,
ROSARY HILL HOME,
Hawthorne, Westchester Co., N. Y.,
which is almost entirely out of funds, for its 35 men and women cancer patients, who come from almshouses, hospitals, the physicians who have treated the poor gratuitously, and families who will not longer harbor them. The Servants of Relief have no pecuniary support except from public bounty in this work for cancerous poor. Do you know what excellent people can come from the poorhouses and what intelligent people are hounded from the world if they have cancer? To provide comfort and relief for the handful of men and women whom we glean from the multitude, we implore donations to keep our Home effective.

YANKS HAPPY, DUFFY LEWIS WILL PLAY

WALLIE PIPP IN THE FOLD

Cecil Causey Signs Giants Contract —Barrow Decides Where to Play Babe Ruth.

The best news the Yankees have received this season arrived yesterday in the form of a telegram from Fresno, Cal., bringing the tidings that George Duffy Lewis, the outfielder obtained by trade from the Red Sox, had accepted terms and would soon send along his contract. Manager Miller Huggins was feeling jubilant when he got the news from Scout Tom Connery, who is now on the coast. In Lewis the Yankees have the most valuable outfielder who has played under the club banner in many years.

Another cause for rejoicing in the Ruppert-Huston bailiwick yesterday was the contract of Wallie Pipp, the first baseman. Now that these players have started the ball rolling, Manager Huggins believes that the other players will fall into line promptly. "I expect that Pipp will be the best first baseman in the American League during the coming season," said Manager Huggins yesterday. "The player has filled out considerably during his service in the aviation branch of the army and he will be in better physical condition than ever before. Pipp is a natural hitter and meets the ball as hard as any player in the game. You will see him a greatly improved player during the coming season. Just wait and see the number of home runs Pipp makes this year."

It has been the misfortune of the Yankees for several seasons past to be weak in the outfield. The club has probably tried out more promising outfielders than any club in the league, but none of them ever came up to the reputations they brought here. Lewis is a tried, seasoned veteran, whose greatest asset is hitting in a pinch. Duffy may be depended on to drive in many runs during the coming season.

During the 1917 season Lewis had a batting average of .302, and among his choicest whacks was a collection of 29 two-baggers, and nine three-baggers. In the previous season, 1916, he also had 29 doubles. A hard hitting outfielder of this type is something that the Yanks have needed for a long time.

Cecil Causey, who is expected to be one of the Giants' best boxmen during the coming season, has signed his contract. Causey blossomed into one of McGraw's most dependable pitchers last season, and he plans to start out this season just where he left off last year.

Managers McGraw and Barrow have decided on Umpire Bill Brennan to do the honors on the exhibition tour of the Giants and the Red Sox in the South. Brennan, when he was in the National League, was one of the best indicator holders on the circuit. He jumped to the Federal League, and has never been able to get back into the good graces of the National League.

Frank Gilhooley, one of the players traded by the Yanks to the Red Sox, has signed his contract and expects to clinch a berth in the Boston outer garden this season. Harry Hooper and Amos Strunk have two of the places, and Gilhooley is going to make a hard try for the other one.

Manager Ed Barrow has about decided what he will do with Babe Ruth, his extraordinary slugger, this season. Says Barrow: "Chances are that Babe Ruth, if he plays with the Red Sox this season, will pitch and act as pinch-hitter. One thing I am convinced of, Ruth will play only one position. He will not be switched from first to left field, and then back to the box. He will not be worked that way again. I hope there never is any occasion to call upon him for so much and varied work as was the case last season. Right now it appears as if we needed him in the box. He is our best left hander and one of the best in the business. The American League's most dangerous batters are left handers. Then it is a good idea to have him there in the box.

"If we find that our outfield situation is bad and our pitching department strong, it will be Ruth for left field. But at this stage of the game it does not seem that we will have such a strong pitching department or such strength in left-handed pitching that we can afford to play Ruth anywhere but in the box and as a pinch-hitter.

"The team will be stronger offensively than last season. I expect both Gainer and Gilhooley to come through in the outfield. We have until April 1 to hear definitely from Owner Dunn of Cleveland about Outfielder Bobby Roth. If we get a good outfielder there is no chance at all of Ruth playing anywhere but in the box."

Bill Rariden, the Giants' catcher who was traded to Cincinnati, has decided that he will not retire from baseball, but seems highly pleased that he is going to play with the Reds. The reason that Bill decided to retire last year was because New York was too far from his farm in Bedford, Ill. Now that he is with Cincinnati he will be much closer to home and is well satisfied with his new berth.

President Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees has gone to French Lick on a vacation and he will be joined there in a few days by Colonel T. L. Huston, Vice President of the club. It would not be surprising if, while Colonel Ruppert is at French Lick, the committee of the major leagues appointed to pick a new Chairman of the National Commission would get together and talk over probable candidates.

DAYLIGHT BILL IN FAVOR.

National Tennis Body Opposes Repeal of Measure in Congress.

The United States National Lawn Tennis Association has started a nation-wide campaign to prevent the repeal of the daylight saving law, which would be accomplished by the enactment of a rider on the Agricultural Appropriation bill, now before Congress. The extra hour of daylight last season was a great boon for all kinds of sports, and all the athletic interests are strongly opposed to having it repealed. Not only the tennis players, but also the golfers and the baseball people benefited by the turning back of the clock.

The tennis association has sent out letters to tennis clubs all over the country urging them to use their influence to prevent any change.

"The national association has favored daylight saving since it was brought to the attention of Congress in 1917," said George T. Adee, the association's President yesterday. "On Feb. 9 that year the delegates at the annual meeting voted unanimously in favor of the proposal. It became a law in due course and last Summer the tennis players of the United States enjoyed for the first time the benefits accruing from this extra hour of daylight.

"The reports we have received have been in favor of continuing this arrangement, because every one interested in outdoor sports realizes the tremendous opportunity thus afforded for exercise and recreation. The association has consistently fostered activities which tend for the physical betterment of the people of this country, and its promotion of junior and boy tournaments, as well as municipal events for the thousands of users of public courts is based on that fundamental principle.

"No one can estimate in money the benefits that business and professional men receive from the physical and mental improvement resulting from increased opportunities for exercise that daylight saving gave them last Summer. With the youngsters the same beneficial results were achieved, although in somewhat different fashion. For the thousands of office workers and other city dwellers who had a chance thus to enjoy some form of sport or recreation, the repeal of this law would be as real and serious a hardship as for the others just mentioned.

"In view of the association's expressed attitude and the experience of last Summer, which showed that the advance claims for daylight saving were more than proven, the matter has been brought to the attention of the member clubs, with a request that they ask their Congressmen and Senators to oppose the suggested repeal of the daylight saving law. Prompt action is necessary if the tennis players of the country are to continue to enjoy all that was gained last year."

JACKIES ENJOY RING BOUTS.

Wounded Sailors See Amateurs Perform at Hoffman Island.

A crowd of about 1,500 wounded jackies enjoyed a series of amateur boxing bouts last night, conducted by the New York A. C. and Red Cross officials at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Hoffman Island. There were five bouts between prominent amateurs, two of the contests being exhibitions. None of the bouts lacked for action, and Uncle Sam's wounded sea fighters got a lot of enjoyment out of the entertainment.

The program opened with an exhibition between Arthur Hirschberger, Union Settlement A. C., and Abe Stollack, East Side House. Hirschberger later gained the judge's award in three rounds over Phil Kurnin, unattached, in a bout at 118 pounds. Stollack defeated Ed Dillon, Fort Slocum, in three rounds, judges' decision, at 125 pounds. In a bout at 115 pounds, M. Afra, Quick Step A. C., defeated J. Vimstein, Pastime A. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Sam Lagonia of the Bronxdale A. C., metropolitan and New York State 158-pound champion, gave the wounded jackies an exhibition of his skill against Frank Verona, a clubmate.

TO HOLD MAT TOURNEY.

Will Decide Collegiate Titles on March 28 and 29.

Levering Tyson, graduate manager of athletics at Columbia University, announced yesterday that the Intercollegiate Wrestling Association would hold its annual championship tournament at State College, Penn., on March 28 and 29. Originally the association had decided to let the 1919 tournament lapse, but because of the success which has attended the various dual meets that have been held it was the feeling of the authorities at Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell, Lehigh, and Penn State that the championships could be revived with every hope of success.

The plans that have been followed in the holding of tournaments in the past will be used this year. The preliminary rounds of the tournament will be held on Friday, and the semi-finals and finals on Saturday. The drawings will be made in the course of a week or ten days.

Joe Moore Wins on Ice.

Murphy of the Palace Skating Club was second, with a handicap of 70 yards. Al Bach, with an 80-yard handicap, was third. The juvenile match race, between Edward Ward of Berkeley Academy and John Housworth of the Bronx, resulted in a dead heat; time, 1:53 1-5.

The two men met at the same club on Jan. 27 last, Bashan getting the decision in a fifteen-round bout.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—The schedule of play in the annual Middle States covered-court lawn tennis tournament, on the roof of the Wanamaker Building, was sadly disarranged this afternoon, owing to a train being stalled between New York and Philadelphia for an hour or more. On the train was Vincent Richards, national boy champion and holder of the national doubles title with William T. Tilden, 2d, of this city.

Richards was to have met Wallace F. Johnson of Cynwyd this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the semi-final round of the men's singles, but as he did not arrive at the courts until almost 4:30 o'clock, the committee decided to postpone the match until tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Tilden will struggle against Frederick B. Alexander, the former Davis Cup star, in the other semi-final round match, the winners in both brackets meeting on Saturday afternoon in the final round.

Although he failed to take the court against Johnson, Richards went on with Tilden against Paul Gibbons and Charles N. Beard, in the doubles, winning by a score of 6—4, 3—6, 6—1, and reaching into the semi-final round. Neither Tilden, nor Richards should have allowed the opposing pair to win a set, as they showed in the final session, when they swept through to victory almost without a hint of trouble. At this stage the gallery was treated to an exhibition of brilliant lawn tennis, Tilden smashing with spectacular results and young Richards delighting by the skill and snap of his volleying from inside the service court line.

Tilden put in a full day of play on the courts when he found that his partner would be delayed. The national clay court champion started playing all comers in a series of singles matches, winning thirteen sets and losing only one during the afternoon. Wallace Johnson was among those who fell before the tall Philadelphian's prowess, the sets going at 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

Men's Doubles.—First Round—Fenner and Brown won from Osborne and Martin by default; Craig Biddle and Wallace F. Johnson defeated H. W. Hanna and C. M. Harland, 6—3, 6—1; William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards won from H. F. Dornheim and J. Fischer by default; Paul W. Gibbons and Charles N. Beard won from P. and J. M. Vanneman by default.

Second Round—Tilden and Richards defeated Gibbons and Beard, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1; Donald Nicholls and G. B. Pfingst won from Kumagae and Taylor by default.

WAGNER ENTERS POLITICS.

Flying Dutchman to be Candidate for County Commissioner.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—Hans Wagner, the "grand old man" of baseball, and hero of many a diamond battle, is about to enter politics. Through the persuasion of his friends, it is said, he has been induced to become a candidate for Commissioner of Allegheny County.

Wagner has not been indorsed by any political faction, but says he will seek the support of his legion of friends first, after which he believes one of the parties, perhaps all of them, will see him as a candidate to be reckoned with. As he is known by sight or reputation to virtually every man, woman, and child in Pittsburgh, his sponsors feel confident that he will be a factor in the campaign.

Morrison Defeats Waldron.

Roy Johnson defeated Raymond Totter in a close game of snooker by the score of 100 to 90. Johnson's high run was 15, while Totter's was 21. At pocket billiards J. Clancy defeated J. Cohen by a score of 50 to 37. High runs of 11 and 7 were made by winner and loser, respectively.

MILLROSE GAMES TONIGHT.

Star Athletes Will Compete in Big Program.

Athletic stars from various parts of the country will compete this evening in the twelfth annual indoor track meet of the Millrose A. A., to be held in Madison Square Garden. More than 500 individual entries have been received. This great number of competitors will strive for prizes in the program of twenty-seven events. The meet has attracted unusual attention, and indications are that Madison Square Garden will be crowded when the first event is run off. The Millrose officials expect greater success with tonight's games than in previous years.

Because of the lengthy program and the unusually large number of entries the management of the meet adopted a plan which provides for the games commencing at 7:30 o'clock. This, it is expected, will prevent the meet from continuing into the early hours of tomorrow. The program will be inaugurated with the trial heats of the 70-yard handicap sprint, 600-yard novice run, and the one-mile walk.

On the long list of stars entered the names of national and intercollegiate champions appear. Some of theme are: In the hurdle events—Bon Simpson, Earl J. Thomson, Fred Pollard, C. R. Erdman, George A. Trowbridge, and J. J. Eller; the Millrose, 600—Ted Meredith, Tom Campbell, Dave Caldwell, Homer Baker, and Marvin Gustafson; the mile and a half, special—Joie W. Ray, C. J. Stout, Gordon T. Nightingale, and Max Bohland; the 70-yard special dash—W. Ganzmuller, A. B. Kelly, Loren Murchison, W. C. Haymond, Roy F. Morse, Fred Teschner, Bernie Wefers, Jr., and Sherman Landers; the 300-yard run—Tom Halpin, Steve Rose, and J. J. O'Brien; the three-mile run—Charles Pores and W. Kyronen.

The one-mile intercollegiate relay heads a series of six relay events. Dartmouth College, Penn University, M. I. T. of Boston, Columbia, and Fordham teams are entered. The medley relay for the championship of the Metropolitan A. A. U. District, interscholastic relay, interclub relay in memory of Sergeant E. J. Hussey, the Millrose star who fell in battle; an army and navy relay, and the match race between the Millrose A. A. and the Meadowbrook Club of Philadelphia complete the list.

BOYD WINS AT BILLIARDS.

Frank Boyd defeated Charles Worcester last night in the Victory Handicap 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament at the Rational Recreation Academy, in Brooklyn, by the score of 150 to 127 in fifty-six innings. A rally in his closing innings gave Boyd the victory, for when his opponent completed his string of 150 points Worcester was within three points of his necessary figure. Worcester was playing at 130 points.

Worcester made the highest run of the match when he gathered a cluster of 26 points. His average was 2 17-55. Boyd had a high run of 21, with an average of 2 38-56. The tournament will be continued this evening.

O'DOWD DEFIES CARPENTIER

Issues Challenge to French Champion from Ring.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Mike O'Dowd, the world's middleweight champion, issued a formal challenge to Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion, from the ring of the Cirque Paris last night, saying he was willing to fight the Frenchman at any time, anywhere, for any purse, and for any number of rounds.

O'Dowd appeared somewhat heavier than the middleweight scale when he boxed Al Norton three rounds at the Y. M. C. A. bouts.

FORDHAM NINES PLAY GAME.

Frisch, All-Around Athlete, Takes Place at Shortstop.

Fordham's baseball squad played its first practice game of the season yesterday afternoon. The contest was a four-inning tilt between the first and second nine, and was won by the former, 6—2. Coach Devlin allowed all of the pitchers a turn on the mound, with the exception of Captain Finn, who played first base for the second team.

Frank Frisch, Fordham's famous football player and all-around athlete, reported yesterday, and was sent in to cover short on the regular nine. He made two hits, stole several bases, and fielded in faultless style.

Shanley Captain of Track Team.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Athletic Association of the College of the City of New York yesterday, Edward Shanley, 1919, was elected track manager for the coming season.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

All things considered, a fair business was done in the local gray goods market yesterday. Printcloths came in for a fair amount of attention, in spite of the higher prices at which most constructions are now held. Most of the business done was for immediate delivery, though here and there there were inquiries for goods for shipment in March and April. For the most part, however, the mills did not appear willing to trade ahead at present prices. Sales of 39-inch 72-76s were made for prompt delivery at 13½ cents, and the same was true of 39-inch 68-72s at 10¾ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 9 cents, and 38½-inch 64-56s at 8½ cents. Sheetings and drills continued inactive, but there was further business done in sateens and three-leaf twills for the clothing trade.

Plaid Dress Goods Wanted.

Fancy plaids are far and away the leaders in the current demand for dress goods in local jobbing circles. All widths and qualities are wanted, and the patterns cannot come too "strong" to suit buyers. Both retailers and cutters are after the goods in question, which are none too plentiful in supply from all accounts, and the smaller wholesalers are also said to be trying to buy them from competitors that are better fixed in the matter of stocks. The primary end of the trade is marking time for the present, and it was said yesterday that there would probably be no further openings of the so-called corporation dress goods for Fall before the first of March.

Merchandise Show Opens Well.

More than 300 buyers from all parts of the country attended the opening of the Spring exhibition of the Popular Price Merchandise Association, Inc., in the Hotel Commodore here yesterday. Ninety-three manufacturers and wholesalers have displays on view, the merchandise ranging all the way from souvenir postals to Oriental rugs, and including oil paintings, automobile tires, rubber surgical goods, &c. Ribbons, books, toys, millinery, and dozens of other kinds of goods are also on display, among them being brooms, rag rugs, and other articles made by blind workers in Pennsylvania and this State. A considerable volume of business was done at the exhibition yesterday, and executives of the show say that it will be the most successful that has yet been held. It will continue throughout the week.

Women's Neckwear Selling.

Firms in the women's neckwear trade are agreed that business this season has more than met their expectations. Short back collars made of satin and other lightweight materials are big sellers this season. Other articles meeting with much success are guimpes with armholes. These are being shown in net organdies and georgette crepe. They are made to retail from $2 up.

BUSINESS WORLD

Reductions on Cheaper Lines.

The general attitude on the part of the retailers in regard to prices has been the cause of a reduction on certain lightweight wash fabrics. It was said yesterday that in some instances the prices of the cheaper grades of georgette crêpe and wash satin have been reduced. The prices of these fabrics have been gradually declining until the reduction from the top price is said to be 20 per cent. On the better grade of merchandise the prices are very firm, and there is little prospect of lower prices for some time.

Brisk Demand for Veilings.

The demand for novelty veilings that retail from 75 cents to $1.50 is still very big, especially in closely dotted effects and scroll patterns. These are shown in black, navy, brown, and taupe. As to color, the tendency appears to be toward the navy shade. The out-of-town trade is slowing up to some extent, although some very substantial duplicate orders are being received. The volume of business this season is so large in this line that some of the firms are having much difficulty in filling the orders already on hand.

Business in Men's Scarfs.

Firms in the men's neckwear trade report an unusually good business on the higher-priced lines of knitted scarfs. In the cheaper grades, however, the calls are not so numerous. Both in the city and on the road the plain and figured silk scarfs are being sold very extensively. According to salesmen, some of the retailers are under the impression that the prices on these goods will be lower. With this idea in mind, they are still holding off and are only buying for their immediate needs. Scarfs that retail around $1.15 are among the popular sellers this season.

Opening of Men's Serges.

It was stated at the office of the American Woolen Company yesterday morning that on Thursday the new prices on men's serges would be announced. On the same date a full line of women's cloakings will also be opened in Department 4. No information was given as to what the prices will be, but it appears to be the general impression in the trade that the reductions will be in comparison with revisions made at the previous openings.

Retailers Are Paying Up.

While February is not a "big-paying" month in the jobbing trade, an executive of one of the leading local wholesalers said yesterday that the retailers were paying their bills promptly, in spite of the lull in consumer buying that is reported from various parts of the country. "There is only one fault to be found with trade conditions at the present time," he said, "and that is that sales are not as active as they were, which makes the firm's income smaller. Otherwise we have no cause for complaint. Retailers in all sections are meeting their obligations promptly, and important failures are few and far between. One reason for this is that most retailers are now operating on such a conservative basis that it is rather a hard thing to fail."

What Paris Is Doing.

A leading New York buyer just returned from Paris is in part quoted this way in the current bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America: "Hats show a tendency to be larger. Directoire and Louis XV. (shapes) are greatly favored. Trimmings are coming more in favor every day, particularly ostrich flowers and glycerine ostrich. Ribbons seem to be favored—double-faced satins and some failles—most of these in very broad widths. Of colors it is difficult to give a precise announcement, as they are using so many, from the lightest to the darkest. However, it is interesting to note that henna, which seems to be on the wane in New York, is still very strong in Paris."

State Railways' Earnings Decline.

The report of the New York State Railways for last year shows earnings from operations to have been $8,474,164, as compared with $8,460,001 in 1917. The net earnings were $1,800,450, as compared with $2,701,002 in the preceding year, heavier expenses cutting down profits. After the payment of dividends and interest charges, the year showed a deficit of $143,550, as compared with a surplus of $270,144 in 1917.

Security Issues Close.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Secretary Glass tonight announced that the issue of 4½ per cent. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of Series T-2, dated Jan. 16, 1919, and maturing June 17, 1919, would close at the close of business Feb. 24, 1919, about $370,000,000 of these certificates having been subscribed for to date.

And yet how few realize that the hydro-electric company, by the use of water instead of steam, employs a generating force which supplies its own productive power, which is replenished by nature.

There is but the slightest dependence upon material and its cost, and the labor factor is, to a large degree, eliminated because of the few men required in the operation.

Stocks Continue Active and Turn Irregular as Money Rates Stiffen.

The cost of call money became a matter of consideration in the stock market yesterday for the first time in many months, and it looked as though the sudden upturn to 7 per cent. toward the end of the business day played a part in the irregular course of stock quotations in final prices. During most of the session, however, trading continued under the same impulse toward higher levels which marked last week's dealings, and a number of favorite speculative shares moved sharply forward to a new high ground for the current movement. At the opening bidding for the rubber and tobacco stocks was insistent enough to cause advances of 3 points or more in the first few minutes, an upward surge which later brought its own correction through extensive offerings. It was noted that the market was by no means as one-sided as it had been, and evidences of professional short selling were detected as business progressed. As far as industrial and financial developments were concerned there was nothing in the day's news to change sentiment from what it was when last week closed. Followers of the upward course of prices realized, however, that the advance had gone far enough and extended over a period of time sufficiently long to attract pressure from the seekers of profit on the short side as well as to induce profit taking.

The stiffening tendency of the money market was more a matter of undertone rather than an actual reflection in rates until the unexpected rise to 7 per cent. occurred, after the bulk of the day's borrowing had been completed at 5½ per cent. It was the first time since June, 1917, when the Money Committee began its activities, that call money had risen above 6 per cent. The advance was considered for one thing to supply proof of the entire freedom of the loan market, and there was contained in the gain a suggestion that quotations might be rather high for some time to come. Bankers remarked that from now on corporations, and individuals as well, would be making preparations for the Federal income and excess profits tax payments, and at the same time the railroads are expected to enter the market for funds. Part of the railway borrowing under contemplation is for the purpose, in case of some lines, of providing for running expenses in the interval before the Railroad Administration is able to make good the rentals in arrears. The $750,000,000 addition to the revolving fund which is awaited will help to balance the railroad books, and upon the receipt of arrearages bank loans should be reduced. Whether or not the supply of money for stock market purposes proves adequate, the intimation was given in banking quarters yesterday that a recurrence of restrictions on market loans was not looked for. The opinion is that the swing of interest rates will be allowed to control the demand for funds, and this being the case it would be reasonable to expect closer relations between stock quotations and money costs in case the stock market continues active. Yesterday's dealings were above the 800,000 share level, with no perceptible slackening of trading as the end of the day approached.

The steel trade heard reports of a softening price tendency in the case of particular products, and the impression grew that within the next few weeks some definite declines would occur. Information coming from various centres of the industry indicates that the proposal of Secretary of Commerce Redfield that prices be stabilized at a lower level has not received any pronounced support. Leaders in the trade evidently would prefer to see the law of supply and demand allowed to work out the situation.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Liberty 4s Move Up.

The inclusion in the proposed law covering the Victory Liberty Loan of a provision permitting the conversion of 4 per cent. Liberty bonds into issues bearing a higher interest rate brought a quick reflection in quotations yesterday. The first 4s gained .70, nearly three-quarters of a point, while the second 4s rose .56. The 3½s turned about from their recent course and gained .22. The third 4¼s declined .28, and the others were unchanged. The course of the market seemed to reflect a stronger impression than before that the forthcoming notes would not compete heavily with the outstanding issues.

Baldwin Locomotive stock recommended itself to traders as one which had felt comparatively little of the bullish stimulus of recent days. The result was that fairly active buying carried the quotation from 75⅝ to 80⅝, with a closing price of 79⅝ and a net gain of 3½. Bidding was especially active the last half hour. The turnover of around 50,000 shares was sufficient indication that speculators had found a medium for their operations which brought satisfactory results.

Mercantile Marine Preferred Unsteady.

It has been difficult to keep bullish interests in Mercantile Marine preferred at a high pitch through the current rise of the general list. Last week the stock gained only ⅝, and yesterday it fell back 2⅝. The potency of the proposed deal for the British ships has lost a good deal of its force through the long delay over negotiations, and at the same time falling ocean freight rates have not been conducive to accumulation of the shares. Just the same, the quotation in the neighborhood of par seems to indicate that many holders still expect the sale to be made on favorable terms.

"Advanced Information."

That melodramatic favorite "advanced information," which is popularly supposed to do so many things in Wall Street, played an important part in yesterday's dealings in Spanish pesetas. At the close of last week the peseta rate in London started to rise, and, of course, it followed naturally that our market should also rise. But our market, because of the delay in cable service between New York and London, did not rise until today. On Friday one banker here got word of the movement in London and promptly bought all the pesetas he could find here. Today, when others bought, he sold.

Money rates in the West and South are rising steadily, and naturally, according to local bankers who are in close touch with conditions outside of New York. The reason, at least one reason, is the apparent determination of farmers and planters to hold their produce until prices go back where they were a while ago. In the South planters are said to be holding their cotton for the 30 and 35 cent levels, and in the West farmers are reported to be keeping food animals away from the market in the confident belief that if they wait long enough the high prices of last Fall will again be seen. Holding on like this requires bank accommodation which, under ordinary circumstances, would be released for other purposes.

Word received here yesterday indicated that the Mexican problem would be considered by the Peace Conference. Whether this has been due to the efforts of the American delegation, representing the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico, is not known, but it is reasonable to suppose that the voices of these men were somewhat instrumental. It appears now that France and England are insistent that the problem is one for solution by the United States, and they are urging that action be taken to this end. The fact that the Mexican situation was under consideration at Paris and that an international committee of bankers had been selected to protect holders of American securities were factors in giving strength to Mexican issues in yesterday's trading on the Stock Exchange. Mexican Petroleum was at one time nearly 5 points above its close of last Friday.

In the Steel Industry.

Conflicting reports of operations by the steel mills of the country continue to come from various quarters. The general impression prevails that business is picking up, but it apparently is not an increase that is evenly distributed. Some plants are known to be producing at very close to capacity, while others have not resumed anything like the high schedule of operations which was in force until the signing of the armistice. Just at present the situation is one that can be judged only on local indications. The fact that comparatively high production is being maintained in some plants, however, nullifies somewhat the repeated assertions that demand is entirely quiescent. It is known that some mills are not merely restocking depleted supplies, in anticipation of a later demand, but are actually booking and filling substantial new orders.

The Readjustment Process.

Before long it may well be expected that definite announcements will be made by a number of companies as to the new undertakings which will be entered upon as a result of the turning of industry from a war to a peace basis. The lines which many were engaged in during pre-war conditions are now inadequate to keeping busy the increased manufacturing facilities built to take care of war business. New avenues of endeavor had to be worked out. These problems have been under consideration for a considerable time, and with the certainty that readjustments are proceeding something positive as to the nature of the new plans is being eagerly awaited.

Oil for Fuel.

Oil men displayed considerable interest yesterday in the dispatches received from Washington to the effect that the Government will soon open bids on approximately 400,000 barrels of fuel oil to be used in place of coal by merchant marine tonnage now building under Government contract. It is generally believed that this business is just the opening wedge to a continuous Government demand for oil.

An Offset to the High Cost of Living is the increased revenue investors are now able to get from the money they place in reliable bonds, notes and preferred stocks. In much the same proportion as the value of the dollar has depreciated, the net return from securities has appreciated during the past few years.

Suggestions for investors will be furnished those who send for our Letter A-24.

What Can A Dollar Do?

SINCE the war a dollar has been worth less than in normal times. That is why you can obtain greater returns on your investments without selecting securities which are at all doubtful.

With the readjustment of business conditions to a normal basis, investments at present prices will show great enhancement of value and much greater returns than can be obtained when this readjustment is completed.

May we help you to make a selection? Send for our list.

PRICE-FIXING HIT LEATHER PROFITS

EARNINGS SHOW DECLINE

Government Control Not Criticised, but Effect of Regulation Is Explained.

A big drop in earnings is shown in the annual report of the Central Leather Company for the year ended December 31, 1918. The total earnings fell off from $21,066,061 in 1917 to $12,922,437 for last year. The decline in total income was more than 50 per cent., the 1917 figures being $16,243,062, whereas in 1918 $8,314,641 is reported.

The surplus after all charges and Federal taxes was $6,476,434 for 1918 as compared with $14,404,835 in the preceding year. The income of last year after the deduction of preferred dividends was equal to $10.44 a share on the $39,701,030 common stock. In the preceding year the earnings on the common were the equivalent of $30.14 a share.

After the deduction of preferred dividends of $2,330,930, and common dividends of $2,779,063, there remained a surplus for the year 1918 of $1,366,441, a decrease of more than $7,000,000 from the surplus of $8,500,844 reported in 1917. The consolidated balance sheet shows an inventory of $63,360,711, a figure practically unchanged from the preceding year. Cash in the 1918 report is placed at $3,605,170, whereas in 1917 the amount on hand was $4,380,850. Tax reservations show a decrease proportionate to the decline in earnings, the 1917 total being $6,000,000 as compared with $3,200,000 for last year.

In his remarks to stockholders in the report, President Edward C. Hoyt says in part:

During the last year the company has been practically working under Government control and has faithfully and loyally endeavored to meet all the requirements and conditions requested to the limit of its ability. Without implying criticism of any of the departments of the Government we venture to point out that we, as well as all other leather manufacturers, have suffered as a result of the regulations of the Price Fixing Committee. At the end of April prices of hides of the character required for Government use were fixed for the three months' period from May 1 to July 31 at an increase over prices prevailing in April of from 13 to 35 per cent. In order to supply the quantity of leather requested by the Government we were obliged to contract for available quantities of the hides needed at the prices so fixed for such three months' period.

At the expiration of the three months' period, and before the hides bought had been received and put into process, the committee reduced the price of hides of equivalent value in quality for the period from August 1 to October 31 from 4 to 10 per cent. and fixed an arbitrary maximum price on leather on the basis of August, September, and October prices for hides. This left us with three months' purchases of hides at higher prices, producing a shrinkage in market value on our purchases of May, June, and July of upwards of $396,000. It has always been the custom of the company to inventory all raw materials at cost, but the committee of the board in charge of preparing the annual report thought, in view of this unusual loss, due not to market conditions but to the action of the Price Fixing Committee, that it was proper in this particular instance to charge this loss off through the hide account against profit and loss, applying in partial offset thereto the $500,000 which has since 1912 been carried as a protection against inventories.

SHARP REACTION IN COTTON.

Bad Trade News Forces Prices Down to New Low Levels.

A weakened technical position, bad trade news, especially that from the Fall River section, and poor week-end statistics conspired yesterday to upset cotton values and brought about a decline which at one time ran as large as 85 points in old crop and about 65 to 70 points in new crop months. After touching the low levels the market rallied a little, and by the close prices were only off 40 to 55 points for the active options.

Trade advices, which indicate that buying of cotton goods is very slow at the present time, were eagerly accepted by the bears in the early trading, and these poor reports, combind with the unfavorable week-end figures, set the stage for the sharp reaction which came shortly after the market got going. March cotton, which had closed on Friday at 23.10c and opened yesterday at about that figure, soon broke to 22.25c, the worst break of the day, but May, which sold down to 21.36c shortly after the opening, was off nearly as much, and July and October were both heavy losers.

The great mass of selling here came from local ring and trade operators. The commission houses sent in some rather large selling orders after the break got under way, but their business was secondary in importance yesterday. One of the largest operators now doing business was a heavy seller early in the day, but it was gossipped around the ring that he had taken back part of his line before the close.

After the low records for the day were made the market rallied a little and in the afternoon business was on a decidedly smaller scale than it had been in the morning. The recovery ranged 10 to 36 points and closed the day at net losses of 72 points in March, 50 in July and 43 in October.

CALL MONEY RATES SOAR TO HIGH MARK

REGARDED AS A WARNING

Money Committee, Recently Disbanded, However, Not Expected to be Reconvened.

Call money rates on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday went to the highest figures seen in more than two years, when loans on good mixed collateral touched 7 per cent., and those negotiated on all industrial collateral loaned at 7½ per cent. These figures compare with the wartime maximum of 6 per cent and 6½ per cent., rates which were established when the Money Committee came into being, shortly after the flotation of the First Liberty Loan, in May, 1917.

In stock market circles it was generally believed that the advance in the demand loan rate was a warning that the stock market must go slowly. For some days past the market has been strong and active and the volume of business has been steadily broadening. Yesterday afternoon—the rise in rates occurred just before the close—it was recalled that when the Money Committee disbanded a month or so ago, it was implied that it might again be assembled and renew its supervision of money matters if the market should get out of hand. It was explained at that time that the need for supervision and control might again arise.

However, inquiry among bankers, some of whom served on the Money Committee, elicited the informal statement that no reassembling of the committee is contemplated at this time. One member of the committee stated emphatically that there was no reason for the organization exerting its influence now, and added that he did not believe there would be any need for it in the future. He said that while there were heavy demands being made on the money market now, and although heavier demands would come in the near future, there was nothing alarming in the action of the stock market, and if rates there advanced, it would be simply in response to the law of supply and demand.

Another banker expressed the belief that the 7 per cent. rate was "a mistake." He said there was a disposition in some quarters to make the stock market pay more for its accommodation because other institutions needing money were paying more, but he thought 6 per cent. would be enough to exact at this time. In the flurry which followed the rise in the rate yesterday from 5½ per cent., the 7 per cent. figure was made. It was said on the Stock Exchange that only a very small amount of money had been placed at the high figure.

NEVADA REPORT FOR 1918.

Four Quarterly Statements Show a Deficit of $3,038,356.

On the basis of the figures given in the four quarterly reports of last year, the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company had a deficit for 1918 of $3,038,356. This compares with a surplus of $1,363,453 in the preceding year and of $7,504,089 in 1916. The total earnings for 1918 after depreciation and taxes were $3,459,879, whereas the dividends for the same period were $6,498,235.

The report for the December quarter of last year which has just been issued shows that the company earned after depreciation only $10,189, and that the dividends paid out amounted to $1,499,592, leaving a deficit of $1,489,403 for the quarter or nearly one-half of the yearly deficit. The earnings for the final quarter of the year were equivalent to only half a cent a share on the $9,997,285 capital stock. In the preceding quarter the earnings were equivalent to 44 cents a share and in the December quarter of 1917 they were 78 cents a share.

The cost of copper production during the last quarter was 19.01 cents a pound as compared with 20.70 cents a pound in the preceding quarter. The earnings for the quarter are based on an average price of 17.23 cents. The cost of production does not include allowances for gold and silver derived from the ore.

The Railroad Contracts.

Railroad men and bankers who are interested in the properties which so far have not executed compensation contracts with the Government are inclined to criticise the long delay. They say that under the present system there is a great deal of lost motion in the resubmission of the contracts to the different Regional Directors for approval after they have been sent to the Director General's office. And it is also said in some quarters that the objections which many of the Regional Directors have made to a large number of the contracts are not so much to specifications of the different roads but to the form of the contracts themselves. Some of the operators, however, are hoping that Director General Hines will carry through his predecessor's plan to dispose of the instruments expeditiously.

FREE WHEAT MARKET NOW IS ADVOCATED

UPHOLDS GUARANTEED PRICE

Would Mean Handling of Crop by Grain Trade Through Pre-War Channels.

The New York Produce Exchange has forwarded to United States Senators James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and William M. Calder and also to Senator T. P. Gore, Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, a plan for presentation to the United States Senate, which advocates establishment of a free market for wheat, while at the same time upholding the Government guaranteed price for the farmers. In its essential it provides for the cancellation of control over wheat by the Government and the handling of the crop by the grain trade through teh usual pre-war channels. A Government agency is advocated to provide the necessary capital to make the Congressional price for grain effective to the farmer.

As summed up by the Produce Exchange, the objects are four in number; first, to make good the Government guarantee to the producer; second, to obtain the withdrawal of Government control over the grain business; third, to assure to American consumers their basic food necessities at fair prices, determined by the free operation of the law of supply and demand, and, fourth, to fix and determine equitably the liabilities of the Government under its guarantee.

The plan, as relates directly to the producer, provides that in order to avail himself of the Government guarantee he must file with his County Clerk, or with a designated agency, a nontransferable certificate as to the acreage of his harvest, the thrashing return per acre, and the number of bushels upon which he intends to claim the benefit of the Government guarantee. The grower would then be permitted to market his wheat in his own way. In order to collect the difference between his selling price and the Government guarantee the grower would need to have indorsed from time to time on his certificate the quantities of his actual deliveries on sales to elevators, the official weight notes or receipts being taken up in exchange for such indorsement to the extent of 90 per cent. of the quantity named in the certificate, the remaining 10 per cent. being considered as necessary for retention by the farmer as seed.

These certificates, properly indorsed, would be a voucher for collecting from the Government in Federal Reserve or authorized banks.

On the Government's side it is provided that certain markets be named, and that a committee containing one Government representative shall determine and publish each business day an average market price for the basic grade, the difference between such daily price and the Government's guarantee figure for that market being the settlement difference for any wheat tributary to that market which is certified for settlement by the grower for that date.

Any grower of wheat harvested in 1919 within territory tributary to such market may elect to settle with the Government as to market difference on any business day, not before the day of such application for settlement and not later than May 31, 1920, in the manner prescribed. The difference so determined computed on the quantities actually delivered on sales, as prescribed, shall constitute the amount due such grower, which amount shall be paid promptly by the Government in such manner as the Government may deem necessary.

In commenting on the plan the Produce Exchange says:

"What is arrived at by this solution is that the Government does not buy or own any wheat and the wheat market becomes again an open world's supply and demand proposition. The law's guarantee is made good to the grower without the necessity on the part of the Government of entering into the quality and grade of his crop, for the premium or discount and actual price of his wheat is a matter of bargain between the grower and his buyer just as it has been in former years. The Government settlement, however, at average of daily prices is the same so far as the Government is concerned in dollars and cents as it would be if it had settled direct with each individual grower. Moreover, the grower is left absolute liberty of action as to when, where, and to whom he shall sell his wheat, because the date which he has chosen for settlement of his difference with the Government affects not at all the altogether different matter of selling the actual wheat itself."

ALUMINUM CO. BONDS.

Offer of $12,000,000 of 6 Per Cents Goes to the Public Today.

The Aluminum Company of America has sold $12,000,000 serial 6 per cent. gold notes to the Guaranty Trust Company of New York and the Union Trust Company and the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh. The notes, to be offered publicly today, will be dated March 1 and will mature in blocks of $4,000,000 each on March 1, 1921, to 1923, inclusive. Announcement was made yesterday that the Aluminum Company's net earnings in each of the last four years, after providing for taxes and depreciation, had been more than $8,000,000.

The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway Company has sold to Hornblower & Weeks and William Salomon & Co. $6,070,000 consolidated mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, due June 1, 1930. The proceeds will be used to retire an equal amount of St. Paul & Sioux City first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds which fall due April 1. The banking firms will offer the bonds shortly.

MITCHELL FINDS OPTIMISM.

On his return yesterday from a trip through the South and West, Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, said that bankers and business men with whom he had talked were inclined to be optimistic as to the future.

"Business has quieted down generally," Mr. Mitchell said, "but there is a feeling of conservative optimism as to the future and business men and bankers are not disturbed by the conditions of the moment. There is no particularly disturbing situation as to labor, and as we get into the Spring time and the out of doors takes up the slack, I look to see the labor problem become of lesser importance.

"The railroad problem is bothering everybody and there doesn't seem to be any solution that is generally accepted. Nowhere does the view prevail that there should be Government ownership. Private operation under equitable Government regulation is most desired.

"I find, as I expected, at so far a date from the Victory loan, pessimism as to its success. There hasn't been a single loan floated that, about this time away, you wouldn't receive the most pessimistic views. Probing beneath the surface I find the belief that there may be a necessity for a larger taking by the banks. I find, however, that there will be a large taking up by the people. Every city has its jaw set to make a success of this loan."

SECOND to Madrid, Barcelona is the largest city of Spain, and its most important maritime, commercial and industrial centre. It is noted for its religious and educational activities. In 1910 the population of Barcelona was 587,000. The city is surrounded by many manufacturing suburbs and its commercial importance dates from the middle ages. Barcelona's aggregate foreign commerce in 1913 was $4,497,000, consisting of $2,641,000 imports and $1,856,000 exports, and its total commerce amounted to about $109,267,000 a year, of which $79,428,000 were imports. Exports consist principally of wine, fruits and manufactures, and imports of grain, cotton, metals and foods. During the year 1916 Barcelona grew in prominence as a seaport and a railroad centre because of its importance as the largest neutral port on the Mediterranean.

LIGGETT & MYERS REPORT.

Increase of nearly $1,000,000 in net earnings is shown in the annual report of the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company for the year ended December 31, 1919, as compared with the preceding twelve months. Net profits for last year were $10,050,221, and after deductions of interest charges there was left a balance of $8,154,007, which was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $30.60 a share on the $21,496,000 common stock. This compares with $7,363,720 or $28.66 a share on the common in 1917. The surplus for last year after dividends of $1,575,980 on the preferred and $3,439,424 on the common, was $3,138,603. This added to the previous surplus brought the total profit and loss surplus up to $18,839,393.

An Explanation.

Reports received last week that the Railroad Administration had ordered all roads to ship foreign equipment back to home lines, which caused some apprehension of precipitate executive action on the question of a return of the roads to private control, were explained in railroad circles yesterday. Conservative operators said that this was the right time for the equipment, which has seen the hardest kind of service in the last year and a half, to be returned to home roads for repairs. The necessity for such a return is shown in the fact that there are more than 140 different box-car door sills in use on the railroads of the country. This makes it obvious that the different cars should be returned to home shops where supplies are on hand, and should not be sent to general shops where proper repairs could not be made without each shop carrying an enormous quantity of different parts. It was also pointed out that traffic is falling off, that there is no imperative need for cars, and that under such conditions this is the logical time for the repairs to be made.

United Railways of St. Louis.

The United Railways Company of St. Louis, in its annual report for 1918, shows a balance after operating expenses and depreciation of $2,876,351, as compared with $3,924,665 in 1917. After taxes the gross income of last year was $2,140,572. Deductions of $2,540,871 brought a deficit for the year of $400,299.

Sailing Vessels Active.

It is reported in shipping circles that there is a good demand for sailing ships in the Atlantic coastwise trade and that better rates are being paid and apparently will continue to be paid for this class of tonnage. The rates in some instances are said to be higher than ever before. Recent rates on lumber to Gulf ports have been quoted at $25, while there have been instances of as high a payment as $30.

Butte and Superior Profits.

The Butte and Superior Mining Company in its report for the quarter ended Dec. 31 shows profits, after operating expenses and taxes, of $96,506, equivalent to 33 cents a share on the outstanding capital stock. This compares with a profit of $145,477 in the preceding quarter, or the equivalent of 50 cents a share. Taking the four quarterly statements as a basis of computation the net earnings for last year, after operating costs and taxes, were $698,322, as compared with $2,723,594 in 1917.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Values were irregular in movement in an active market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Rallies and profit-taking reactions prevailed throughout the session to the final hour, when the market movement was mixed and trading professional in character. Closing prices found some active issues with losses, while others had substantial advances.

Federal Taxes 1918

Present indications are that the official blanks for corporations will be ready for distribution about March 10th, 1919. This will allow less than a week's time for the preparation of the detailed data required for the complete return.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue announced on February 20th that corporations and, in urgent cases, individuals who are unable to complete their returns and file them by March 15th will be permitted to file with the Collector of Internal Revenue not later than March 15th an estimate of the tax due for the year, with a remittance of one-fourth of such estimated amount and that the Collector will be authorized to accept from the taxpayers at any time within 45 days after March 15th (which would extend the time limit to April 29th) the complete tax return. However, in connection with this ruling the Commissioner further advises that should the payment on March 15th of one-fourth of the estimated tax under this plan be greater than the amount eventually found to have been due upon examination of the complete return, the excess payment will automatically be credited against the second installment, which will be due June 15th, but if the installment paid at the filing of the return, based upon the estimated tax, was less than one-quarter of the amount of the tax due the government as shown by the complete return, the taxpayer will be required to pay the additional amount and also interest thereon from March 15th at the rate of 6% per annum.

We believe that the plan outlined above as proposed by the Commissioner will tend to create much confusion and that the time allowed under this plan for the filing of estimated returns is entirely too short and that the entire trouble comes about through the endeavor of the Treasury officials to collect the first installment of the taxes on March 15th, and that, therefore, the time for making the payment of the first installment should be extended.

In this connection we direct attention to Joint Resolution No. 219, introduced by Senator New of Indiana, asking that a general extension of thirty days be authorized; also bill introduced by Representative Snyder, requiring that the returns shall be made on or before April 15th. If any immediate action is to be taken regarding the passage of legislation regarding these matters it would appear to be advisable that taxpayers voice their sentiments immediately by addressing communications or telegrams to

Hon. F. M. Simmons,
Chairman Senate Finance Committee, and
Hon. Claude Kitchin,
Chairman Ways and Means Committee,
Washington, D. C.

The fact that the Commissioner has not yet had time to make any rulings covering certain complex features of the new Revenue Bill complicates the situation further, and it is our opinion that there is every reason why not only the date of filing returns but the date of the first installment payment should be extended at least thirty days.

An opportunity for men to associate with a firm of underwriters, first in the capacity of salesmen, later as managers to those who make good.
To men who mean business and are seeking a permanent association, where the commissions will positively average $100 to $300 weekly, we suggest immediate action. We are not seeking men who know this business, as we teach every salesman a direct way of accomplishing quick results.
This firm is opening new branches and engaged in very important work. This is a genuine opportunity and should appeal to real live and aggressive men. For appointment call, after 9:30 A. M., Cortlandt 5826.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE

Emerson Phonograph Company, Inc.

Now that the war is over and the phonograph industry is rapidly getting back to a peace basis, and in view of the fact that our stockholders' meeting has been advanced from April 1st to the first Monday in June, we believe it desirable to inform stockholders of the satisfactory progress being made by their Company.

The Emerson Phonograph Company was organized in April, 1915, and has from the very beginning, been conducted under abnormal conditions, more especially so during the period following the entrance of America into the World War. The restrictions on material, labor, transportation and credit, which were imposed on our industry by the Government, emphasized these difficulties, and it is with great satisfaction that we now report a material change for the better.

Our new large size record is meeting with splendid success, and we have not yet been able to supply the demand. Many large orders from jobbers and others are waiting to be booked as soon as our output has been increased as to insure them a continuous supply. Our business is being rapidly placed on a jobbing basis, resulting in larger sales, more prompt shipments and satisfactory service. The Company has closed arrangements with the Emerson International, Inc., under which our large size records will be marketed for foreign countries and also records in foreign languages which are intended for the foreign population of this country.

We are making substantial profits. We are meeting our obligations promptly, and by utilizing our profits have greatly reduced the indebtedness incurred during the war. Our bank loans have all been paid off, our principal obligations now consisting of notes held by our Treasurer, Richard D. Wyckoff, who, up to the time of his resignation as General Manager, not only gave his services most of the time without salary, at great sacrifice to his personal interests, but who advanced over $100,000 in cash against the Company's unsecured notes. Mr. Wyckoff afterward subordinated his claims to those of other creditors, in order that the Company might be carried through the most difficult period of the war. These obligations have been reduced to about $85,000, and he has agreed to extend his notes so that they will become due serially. This will place the Company in a stronger financial position.

Mr. Victor H. Emerson has, for several months past, been devoting his inventive genius to the perfection of processes which will be used in the manufacture of new products. Some of these are already being manufactured, such as Talking Books and Talking Dolls. Of the latter many thousands have been sold and quantity production begun. In order to finance this development work, a separate corporation had to be formed, and the result indicates that very satisfactory royalties will be paid to the Emerson Phonograph Company.

Reports have been circulated to the effect that the controlling shares of this Company have passed into other hands and sold in the market. We wish to deny these rumors and to say that the control of the Company has not changed, the majority, 100,200 shares, having been placed in the hands of a Voting Trustee at the time the Company was organized.

All of this stock is still held by the Voting Trustee.

On December 9th, 1918, Julius M. Mayer, one of the most eminent Judges of the Federal Courts, handed down a sweeping decision in our favor in the infringement suit of the American Graphophone Company. This means that our patent situation is sound and what is more significant, emphasizes the important position of this Company in a field in which for years a monopoly has existed.

There is every reason for the stockholders to be encouraged, both as to the immediate and the more distant future. The Company is now recognized as the third largest producer of phonograph records in this country. Its product is well established, and its competition with the two leading companies is recognized.

Respectfully submitted,

Vice-President and General Manager

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The realty market opened unusually strong yesterday with several investment deals in Manhattan and a continuation of speculative buying by operators in the Bronx, where a number of large apartment house properties held at close to $1,000,000 changed ownership.

Daniel H. Jackson, operator, figured in four deals, the largest of which involved the sale of the two five story apartment houses covering the south side of 153d Street, and including the corners of Kelly street and Intervale avenue, to the Nehbo Realty Company, H. Cohen President. They are known as 935 Kelly street and 938 Intervale avenue, and occupy a plot 150 by 131. There are ten stores and accommodations for seventy-two families in the buildings. Mr. Jackson, who took title to the property about six weeks ago, valued it at $250,000.

In the same neighborhood Mr. Jackson purchased from Patrick J. Reville, 941 Intervale avenue, a five story flat on a plot 125 by 100, and immediately resold it to Charles F. Levey, through Phelps & Damiane. It was valued at about $175,000. The fourth transaction involved 2,147 and 2,149 Southern Boulevard, a five story apartment on a plot 47 by 126, valued at about $55,000, which Mr. Jackson purchased from Frederick Kuhne.

Another Block Front Deal.

Held at $250,000, the two five story apartment houses occupying the block front in the west side of Intervale avenue between Fox and Beck streets were sold by the Kano Realty Company, Morris Kashowitz, President, to an investor. The structures front 230 feet on Intervale avenue, 100 feet on Fox street and 58 on Beck street. They contain fourteen stores and fifty suites, and were purchased by the sellers from the Denbar Realty about a year ago.

Operator Buys in East Bronx.

Isaac Lowenfeld, operator, purchased from Dora Jaffe, 948 Tiffany Street, a five-story new law apartment in a plot 40 by 100. The property adjoins the corner of 163d street, and was held at $60,000.

Behrer & Co. Buy Building for Occupancy.

Another instance of firms buying instead of leasing property for their own business in the lower part of the city was recorded yesterday when Behrer & Company purchased 77 and 79 Beekman Street from the Hayden Estate.

The property, which consists of a five-story building in a plot 51 by 135, was valued at $150,000, according to the Charles F. Noyes Company, brokers in the transaction. Extensive improvements will be made and the store and two basements, containing over 20,000 square feet of space, will be occupied exclusively by Mr. Behrer's business, which for many years has been located at 81 Beekman Street, adjoining.

Operator in Two Deals.

Joseph Shenk, President of the College Holding Company, figured in two purchases in upper Manhattan which involved a total of over $300,000. From the Manhattan Life Insurance Company he bought the six-story elevator apartment house, on plot 100 by 120, at 2,041 Fifth Avenue, northeast corner of 126th Street. The property, which is held at $250,000, and returns an annual rent of about $30,000, was sold through Jacob Kaplan, subject to a mortgage for $185,000 at 4½ per cent.

From the Benenson Realty Company Mr. Shenk bought the five-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 125, at 59 and 61 Nagle Avenue, near Broadway, in the Dyckman section. The house, which was sold for cash, was held at $65,000 and rents for $11,000.

Wellwood Company Sells Holding.

The J. C. Wellwood Realty Company, John C. Wellwood, President, sold the six-story modern apartment house on a plot of about six lots, at the northwest corner of 153d Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. The property was held at $250,000 and rents for about $35,000.

The Bronx Market.

The Benenson Realty Company sold the five-story apartment house, on plot 97 by 100, at the northeast corner of Marmion Avenue and Ellsmere Place, acquired last week from the Grand Boulevard Holding Company. The property was held at $120,000.

ACCOUNTANTS NEEDED,

WOMEN AND MEN.

I want to hear from bookkeepers, cashiers, school teachers, office workers, stenographers, and all capable men and women, either with or without bookkeeping experience, who are ambitious to get into higher accounting positions paying

The readjustment of commerce and industry to a peace basis, the reconstruction and reorganization of American business along more efficient lines, the more scientific analysis of costs to meet domestic and world competition, and the necessity for accurate income and excess profits tax reports to the Government have created thousands of new and attractive opportunities for permanent positions in the higher accounting field.

At present we can supply only in a very limited way students and members to fill the numerous requests being received for cost accountants, auditors, junior and senior accountants, comptrollers, &c., &c. Government and business demands have exhausted the available supply of trained men and women.

So, our organization, having the largest staff of accounting and business efficiency experts in the world, is making every possible effort to help meet this unusual situation, and to that end I will interview men or women who desire to qualify for these positions by taking individual home training. This can be done without interfering with their present employment.

APPLICANTS WHO ARE ACCEPTED

will be placed under the direct personal supervision of one of our staff of Certified Public Accountants and thoroughly trained in the special knowledge and practical procedure necessary to qualify for important accounting work.

Address for interview, giving age, position, education, and telephone number. Registrar, Box 320 Times.

"I Know Just The Job For You Men"

MEN are coming to you every day—seeking work. Men in uniform, soon to leave the service. Men in civilian clothes, looking for bigger places. Good men whom you would like to see well placed.

But you cannot give all these men work.

So we address this advertisement to you, that you may send these men to us. That you may tell them of a real proposition where they can make good money—a chance to get in on the ground floor with the fastest growing selling organization in the country.

You can help them to a position where they can make better money than they ever made before—and become associated with a company that any man should be proud to work with. An opportunity, not for New York alone, but for practically any section of the country where the men prefer to work.

The work is selling. And selling, as you know, offers greater opportunities than any other branch of business. The men who make the big money today are salesmen.

They make these incomes because the New Era is the only checkwriter that gives 100% protection at a reasonable price—almost one-half the price of others.

Because it writes the exact amount of your check in a brilliant acid-proof ink, cutting each word into the paper from both sides of the check—producing checks that are proof against pen or acid.

Because the New Era is handy, compact, sturdily made. Easy to carry from desk to desk. Takes up but a few inches of space. So simple that it cannot get out of order. And gives a lifetime of perfect check protection.

Can you think of a stronger set of reasons to explain why business men or professional men are choosing the New Era Checkwriter in preference to any other?

Can you think of a proposition that offers a wider field of opportunity? For business men are becoming wide awake to the need of real check protection. They know only too well how easily even the amateur checkraiser raises ordinary checks — six dollars to sixty—seven to seventy—eight to eighty, and other changes just as simple—this for instance, $10 raised to $50:—

IT is the small checks—the five, ten and twenty dollar checks—that the checkraiser most readily gets hold of—that are most easily raised. Therefore our field is unlimited. Not only large business houses, but the smaller merchants or business men, professional men, or any who carry a checking account, are natural "prospects."

Can't you see what a chance this new Era opportunity offers you to make good money. It's a chance for anyone who, today, is earning less than $3,000 to $5,000 a year. It's a proposition that any man with the right "stuff" in him can sell easily.

TO BUSINESS MEN

Name____________________________

The machine is right—the sales organization back of it is right. And behind it all is a big advertising campaign that is pulling thousands of inquiries from business men who want this New Era Checkwriter.

These inquiries are turned over to our men to sell. That's why the New Era salesmen make more money than salesmen in most any other line.

Save this advertisement; show it to the man who asks you for a position. Tell him to call and see us, or to mail the coupon shown in the corner of this page, for appointment.
